SIX LIVES LOST AS POWDER IGNITES IN QUARRY AT AVALON

Workmen Trapped in Inferno of Flame Following Explosion — Several Critically Injured—Foreman Saves Life by Jumping Into Sea With Clothing Ablaze — Victims Burned

AVALON, Catalina Island, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP).—Six men were fatally burned, and two others critically injured, by flames, when 7,500 pounds of blasting powder became ignited at a rock quarry on the southern end of the island today.

The dead, all of whom apparently lived on the island, were:

Marion Hall, twenty-two; Kenneth Ernest Smith, twenty-three; Peter Hanson, Raymond Lander, Herman Bermudez and Angel Hernandez.

Those seriously burned were Manule Flores and John Halvorson. Hall and Smith died in the flames, the others a few hours later.

HURRY INVESTIGATION

Los Angeles county authorities began a hurried investigation in an effort to determine the cause of the sudden blaze which trapped most of the workmen.

The explosion came while the men, employees at the quarry of the Rohl-Connolly Company, were transferring black powder from twenty-five-pound tin containers to canvas sacks. The sacks were to be packed in a tunnel for blasting down rock.

One of the laborers said there was a sudden puff and in an instant the explosives burst into flames. No detonation was heard. The place was an inferno of flames, which quickly subsided, leaving its victims writhing where they had fallen.

RAN INTO OCEAN

Oscar Larson, foreman, saved his life by running to the ocean, his clothing ablaze, and jumping into the water. Other men tried to follow, Larson said, but stumbled and were seared by the torches of flame.

Lander, one of those fatally burned, stumbled as he raced from the flames and then hurled his wallet containing nearly $500 to safety.

A call for help was radioed to the mainland and three physicians and nurses were placed aboard an airplane and flew to the scene.

DRIVER KILLED ON LOG TRAIN

Engine Leaves Track and Rolls Down Bank—Fireman Badly Injured

NANAIMO, Nov. 12.—Andrew Anderson, of Courtenay, engineer on the Thomson & Clark Logging Company's train, near Bowser, was instantly killed, today, and his fireman, Dave Renwick, of Vancouver, suffered severe injuries and was brought to the Nanaimo Hospital in an ambulance, where it was found he had suffered a broken arm, severe head injuries and minor cuts and bruises.

Tom McKay, head brakeman, was also injured, but refused to be brought to hospital, and was removed to the camp of the company for first aid treatment. Two other men, riding in the cab of the engine, escaped injuries.

ROLLS DOWN EMBANKMENT

Mr. Renwick, in describing the accident, stated they had left with an empty trip of five cars for the logging camp and when about twelve miles from the highway, for some unexplained reason the engine, of seventy-two tons weight, left the tracks, breaking away from the empty cars and rolling down a steep embankment. It turned over several times, and Engineer Anderson was killed instantly. Renwick does not know how he escaped death.

The body of Engineer Anderson was removed to Courtenay, pending an inquest. It is understood his wife and family reside in Vancouver.

DUKE LEAVES FOR TASMANIAN VISIT

Thousands Bid Farewell to King's Son as Victoria State Tour Is Concluded

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 12 (CP via Reuter's).—Glowing farewell tributes were paid the Duke of Gloucester, today, as he left Victoria State, on board H.M.S. Sussex, bound for Tasmania. From there he will go to New South Wales.

Tens of thousands of persons lined the four-mile route along which His Royal Highness, his visit to the centenary celebration here at an end, was driven to board the cruiser. He was given a highly enthusiastic send-off.

CITY HONORS WAR HEROES

Annual Remembrance Day Ceremonies Conducted at Cenotaph Here Sunday

With solemn and impressive ceremonies, Victoria citizens, representatives of church and state, and of the defensive services of the Empire, on Sunday morning paid their tribute to the memory of the men who served and gave their lives in the titanic struggle between nations in the World War of 1914 to 1918.

The ceremonies held here on Remembrance Day were typical of others held in city, town and hamlet all over the British Empire, and drew hundreds of Victoria people to the Cenotaph, where a service of praise was conducted, followed by the customary placing of wreaths at the base of the Memorial, which stands at the entrance to the Parliament Buildings.

REPRESENTATIVE GROUP

Representatives of the navy, army, Province and city, together with naval and militia units, ex-service men and kindred organizations, gathered in parade formation facing the Cenotaph, which was guarded by four sentries, who stood with reversed arms at each corner of the Memorial.

On the stroke of 11 o'clock, a gun signalled the commencement of the two minutes of silence observed by the gathering with heads bared and bowed in reverence. A second gun signalled the close of the period of silence, after which, the general service was commenced with the singing of "O, Canada," and the National Anthem.

The service included the playing of the lament, "The Flowers of the Forest," by a piper of the 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment, a hymn, and the Lord's Prayer. Captain the Rev. F. H. Buck, B.A., M.C., wartime chaplain of the Forty-Sixth

Shoots Two Deer With Single Shot

SPOKANE, Nov. 12 (AP).—Two buck deer, horns locked in a death struggle, were shot and killed by a woman hunter, who closed her eyes and thought she was shooting at one animal.

Mrs. Val Preston related the story of her hunting exploit upon her arrival here today. She and a woman companion saw a buck, partly concealed by brush.

"I closed my eyes and fired," Mrs. Preston said.

Hurrying to the spot, Mrs. Preston was amazed to find the two dead deer.

Warnings of Armed Menace in Germany Renewed in France

New Premier Gravely Concerned by Reports of Nazi's Ability to Produce 900 Planes Monthly —Appeals for Solid Political Support

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP).—Fresh warnings of an armed menace in Germany, coupled with domestic disorders attending the Armistice celebrations, inspired Premier Pierre Flandin tonight to issue an appeal to French political parties to forget their differences.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's air fleet and Germany's reputed ability to produce 900 planes monthly were causing grave concern to the new Premier and his Cabinet.

Defence Ministers of Air, War and the Navy were expected to ask Parliament for additional appropriations, in conformity with Air Minister Victor Denain's warning that "Germany is ready."

Denain, when he took office in February, told Parliament the French air fleet was obsolete, and proved his point during annual air manoeuvres which the army had admitted showed the ease with which an invader could lay waste French cities.

Recent information, assertedly from high military quarters, was to the effect that Germany had factories in operation, some of which were capable of producing thirty planes a day.

Back of the fear of new political dissension was the unrest of the French populace as demonstrated on Sunday during riots accompanying the Armistice celebration.

Citizens Pay Tribute to Soldier Dead

On Sunday morning, Remembrance Day, hundreds of citizens gathered at the Cenotaph at the entrance to the grounds of the Parliament Buildings, to honor the memory of those who gave their lives in the Great War. The above photograph shows a section of the crowd as wreaths were being placed at the Memorial.

SEEK RELEASE OF T. MOONEY

Action Started in U.S. Supreme Court to Set Long-Term Prisoner Free

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—A key for the lock that holds Tom Mooney prisoner was fashioned today by the Supreme Court of the United States, but whether the tribunal will direct that it be used remained a question for the future.

The court, in a four-line order, gave James B. Holohan, warden of the San Quentin, California, penitentiary, forty days in which to show why Mooney's request for permission to file a writ of habeas corpus should not be granted.

Mooney's case has become a heated issue during the eighteen years since he was sentenced on charges of participating in the "Preparedness Day" bombing in San Francisco. Efforts to free him have been ceaseless.

SAYS TESTIMONY PERJURED

Mooney's attorneys, Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York Power Authority; George T. Davis, of San Francisco, and John F. Finerty, of Washington, D.C., contend it has been proved that Mooney was sentenced on perjured testimony, and that the Supreme Court is now the only hope for justice.

The Supreme Court may deny or grant the motion to file the habeas corpus petition, after receiving the State's answer. A denial would end the case, so far as the Supreme Court is concerned.

Airplane Crashes Taking Three Men To Flaming Death

Washington Farmers See Machine Fall in Blazing Mass—Occupants Burned Beyond Recognition —Are Believed to Have Been on Barnstorming Tour From Wenatchee

RITZVILLE, Wash., Nov. 12 (AP).—The possibility was seen tonight that three charred bodies found in a burned airplane west of here today were those of Wenatchee barnstormers, Earl and "Doc" Archers, brothers, and Art Brennin.

Prosecutor E. W. Schwellenbach, of Ephrata, Grant County, said he learned that the three had been at Neppel, a few miles west of the scene of the tragedy, and that one had bought a wrist watch there this afternoon.

Farmers saw the plane falter, turn over in mid-air, crash and burst into flames in York Coulee, twenty miles west of here, about 2:30 p.m.

ARE BADLY BURNED

Sheriff Melvin Oestreich, of Ritzville, Adams County, had the bodies brought here, but identification was impossible. The plane, too, had been burned beyond identification.

A hasty check of airports of Eastern Washington failed to disclose any planes off schedule.

The territory west of here is level for the most part, being composed of basalt eroded by glacial streams. As the weather was clear today, the theory that the plane developed motor trouble was favored here.

NOTED RAILWAY BUILDER DEAD

Sir Donald Mann Passes Away in Eighty-Second Year at Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (CP).—The era of railway expansion in Canada was recalled today with the death of Sir Donald Mann, well-known figure throughout the Dominion since the days when Western Canada's Prairies were first becoming settled.

A man of powerful physique, he rose to a place of prominence as a railway contractor. The contracting firm of Mackenzie & Mann, established in 1885, became widely known for its part in the task of linking far scattered communities with communication lines of steel.

A sudden heart attack proved fatal to the retired railway builder and financier at his home here, early yesterday.

SEES LEAGUE AS SAFETY VALVE

General Smuts Says Open Discussion Cure for War-Fear Complex

LONDON, Nov. 12 (CP).—Recognition of Germany's complete equality with other nations, and friendliness to Japan were warmly urged by General Jan Smuts tonight as he vigorously denounced all talk of war.

Addressing a dinner of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the distinguished South African soldier and statesman pointed to the League of Nations as the medium for removal of the war-fear complex by open discussion.

He suggested that if the European fear obsession was removable only by sanctions, then they should be done on some such limited basis as the Locarno system, within a circumscribed area of those nations interested.

RIDICULES WAR TALK

General Smuts ridiculed the idea that the German people were deliberately preparing for war. He pleaded for recognition of her complete status of equality and declared that Germany's return to the Arms Conference and the League would be a substantial step towards an international disarmament agreement.

He admitted that the situation in the Far East had its dangers, but Manchukuo's establishment was a call to Europe to put her own house in order, he thought. He appealed for the friendliest spirit towards Japan, and concluded with an appeal for full co-operation between the British Empire and the United States.

Runs Amuck When Cow Is Attached

BUDAPEST, Nov. 12 (AP).—Enraged because the family cow was attached for unpaid taxes, Stephen Rejkia, a Hagykallo farmer, today killed three of his children with an axe, seriously wounded a fourth, and then tried to kill his wife.

Neighbors succeeded in overpowering him. Securely chained, he was taken to prison.

EVIDENCE OF LOW WAGES PAID BY CHAIN STORES GIVEN PROBE

Huge Selling Organizations Less Affected by Depression Than Most Industries — Profits Increased and Salaries Meagre—Adjustments Made Under Minimum Wage Acts

Detailed Examination of Many Companies Completed

OTTAWA, Nov. 12 (CP).—Evidence of low wages paid by chain stores was presented to the Mass Buying Commission today, when it opened its inquiry into the merchandising practices of these vast organizations with stores dotting the country.

Fred P. Higgins, Toronto auditor, told of managers of meat and grocery departments in one chain organization of 500 stores, being paid $4 a day and held responsible for all stock. He told of fifteen men averaging $7.34 and 120 women $6.28 for a full week's work. Another organization paid 194 grocery clerks from $4.50 to $25 for a sixty-one-hour week, and 110 women clerks, $7 to $15 for forty-eight hours, with an average wage for men of $10.69 and of women, $10.85.

OTHERS POORLY PAID

Delivery boys worked sixty-six hours for $1.50. Employees for a grocery and fruit chain worked from sixty-five and one-half to eighty-four and one-half hours a week. A married man was employed as a dishwasher at $6 a week and his meals, and a girl as [illegible] for $10 a week [illegible].

At the same time, the auditor said that chain stores survived the depression with less injury than most industries, certainly less injury than manufacturers and farmers. He gave figures to show increasing profits in recent years, and steady dividends and stock bonuses.

TO BE FULLY DEVELOPED

Most of today's evidence was a resume of what is to come, and chain organizations were referred to by letter. Names and figures will come later, Norman Sommerville, commission counsel, promising that the wage scales will be "very fully developed."

"Our investigations," Higgins said, "have revealed that adjustments have been made under minimum wage acts and orders of the minimum wage boards of provinces. In some provinces, in so far as chain stores are concerned, no orders have yet been issued."

Generally speaking, chain store head offices have incomplete records

URGES NEED OF AIRSHIPS

Naval Heads in United States Working for Bigger Naval Force

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP). — Prompt construction of two giant airships, an aircraft carrier and a "flying-deck" cruiser unlike any other ship now afloat, was proposed [illegible] Roosevelt's Aviation Commission.

The recommendations were delivered by a man generally regarded as an Administration spokesman—Chairman Carl Vinson, of the House of Representatives naval affairs committee.

Behind the closed doors the committee also heard Claude Swanson, Secretary of the Navy.

THE NAVY'S NEEDS

"The navy needs more tenders for patrol planes," Swanson said. "It also needs more shore bases for these planes in the localities which are of strategic importance. The function of patrolling the seas for the protection of our lines of sea communications is purely a naval function, of which naval aviation is an essential part."

Swanson declared himself "opposed to a separate (or unified) air force," asserting that "an adequate navy, including its indispensable naval aviation, is the surest defence for the United States and its overseas possessions."

Vinson's statement was inserted in the record as the commission first took up naval aviation. In February, the commission will suggest to President Roosevelt steps necessary for a unified aviation policy.

Briefly, Vinson urged:

1. Construction of one airship to replace the Akron and another to take the place of the Los Angeles.

Arizona Governor Orders Out Troops to Repel Federal Invasion

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 12 (AP).—Commanded to "repeal an invasion" of Arizona's rights, National Guardsmen today were mobilized and ordered by Governor B. B. Moeur to proceed immediately to the site of the Parker Dam to prevent any construction work on the Arizona side of the Colorado River.

The mobilization was ordered when Governor Moeur failed to hear from Washington that work on the project had been held up pending settlement of Arizona's claims.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW

A zone of the Arizona side of the dam site, where Six Companies, Incorporated, is constructing a pile bridge preparatory to actual work on the dam, was placed under martial law, Saturday, by Governor Moeur.

In Washington, Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, said he could "see no reason for the Arizona governor's calling out troops in the Parker am controversy." Half the power to be originated at the dam had been allotted tentatively to Arizona, Ickes said.

Under full authority to reject trespassers in the military zone, the troops will operate on a "war basis" day and night.

Son of Missionaries Is Shot to Death by Los Angeles Negro

Accused Claims Slaying Done in Self-Defence, But Police Disbelieve Story — Think Victim Kidnapped and Later Robbed

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP).—The killing of Lawrence Leonard Lyons, thirty, son of New York missionaries, early today, in Little Harlem here, was confessed, police said, by Russ Griffin, alias George Johnson, nineteen-year-old Negro.

Police Captain A. S. Bradley said Griffin confessed late today to shooting the University of Southern California medical student to death but declared it was in self-defence.

Griffin, police said, asserted he was walking home from a beer parlor armed with two pistols when he met Lyons, and an argument started. Griffin allegedly recounted how Lyons wrested one of the guns from him and shot at him.

SHOT AT POLICE

The Negro youth assertedly describing drawing his remaining pistol and shooting Lyons in the forehead. Griffin admitted, however, fleeing from the scene and exchanging shots with Officers C. E. Drew and J. A. Schiller, Captain Bradley recounted.

Griffin was arrested with Willie Smith, twenty-four, another Negro.

LOST IN WOODS NEAR NANAIMO

Warden Has Party Searching for Charles Spence of Five Acres

NANAIMO, Nov. 12.—Grave fears are entertained for the safety of Charles Spence, twenty-one-year-old hunter, of Five Acres, Nanaimo, by local police and game wardens.

Young Spence, in company with Lawrence Rafter, left on a deer-hunting trip at 5:45 Sunday morning, in the Timberland district, eight miles south of Nanaimo. Rafter and Spence parted company at 8 o'clock and since then nothing has been heard of Spence. Rafter returned to camp before dusk on Sunday night.

A preliminary search party, late on Sunday night, made no progress in a search. This morning, under the leadership of Game Warden Frank Greenfield, a party of ten experienced hunters combed the woods of the Timberlands and Camp Nine slashings until dark, without finding a trace of the missing youth.

He had gone into the woods without a compass and with matches only in an unprotected pasteboard box.

Tomorrow morning Game Warden Greenfield is leaving with a party of some thirty experienced bushmen, in a further search for the missing man.

FORCED TO SHOOT FAITHFUL FRIEND

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP).—Sheriff's deputies today were forced to shoot to death a large police dog that went berserk, when its mistress, Mrs. Charlotte Messanger, seventy-five-year-old recluse, died on the front lawn of her home of a heart attack.

The dog, the deputies reported, stood guard over the body and would not permit anyone to get near the woman. The animal was finally enticed away and locked in Mrs. Messanger's home, but its ferocity continued unabated, and the officers resorted to their guns in order to enter the house.

GLORY ONLY IN AVIATION

Kingsford-Smith Bemoans Poor Returns From Blazing Air Trails

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP).—There may be glory, but there is little cash in most thrilling feats of aviation, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith observed sadly today.

The man who just added an eastward crossing of the Pacific Ocean to his previous westward flight, has set about to sell the Lady Southern Cross, his prized airplane, in order to balance the account books.

"We chaps who blaze air trails have little to show for our deeds, when it comes right down to it. Ill-fate has marked us for its own," said Sir Charles.

PLANE FOR SALE

Previously he had hoped that he could complete a circle flight of the globe by pushing to New York, thence over the Atlantic to Europe and on to Australia.

"I hope I can get $30,000 for the Lady," he said. "She is worth all of that and more, and I'll need that much to repay my sponsors and reimburse myself, as well as buy my passage home."

The attachment that was slapped on the Lady Southern Cross soon after Sir Charles' arrival here has been removed by a compromise out of court.

"But my flying glory?" Sir Charles remarked with a jaunty smile. "For sale—one airplane, which has just flown from Australia. Buyer badly needed. But tomorrow is another day and I am not downhearted."

of wages and hours of labor, the auditor said. As a result of the investigation, one organization made a study of its staff and, "as a result, many adjustments were made, both of increased wages and shortened hours of employment."

IN FINE SHAPE

The commission learned that chain stores have weathered the depression in fine shape. Between 1929 and 1933, six large chains increased gross profits from $11,840,935 to $14,421,416, and net profits from $1,568,845 to $1,730,592. Dividends paid increased from $823,690 to $1,243,597—all on net sales which fell from $64,182,714 to $62,616,029.

The report showed that chain stores received heavy discounts of one kind or another, for which individual merchants were unable to qualify, Higgins said. These ranged from free goods, advertising allowance and quantity discounts, to carload allowances.

STATES CONCLUSIONS

The auditor was led to the following conclusions:

1. Chain store consumer prices are not lower than prices charged by independents to the extent of the impression created by loss leader advertising.

2. Chain store organizations can, and do, purchase more cheaply than independent merchants, but this saving is not wholly passed on to the consumer.

3. A greater spread between cost of goods at the store door and prices charged consumers, is obtained by the chains than by the independents.

GROWTH HAS BEEN RAPID

The growth of Canadian chain stores has been marked since 1926, the commission was told. It was showp that 53.9 per cent of all chain stores, and 67.7 per cent of food chain stores existing in 1930, had begun operations since 1926.

The combined purchases of six large chains for the last fiscal year was $48,106,595. These firms spent $725,809 on advertising.

"Mass buying," said Mr. Higgins, "may be glimpsed from the 1933 purchases of four food chains for the following commodities: Tea, 576,563 pounds from one packer; soup, 4,158,720 cans from one plant; soap, 127,971 cases purchased from one manufacturer; and biscuits, one manufacturer sold $503,754 to the group (of four chains) during the year."

The financial growth of chain organizations also was shown by the auditor. One chain increased its investment, including appreciation of assets, from $40,135 at the time of incorporation to $5,197,152. Another increased its investment from $480,000 to $5,578,771, and another from $881,010 to $1,348,059.

DEPRECIATION ACCOUNTS

The first chain increased its depreciation account from $89,835 to $943,835; the second from $89,532 to $1,374,386, and the third from $22,490 to $323,657.

The first chain increased its sales from $3,461,153 in 1921 to $19,758,368 in 1933; the second from $694,932 in 1921 to $14,219,053 in 1933. The third increased sales from $2,546,833 in 1928 to $3,266,777 in 1933.

The auditor's report showed each of the three chain organizations increased its gross profits over the years, not only in bulk but in mark-up percentage as well.

Mr. Higgins had reports ready on twenty-five chain organizations.

POSITIONS COMPARED

The investigation also touched manufacturers and their position through mass buying by the chains and other merchandising methods. The reports indicated, said Mr. Higgins, that the chain store system of merchandising "seemed to provide the means of correcting what has been called an 'unecomic system of distribution' by eliminating the middleman and thus reducing the spread between the producer and the consumer."

However, the concentration of merchandising totaling many millions of dollars annually in a "relative handful of organizations" had compressed "stupendous power for the propulsion of mass buying." During the last five years the chain system had suffered relatively little, while growers, manufacturers and consumers had suffered tremendously throughout the depression.

Continuing, Mr. Higgins said that gross annual agricultural revenue of Canada had dropped from $1,631,081,000 in 1929 to $710,898,000 in 1932.

In the same period the gross value of manufactured products had fallen from $4,029,371,340 to $2,126,194,555, while salaries and wages in the manufacturing industries declined from $2,032,202,975 to $955,968,683.

COMMERCIAL FAILURES

Commercial failures in 1928 had numbered 2,037, involving assets of $26,583,462 and liabilities totaling $32,455,437. In 1932, however, there had been an increase in commercial failures to 2,420, involving assets valued at $40,604,208 and liabilities of $5,629,303. These figures were reduced, said Mr. Higgins, to support his previous statement that while chain stores had been relatively little affected by the depression, the growerss, manufacturers and consumers had suffered a great deal.

One large food chain doing an annual volume of business of $17,000,000 in Canada, is owned and controlled entirely by United States interests. In another, Mr. Higgins said, "one having a sales volume of $19,000,000, the directors hold less than 4 per cent of the outstanding stock, and 71 per cent of all shares outstanding are registered in the names of United States residents.

EXPANDED RAPIDLY

Absorbing the E. P. Charlton Company, Limited, and the S. H. Knox Company, Limited, in 1912, and then operating thirty-two stores, the F. W. Woolworth Company today has expanded to 136 stores in Canada, J. G. Gibson, chartered accountant of Toronto, told the Royal Commission on Mass Buying here, today. Mr. Gibson was testifying on his investigation into the affairs of the company.

Woolworth's gross profits reached their peak in 1929 with a volume of $8,676,600, but a downward trend was noted in 1930, which continued until in 1933 the gross profit was $6,394,917.

MONEY SENT TO NEW YORK

In the last five years the money transferred from Canadian operations to the parent company in New York, which owns the Canadian concern, amounted to $11,174,302, said Mr. Gibson.

Last year the net profits of the company were $1,960,959, or 21.95 per cent of the cost of goods sold. Dividends paid annually on the burial will be made at Acton, Halton County, in the family plot, where Sir Donald's father, mother and a brother are buried.

Pallbearers are: General J. W. Stewart, of Vancouver; D. B. Hanna, Toronto; A. J. Mitchell, Toronto; W. A. Kingsland, Toronto; J. F. Lash, Toronto; Scott Griffin, Toronto; R. G. O. Thompson, Toronto; C. A. Bogart, Toronto, and Colonel J. B. MacLean, Toronto.

SHOCK TO FRIENDS

Sir Donald, despite his eighty-one years, generally speaking had been in good health, and his death came as a shock to friends. To the end he had retained his forceful personality that had made him the workmen's idol during the early days when the ribbons of steel were being laid across the Dominion. A big two-fisted leader without fear, Sir Donald played a leading part in building up the West.

He was a figure in the world of finance and politics at one period of the last half century, and was a member of that noted partnership, Mackenzie & Mann, which was founded in 1885.

The building firm reached into numerous fields, but transportation work brought Sir Donald his fame. Railway building knew the name of Mann from coast to coast. Broad-shouldered, with a powerful body, Sir Donald was born in Acton in 1853, fifth child in a family of ten.

DEVOUTLY RELIGIOUS

The Mann household was devoutly religious and 365 days a year Donald Mann knelt in family prayer before breakfast. It was a Scottish household of the most rigorous type, and Donald Mann, like his brothers, was brought up in fear of the Lord.

Had his father prevailed, Donald Mann would have become a Presbyterian preacher, not a railroad builder. At eighteen, Donald Mann had decided to quit farming forever, and in the Spring of 1871 he told his father he was leaving. His father said he was welcome to go if he would go to college and study to be a preacher, but the youngster declared all he wanted was to have his trunks carried to the station. His father remaining obdurate, the boy said he would walk to the station and the trunks could be sent afterward. "If you won't go to college," his father declared, "I can't give you any money. But I want you to take this Bible."

Donald Mann obediently tucked the Bible into his grip, went to the station and boarded the train for the West, where he was to make his name.

WORK WAS TOO TAME

Sir Donald's first venture away from home was short lived. He went to Alpena, Mich., where he worked in a lumber camp. He tired of that and took to running a shingle mill near Alpena. The work was too tame and he started on a visit home.

One of his brothers came to him with an idea that they should buy a well-timbered farm near Acton, cut the timber and sell it to the Grand Trunk Railway. As a capitalistic venture it was Sir Donald's first and a failure. At the end of three years, the Mann brothers were able to pay only a portion of their debts. Sir Donald patched matters up as best he could and headed West.

When he hit Winnipeg, in 1879, he found everybody had something to do in one way or another with railways. It took his fancy and he secured a subcontract taking out logs and trimming them into ties for the first section of the road west of Winnipeg. He completed the contract on Christmas Eve, 1881, and found himself launched as a railway contractor.

ENTER PARTNERSHIP

William Mackenzie and Donald Mann first met in 1885, when Donald was operating his railway contract, and Mackenzie was erecting sawmills for the Canadian Pacific Railway. Out of their friendship grew the great business partnership that reigned for many a year. Their first joint job was with the Canadian Pacific in 1887. Two years later he went to Chile to build a railway, but came back to carry on his railway construction work in the West.

When Mann and Mackenzie formed their company they launched on their history-making task, which included construction of the Edmonton, Qu'Appelle, Long Lake and Saskatchewan railway lines. In 1895, Mann obtained a charter for the Lake Manitoba Railway, which became the Canadian Northern.

In 1909, he and his partner secured bond guarantees from the governments of Alberta and Saskatchewan for building branch lines in those provinces. They also negotiated an agreement with the British Columbia Government for a guarantee of Canadian Northern funds to complete the line from Yellowhead Pass to Vancouver, at a cost of $35,000 a mile.

When the last spike was driven in the line that went to Vancouver in 1915, the Mackenzie-Mann interests had built a complete trans-Canada transportation line. Years later it became the Canadian National, being united with the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific.

KNIGHTED IN 1911

In 1911, the partners were knighted and Sir Donald and Lady Mann attended the coronation of King George.

Mining interests grasped Sir Donald's attention on his return to the Dominion, and he assumed directorships on boards of a number of financial organizations. When the Great War broke out he became an honorary colonel of the railway committee of the Department of Militia and Defence.

Not only Canada witnessed activities of Sir Donald Mann. He went to Chile on the request of that country's Government, but refused to construct railways there. He also turned down offers in Ecuador and Peru. Then he toured China and Russia.

MARRIED IN WINNIPEG

Sir Donald's marriage took place in Winnipeg in 1887, his bride being Miss Jennie E. Williams, of that city. One son was born to them.

Sir Donald was a Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

Sir William Mackenzie, Sir Donald's former partner, died in Ontario a number of years ago.

Many legends grew up about the stalwart figure of Donald Mann. One story concerns an incident in China, where the Canadian was challenged to a duel by a pompous Russian count, who took exception to remarks Sir Donald had made. Sir Donald was convinced the challenge must be accepted, but as the man challenged, he had the right to choose his own weapons. He selected broadaxes, which he told the Russian's second were the national weapons in Canada. The Russian's enthusiasm for the duel abated considerably when he was told of this, and the duel did not come off.

Another story concerns his youthful days in Acton, Ontario. The boy who was to become a power in the railroad world was told by his teacher: "Donald, you're the biggest boy in the class. And you'll be the biggest failure unless you mend your ways." The pupil was as often at the foot of his class as any of his fellows.

As he grew up to manhood he was a giant in stature, and a champion at running, jumping and wrestling in the village world.

SENATOR'S TRIBUTE

CALGARY, Nov. 12.—"A fine man with a great big heart who helped the people of Canada a lot in years past. He was a great man for Canada, and I am very sorry indeed to hear of his passing," Senator Pat Burns said when he heard of the death of Sir Donald Mann in Toronto.

"I first met Donald Mann in 1884 and have known him for fifty years," said the senator, himself a pioneer of Western Canada in the cattle business. "I would place him in the forefront of builders of Canada along with Mackenzie, his partner, and Sir Herbert Holt."

Battalion, C.E.F., offered the prayer, and the service was concluded with the singing of the hymn "The Silent Tribute," the sounding of the "Last Post" and "Reveille."

PLACING WREATHS

At the close of the formal ceremony, Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, placed a wreath at the base of the Cenotaph. Wreaths were also placed by representatives of the Bishops of Columbia and Victoria, Premier T. D. Pattullo, United States Consulate, the Royal Canadian Navy; Major-General Ashton, officer commanding the military district; Sir Percy Lake, grand president of the Canadian Legion; Mayor David Leeming; Victoria branches of the Canadian Legion and scores of others.

Prior to the service at the Cenotaph, detachments from the Royal Canadian Navy, the premanent forces, militia units, cadets, Scouts and a large parade of ex-service men marched to the Memorial headed by bands and pipers. At the Memorial were representatives of the I.O.D.E., Girl Guides and other organizations.

Seeking New Words for Old Demand

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Japan's delegation to the three-power naval conversations here spent the day in considering the wording of a reply to British proposals for a compromise on naval limitation, which may be made tomorrow.

The reply will state that equality in principle for Japan is not acceptable, and will request new suggestions which would give the Japanese actual tonnage equality.

STRONG SHOCKS FELT IN THE ARGENTINE

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12 (AP).—Strong earthquake shocks shook buildings today at Campacho, Moldes and French, said dispatches from the Province of Gordoba.

No one was injured by the shocks, but a tornado caused extensive damage about French.

Campacho was almost destroyed by earthquake last June.

Despite the increase of 12.8 per cent in rates some railways in Spain report that revenues continue to decline.

To Decide Future of Golf Club

The future of Macaulay Point Golf Club will be definitely decided tonight, at 8 o'clock, in the Esquimalt Municipal Hall, when the Municipal Council and representatives of the club meet to settle terms of a proposed five-year lease.

At a council session last night, the club officials delivered an ultimatum declaring they would only pay a rental of $1,000 per year. Previously the council had agreed to lease the property to the club for $1,000 annually for the first three years, while a similar rental plus any accrued profits would be paid during the last years of the five-year lease.

The property on which the links stand reverted to the municipality in September, three years' taxes on the land being in arrears.

Fire Follows Explosion in Navy Yard

BOSTON, Nov. 13 (AP).—An acetylene tank exploded in the centre of the Charleston Navy Yard here, shortly after 2 a.m. It could not be learned immediately whether anyone was hurt, but windows were reported broken throughout a wide area surrounding the yard.

The Boston fire department reported that the attendant of the gas plant was missing. The building was on fire, but other structures in the yard had not caught.

The explosion was felt for a distance of six or eight miles.

AWARDED PRIZE FOR SCIENTIFIC CREATION

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Academy of Science today awarded a prize of 3,500 francs ($200) to Irene Joliot-Curie, whose parents gave radium to the world, and Dr. Frederic Joliot, her husband, for the creation of new radioactive substances which, they hope will substitute for radium in the treatment of human ills.

BURSTING TIRE SENDS DRIVER TO HOSPITAL

VANCOUVER, Nov. 12 (CP).—A bursting automobile tire does not have to be on an automobile to cause trouble. As Walter Gray, Vancouver bus driver, was preparing to put a tire on his bus, it exploded and hurled him several feet. He was taken to the hospital, suffering from a fractured arm and severe head injuries.

Lost Life Trying To Save a Purse

MANKATO, Minn., Nov. 12 (AP).—A woman's purse and a display of gallantry cost Clarence Staley, fifty-four, superintendent of the Mankato city parks, his life. Staley attempted to retrieve a woman's purse from a cage on Sunday. A bear bit him and severed his spinal column.

MOTHER OF NINE SWEARS TO FACTS

Troubled with Indigestion and Constipation for Years Relates under Oath how Fruit-a-tives Helped Bring Her New Health and Energy.

Once, Mrs. Normandin, Montreal, Quebec, suffered so from indigestion that life must have been a burden. Now she is so full of life and energy that she can go to dances two or three times a week. Because Mrs. Normandin generously wants others to benefit as she did, she graciously consented to give a statement of her experience and swear to it before a notary so that you would be sure of its truth. In her statement, Mrs. Normandin says,—

"I was sleepy and dizzy after meals. I suffered badly from indigestion. Everything I ate formed a lump in the stomach and gas which caused heartburn. I found that by taking Fruit-a-tives, my condition greatly improved. My indigestion and constipation disappeared and I felt much better. I do not hesitate in recommending Fruit-a-tives to any one. I am 36 years of age and the mother of nine children. I can go out to a dance two or three times a week and still be lively and energetic all day."

Remember, Fruit-a-tives is different. It has for over a quarter of a century brought lasting relief to thousands of men and women from indigestion, constipation, sick-headaches, etc. That is why, today, Fruit-a-tives is the largest selling remedy of its kind in Canada.

Try Fruit-a-tives right now. See how their tonic effects will give you new health, new youth, new happiness.

All Doubt Removed Of Fate of Missing Canoeist of Ontario

Diary Washed Up Clinches Identification of Body as That of John Smith, Who Set Out to Cross Atlantic

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Nov. 12 (CP).—A tin can came to the Smiths of Peterborough today and brought with it confirmation of tragedy bright with courage. Found on the shore of Red Bay, Newfoundland, it contained the blurred pages of a notebook twenty-four-year-old John Smith bought at a local stationery store just before he set out last June 18 on a journey designed to finish in fame, and which ended in death. "Log of the Pride of Peterborough" was scrawled in large red letters across its inside cover.

ENTRY DISPELS DOUBT

The Pride of Peterborough was the slight canoe in which John Smith hoped to paddle from Peterborough to Peterborough, from Ontario to England. Ever since a battered body was picked up at Long Point, Port au Port, Newfoundland, September 6, his family refused to believe him dead. The body was clad in a rubber safety-suit, which Smith did not possess when he left home. But one entry in the log dispelled doubt:

"July 17—Left Rockcliffe Hall. Was saluted by whistle. Heavy gale from astern. Put on and wore safety-suit donated by Captain Bowen. Kept very dry and comfortable in it."

The Rockcliffe Hall was a vessel he had boarded in the broad lower reaches of the St. Lawrence the previous night.

A matter-of-fact record of the days and nights spent in negotiating the inland waters to the sweep of the gulf is included in the log. The can, sent by Newfoundland Wreck Commissioner A. B. Harding, also contained five emergency flares, two of which had been burned.

Smith dismissed casually his passage of the St. Lawrence Rapids. His conquest of the Long Sault is chronicled in eighteen words, although he was the first canoeist in history to run the north channel and live:

"June 25, 9 a.m.—Left for Cornwall. Weather fine. Came through Long Sault Rapids. Took worst channel. Took in three inches of water after turning around twice."

Recording his shooting of turbulent Split Rock Falls, he wrote the next day: "Kept too far out and got in worst channel. Even worse than Long Sault. Shipped three inches of water."

On the last day of June Smith took some time out to make a rescue attempt. That was near Three Rivers. "Arrived one and a half minutes after a twelve-year-old boy under for third time. Dove in and combed forty feet square, but owing to being misinformed as to where he went under, was unable to save him."

The last entry is dated July 19. On July 20 Smith set out to cross the gulf and was never seen alive again.

Kipling's Poetry Reveres Australia's War Heroes

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 12 (AP).—Rudyard Kipling, world-renowned poet of the British Empire, has composed a new ode closely linked with Armistice Day. It was written in connection with the dedication by the Duke of Gloucester of Melbourne's "Shrine of Remembrance," and reads:

So long as memory, valour, and faith endure
Let these stones witness through the years to come,
How once there was a people fenced secure
Behind great waters girdling a far home,
Their own and their land's youth ran side by side
Heedless and headlong as their unyoked seas—
Lavish o'er all, and set in stubborn pride
Of judgment nurtured by accepted peace.
Thus suddenly, war took them—seas and skies
Joined with the earth for slaughter. In a breath
They, scoffing at all talk of sacrifice,
Gave themselves without idle words to death,
Thronging as cities throng to watch a game,
Or their own herds moved southward with the year,
Secretly, swiftly, from their ports they came,
So that before half earth had heard their name
Half earth had learned to speak of them with fear;
Because of certain men who strove to reach
Through the red surf the crest no man might hold,
And gave their name forever to a beach,
Which shall outlive Troy's tale when time is old;
Because of horsemen, gathered apart and hid—
Merciless riders whom Megiddo sent forth
When the outflanking hour struck and did
Then close and bar the drove-roads to the north;
And those who, when men feared the last March flood
Of Western war had risen beyond recall,
Stormed through the night from Amiens and made good,
At their glad cost, the breach that periled all.
Then they returned to their desired land—
The kindly cities and plains where they were bred—
Having revealed their nation in earth's sight.
So long as sacrifice and honor stand,
And their own sum at the hushed hour shall light
The shrine of these—their dead.

RENOVATIONS AT BUILDINGS

New Quarters Planned for Welfare Branch With Incidental Decorations

British Columbia's Legislative Buildings were in the throes of another muscular contraction, yesterday, designed to make new office quarters for the director of social welfare, Dr. H. M. Cassidy, and his staff. Redecorating of the public rotunda in the library, and the painting of main corridors were also under way.

Like a biological cell dividing itself for purposes of growth, the general office of the deputy provincial secretary's staff is to be cut in two. One part will remain as a general office for that department, while the other will be used for the staff of the new branch of the welfare department.

MUCH-MOVED INSPECTOR

School inspectors occupying the room adjoining that of the Minister of Education were ejected, and that office will be made over for the use of Dr. Cassidy, it was said. One inspector has been moved five times, in similar hunts for additional space.

For some days painters have been busy brightening up the main corridors of the buildings, with white paint. Redecoration of the archives and library has been commenced, and may be completed this week.

Each fresh addition to the existing personnel of the pile serves to re-emphasize the fact that present accommodation is heavily overtaxed. British Columbia architects have performed miracles in conservation of space, but little by little the overflow of public offices is finding its way out into wooden annexes on Superior Street, and elsewhere.

FLYER PLANS TO SHATTER RECORD

Pangborn Announces He Will Girdle Globe in 104 Hours—Present Record 186 Hours

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 12 (AP).—Clyde Pangborn, American aviator, said today he is planning to fly around the world in 104 hours.

Pangborn said he would fly a plane designed by Vincent Burnelli, Italian-American designer, which is now under construction. He plans only two stops—Moscow and Chita, Siberia.

Pangborn and Colonel Roscoe Turner finished third in the recent London to Melbourne air race.

The present record for an around the world flight is held by Wiley Post, who made it alone in 7 days 18 hours 49 1-2 minutes last year.

MORTGAGE TO BE RECTIFIED

Court Decides That Omission of House From Document Unintentional

Judgment was given by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson, in the Supreme Court here, yesterday, in favor of the plaintiff in the case of William Howard Elkington vs. Ruth Willett. The action was taken by way of a stated case. No evidence was called, the proceedings being confined to argument by counsel on points of law connected with the matter in dispute.

In deciding the case, in which there had been a mistake in the giving of a mortgage on property, the court complimented J. Y. Copeman and his client for the fair way in which they had met the situation. Lindley Crease, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff, seeking rectification of the mortgage.

In 1932, the plaintiff lent the late W. A. Willett $2,000, upon the verbal agreement to secure the amount by mortgage of his residence and adjoining lands. Mr. Willett was then employed by Leather & Bevan, the plaintiff's agents, and the plaintiff left the preparation of the mortgage to Mr. Willett, who shortly after told the plaintiff the mortgage had been executed. The plaintiff gave no further attention to the matter until after the death of Mr. Willett, in March, 1933, when the information came to Mr. Copeman, in preparing for probate of the will of Mr. Willett, that the mortgage covered Lots 4 and 5 of the property, but did not cover Lot 2, on which the house stood.

COVERED HOUSE

The parties concerned in the stated case before the court conceded that Mr. Willett had always spoken of the mortgage covering the house, and had so informed his wife shortly before his death.

Mr. Copeman said that Mrs. Willett did not personally wish to oppose the plaintiff's claim, but that as her husband had died insolvent, she had been advised that she should raise the defence of the statute of frauds and any other legal points that might avail the creditors.

Mr. Willett had not a registered title to Lot 2 until 1930, but he had an unregistered conveyance for some time previous.

Mr. Crease contended that while there was evidently a mutual mistake, the matter could be rectified, even though the agreement for a mortgage was only a verbal one, provided the agreement was corroborated, as in this case.

Mr. Copeman took the position that the plaintiff had been negligent in not looking into the matter, and that the omission of Lot 2 from the mortgage was not a matter of mistake, but was due to the fact that the title at the time was imperfect.

The court reached the conclusion that, while Mr. Willett had not a registered title, he had some title, even if imperfect, and that the intention was to have placed the mortgage on the house for what it was worth. He felt there had been a mistake. He gave judgment for the plaintiff with costs out of the estate.

U.S. WRITERS ARE WELCOMED HERE

American Visitors Are Entertained by Local Authors' Society—Judge L. D. Mahone Speaks

Headed by Judge L. D. Mahone, M.A., Ph.D., of Portland, president of the League of Western Writers, a party of distinguished American writers visited Victoria on Sunday and Monday.

The visitors, Judge Mahone, Miss Pamelia Pearl Jones, of the faculty of the University of Washington, secretary of the writers' league, and Dr. Emma Wing Thompson, of Seattle, were welcomed on their arrival here by representatives of the First Canadian Chapter, League of Western Writers, and were later tendered an informal reception at the Empress Hotel.

Judge Mahone, as guest speaker in Metropolitan United Church on Sunday evening, spoke of the friendly relations existing between Canada and the United States, and of the particular bond as it exists among writers throughout the world.

Explaining that, within recent weeks, he had been able to convince publishers and booksellers that what they put into the minds of the rising generation will influence for good or evil, Judge Mahone reported that many magazines and books had been removed from bookstalls as unfit for the youth of the country.

A meeting of the League of Western Writers was held, yesterday, at the Empress Hotel, when many topics were discussed.

ARMISTICE OBSERVED

Christ Church Cathedral Filled to Capacity at Special Service

Christ Church Cathedral was filled to overflowing, Sunday afternoon, for the special Remembrance Day service, which was attended by public dignitaries, veterans, naval and military units, and a representative gathering of citizens.

Rev. E. F. Church, pastor of the Metropolitan United Church, delivered the sermon, taking his message from the life of St. Paul.

It was braver to remember war and dwell on the courage, the ability, and the strength of those who had died because of their belief that they were fighting a battle to end wars, than it was to try and forget the horrors of that ghastly holocaust in a mad merry-go-round of pleasure, the pastor said.

People would have to dig deeper than they had to end war, he stated. Sentiment was only the first stage toward peace. Today, people thought of war and talked peace, while politicians made speeches about peace and spent millions on war. There was a ray of hope in the movement that had started to bring about peace, and it was man's desire for universal brotherhood that would quieten the fever of war, Mr. Church believed.

BAND PRESENT

The band of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., led by C. A. Raine, played the accompaniment for the hymns.

The service was opened with a brief silence in tribute to the fallen heroes. This was followed by the procession of the colors to the chancel. Colors represented were: Rainbow Company, Sea Cadets, Blue Ensign; Victoria Association, Boy Scouts, Union Jack; Victoria Association, Girl Guides, Union Jack; Army and Navy Veterans of Canada, White Ensign; Naval Veterans of the Canadian Legion, White Ensign; Army and Navy Veterans of Canada, Union Jack; Victoria District Council of the Canadian Legion, Legion Ensign; Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, Legion Ensign; British Campaigners' Branch, Union Jack; Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, Legion Ensign. The colors were deposited in the chancel, where they remained throughout the service, when they were returned to the color-bearers.

ORDER OF SERVICE

The hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," was sung following the procession of colors. This was followed by a prayer, given by Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, pastor of Centennial United Church. Rev. G. A. Reynolds, pastor of First Baptist Church, read the lesson, after which the congregation sang "Lord of Heaven, and Earth, and Ocean." This was followed by the sermon by Mr. Church, who was chaplain to the First Engineers, C.E.F. "O Valiant Hearts" was the closing hymn.

At the close of the final hymn, "Last Post" was sounded and then "Reveille." The congregation then sang the National Anthem, and Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, pronounced the blessing.

Among the dignitaries present were Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor, and Mrs. Johnson, who were accompanied by Commander G. C. Jones and Mrs. Jones, and Capt. W. H. Molson and Mrs. Molson; Premier T. D. Pattullo and members of his Cabinet; Mayor David Leeming and members of the aldermanic board, and local naval and military officers.

"We've Had Our Telephone Put In Again"

"WHAT A CELEBRATION!" said Edgar Gubbling. "We've had our telephone put in again. Naturally, we're rejoicing, and all our neighbors seem happy about it, too.
"We're glad because of the great convenience of having a telephone in the home. I suppose our neighbors are glad for our sake, but I suspect that they're also glad because we won't be running into their homes at all hours to use their telephones. They've been very nice about it, but I'm afraid we've made ourselves a bit of a nuisance."

SIR DONALD MANN

The late Sir Donald Mann was, at one time, a well-known figure in British Columbia, where he was a constant visitor during negotiations with the McBride Government when the building of the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway was projected, and during the course of its construction. He was a rugged personality, a man of few words, and during his active career an indomitable worker at whatever venture he undertook. His earliest experiences were in lumbering, a task which developed a physique that stood him in good stead throughout his active years.

His partnership with the late Sir William Mackenzie is a part of the railway history of the country. It lasted from 1885 until the Government took over the interests they owned. The two men were possessed of optimistic vision about the future development of Canada. Through their enterprise thousands of miles of railway were constructed in the Dominion. Their interests became manifold and their names as builders were known and respected far afield. It was in 1911 that the honor of knighthood fell to both their lots in recognition of their transportation developments.

The late Sir Donald Mann, despite a seemingly rough exterior, had a heart of gold. He was a pioneer of the type ready to stand any hardship, and he had the courage that was the chief factor in the success he achieved. There were those who said that his partnership with Sir William Mackenzie was one of brawn and brains, but those who knew Sir Donald best knew that he was a man of more than average ability and vision. It could not have been otherwise or else he would never have been the builder he was. A fine athlete, a good sportsman and a firm friend, Sir Donald had a host of admirers throughout the Dominion who will sincerely mourn his passing.

THE COMING MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN

With only a month to elapse before the election for Mayor and aldermen is held, there is a seeming apathy regarding the municipal situation that is not healthy. These are times when men and women are wanted in office who have the best interests of the community at heart, who are willing and able to devote their energies to municipal affairs and whose previous training fits them for the task. The circumstances that prevail affecting taxation, and because of it the large amount of property that has reverted to the city, make the municipal problem one that should be everybody's concern. At such a time one expression of civic interest is indicated by the character of those who offer themselves for election.

So far very few candidates are in the field for the municipal contests of next month. The paucity of these is regrettable, for usually at this time of the year the air is humming with discussion of civic problems. It is a serious era in the conduct of all government, a time when every energy should be bent to the task of reducing taxation, and by that sound and substantial means aiding in the work of restoring prosperity. The time has come, too, for a redistribution of civic taxation so that the vast burden of collections for municipal administration will not continue to fall on the property holders alone. That is the biggest problem of the immediate future, one evident in every municipality of the province, for in each there is found a growing roll of reverted land. Until there is readjustment of municipal taxation, through provincial co-operation, the outlook will continue to grow more serious all the time.

Municipal governments are simply trustees who are acting for the Province within organized districts. They are, to all intents and purposes, carrying on the task of administration on behalf of the Province, and they can only do so efficiently to the extent that they are equipped for the work by provincial legislation. The Province has as big a stake in the welfare of municipalities as it has in unorganized territory—a bigger stake indeed, for it is from the people, or through the work of the people, that it derives all revenue, and an overwhelming percentage of the population is within municipalities. The task would seem to be to indicate to the Provincial Government that its own welfare is bound up in the welfare of the municipalities to a degree that does not seem to be appreciated. Were there statesmanlike realization of this the task of a readjustment of taxation would have been entered upon long ago.

There is the problem, too, of deciding with some measure of finality what are civic responsibilities affecting unemployment. This whole question has been in a makeshift stage with fluctuating purposes and policies at work. Cities, owing to the situation created by the reverted land problem, have very limited powers of creating work and wages to meet emergent conditions. The situation that has developed is such that municipalities are finding the task of meeting their share of unemployment relief more difficult with each succeeding year. The experience in the matter of unemployment has now been so prolonged that better methods of coping with it should have been evolved, and especially methods which will not place any unduly great burden on any administration. These two problems of unemployment and the need for taxation readjustment demand the attention of all those who are concerned about civic welfare.

A policy for the future that is now being discussed is that of deciding upon ways and means for promoting the tourist traffic which is of such value to this municipality. It is obvious that the yearly influx of tourists is dependent, to some extent, on economic conditions. It is, however, dependent, as well, on the facilities that are provided for their entertainment and recreation. It is only on rare occasions that anything is planned here to prolong the stay of tourists in our midst. There is, so far, no settled policy of steady development of the assets that Victoria enjoys so as to make this city a centre to which tourists will pay prolonged visits, and through which the number of those who come here will increase steadily. That is a policy which should be devised if this city is to maintain and expand its claim as a tourist centre. It is a matter in which the good will, the energies and the active participation of all citizens should be centred. Admirably equipped as Victoria is in the matter of hotel accommodation, it is lack of foresight that has not led to our hotels being constantly filled, at least during the Summer months.

The future of Victoria depends very largely on the activities of its own citizens and the singleness of purpose with which they are endowed. It is for that reason that the apparent apathy affecting the forthcoming municipal elections must be deplored. Representatives of the very best of our citizenship should already be in the field for municipal office. It is the type that stands for office that determines the extent of public interest. It is the best type, too, that can be depended upon to solve the problems with which the city is confronted. A reawakening of civic interest is needed, and no time is more opportune than on the eve of a municipal election.

Our Mayor and aldermen have difficult tasks ahead in pursuit of which they need the active co-operation of the citizens. They should be able to show, when they speak on such matters as tax readjustment and the distribution of the responsibility for unemployment relief, that they have the whole body of property owners behind them. It is just as important, too, when plans are being devised for the development of the tourist traffic, that there should be oneness of sentiment among the people. A civic community that is playing at cross purposes is unlikely to accomplish much, for there is lack of unanimity in the character of civic patriotism. It is that patriotism that is desirable where municipal advancement is sought, and that is a thought that might be kept to the fore now that another municipal campaign is at hand.

WHERE AIR DEVELOPMENT LAGS

Canada had no entrant in the great Mildenhall-to-Melbourne Air Derby. Many countries of the Empire—England, Scotland, Ireland, Australia and New Zealand—have been heard from this year as writing new feats into the annals of aviation. The United States, Italy, France and Holland are placing themselves constantly on the aerial map in a way which, at least this year, there has been no attempt in Canada to emulate. There is no lack of daring pilots here. There are the materials available at home for the building of the finest types of airplanes. All the essentials are present, yet Canada lags behind.

It is true that the airplane is being used for development work in the North, and there have been many stirring tales of flights in connection with this task. In that field of work Canada is well to the fore. In long distance and speed flying our people are doing very little. There are very few commercial flying interests in the country, and yet such would seem desirable considering the long distances that could be so shortened for traffic purposes were there greater enterprise shown. There was a time, some years ago, when this country seemed to be growing air-minded. Our people have not kept up with that promise. How we have lagged behind is commented on by The Winnipeg Tribune as follows:

"In the realm of spectacular achievement Canada is simply not in the picture at all. No London-to-Melbourne flying, no speed flying, no long-distance records, no non-stop records, no overseas flights, nothing of any kind to put Canada into the world air picture. Trans-Pacific and trans-Atlantic developments are left to others. Speed flying honors are held by Great Britain and Italy. Canada lags in every way. . . . Until the Government changes its ideas about keeping flying in Canada more or less a Government monopoly, Canadians will be forced to admire the achievements of the rest of the Empire without ever a chance to cheer for one of their own."

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Speaking much also is a sign of vanity; for he that is lavish of words is a niggard in deed.—Raleigh.

A number of years ago a Scottish professor named Drummond wrote a book which brought at least temporary fame to the author. Professor Drummond demonstrated by logical analysis or deduction that natural law was applicable to the spiritual as well as to the physical world. The book, "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," we fear, is not widely read in these somewhat sceptical days, but the name Drummond has been perpetuated, and may become celebrated, by a professor in the British Columbia University. Our Professor Drummond actually has had the audacity to challenge Mr. Gerry McGeer, in an epistle to the press, to define the meaning of the term Social Credit.

It appears that the candidate for almost every position in the gift of the voters of British Columbia had challenged the bold professor to a public debate on current politics and economics and that the professor in his epistle has accepted the challenge, subject to certain conditions. There are a number of conditions annexed to the acceptance of the gladiatorial combat. One of the conditions is that there shall be no quotations from the Scriptures and no rhetorical fireworks of any kind; but the primary condition is that Mr. McGeer shall explicitly define the meaning of the somewhat obscure term Social Credit.

* * *

We thank the learned and daring professor for imposing that essential condition, and believe many people interested in the science of government and fundamental economics will join us in offering thanks. The question is one which should be answered, for we have heard and read much about social and other credits, and confess we know practically nothing about the meaning of the term or the purposes of those who seem eager to apply its principles to the science of government. Indeed, we know that even Mr. McGeer, when he went down to Ottawa a few months ago to enlighten a parliamentary committee on the matter, confessed that he knew little or nothing about the meaning or the connotations of the term.

* * *

Social credit, therefore, seems to be an abstract science. It is merely a theory to be toyed with by political philosophers and applied as an experiment. In that respect social credit bears a close resemblance to President Roosevelt and his professors' New Deal. It can be tried, and if it fails something else can be tried. But our provincial Demosthenes is a fighting Irishman as well as an eloquent debater. When the members of the Canadian parliamentary committee laughed at him and rejected his social credit schemes as a quack remedy for the depression, he did not pack his bag, jump on a train and come back home. He packed his bag, jumped on a train and debarked in Washington. Like another eminent evangelist, when his scheme of salvation was rejected by his own people he presented it to the Gentiles.

* * *

Now Mr. McGeer, after the manner of all reformers, has his disciples who follow him about and make notes of his acts and proceedings. So there was issued to some of the newspapers a dispatch stating that an eminent United States Senator was so deeply impressed by Mr. McGeer's presentation of the case for social credit that at the next session of Congress he would offer a resolution suggesting its adoption by the government. Congress met in session, but the resolution was not presented. We do not suggest that the seed sown by the social credit leader all fell upon stony ground and withered and died. Some of it may have fallen upon fertile soil and brought forth fruit. We do not know. Possibly the Senatorial convert may have been swept away in the late political landslide. If the New Deal and succeeding experimental deals fail, there may be a chance that the President in desperation may adopt social credit as a final and forlorn hope.

* * *

We shall watch with interest for Mr. McGeer's exposition of the term social credit and read with greater interest reports of the debate (if any) between the doughty political gladiator and the meek but learned professor; but we believe we shall hear no more about the United States government adopting social credit. The President's mind is concentrated on other things than abstractions. Mr. Roosevelt's pet project is the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, and some of the members of his government are advocating closer and more profitable trade relations with Canada. Agents of the United States government are running to and fro between Washington and Ottawa for the purpose of trying to find out what the feelings of Canadians, officially and privately, are upon these subjects. The New Deal is said to have its variants. One of those variants seems to be the possible advantages of closer business and neighborly relations with the people of Canada; but thus far there has been no manifestation of good faith by reduction of the United States tariff walls. While awaiting developments, there has occurred to our mind a pregnant sentence of the Prime Minister, "Let us wait and see."

TWO ASPIRANTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Ald. Walter Luney and F. J. Crowhurst Swell Candidates' Total to Six

Ald. Walter Luney and F. J. Crowhurst announced their candidatures yesterday for the aldermanic board. Their entrance into the field swells the total civic aspirants to six for ten vacancies on the City Council and School Board.

Alderman Luney was first elected to the council two years ago, and during his term has been chairman of the fire wardens committee, which chiefly had to deal with the wage dispute, the fight for lower insurance rates, and improvements to the fire-fighting system.

He also is a member of the finance committee, the water board and the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Mr. Crowhurst, before coming to this city in 1929, was mayor of Boissevain, Man., for two years, and prior to that was alderman for six years. He first sought public office here as a councillor in Saanich, serving one term in 1930.

Other candidates in the field are Mayor David Leeming, seeking a fourth term; Mrs. Alice McGregor, and Ed Williams, aspirants for the council, and Mrs. D. L. McLaurin, school trustee candidate.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. When blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

OBJECTION IS TAKEN TO POOL

Fraser Valley Independents Suggest Pooling Be Struck Out of Milk Scheme

Independent milk producers of the Fraser Valley renewed objections before the Provincial Marketing Board, yesterday, to arbitrary pooling of any part of their returns in a marketing plan. They suggested, through J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., that pooling be left out of the written scheme to be approved by the Provincial Marketing Board, and that the commodity milk board to be set up adjust the question after consultation with all producers.

The Provincial Marketing Board has power, meanwhile, to insert a pooling clause on any basis its sees fit, or to leave it out. The board has not yet signified what its intentions are in this respect. Its next step will be to hear representatives of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, speaking for organized producers in the Lower Mainland area.

Negotiations, in other words, continue without finality yet on the issue.

Hothouse tomato and cucumber growers of Lower Vancouver Island will meet the Provincial body today, with a revised marketing plan.

"LEST WE FORGET"

God breathed a radiant from the hue,
In flaming red the poppies grew,
O'er mounds, where heroes are resting,
O'er fields where the larks are nesting.

Silently, in strife a soul has bled,
Silently the unseen tears are shed,
Where our sons are each laid low.
In the field where the poppies grow.

Gently the wind in lyric tunes,
Breathing its melodies, o'er the dunes,
In symmetry, to and fro,
In the flds where the poppies grow.

In deepest silence, through the night,
The moonbeams glisten o'er crosses white,
Each broken arrow, each unstrung bow,
Lies immortal where the poppies grow.

JEWS AND ISRAELITES

Sir,—I would like, with your kind permission, to supplement my letter of last week with a few notes on the use of the term "Jew" for "Israelite." We have been told that the Jews were those who returned from the captivity, and that they numbered 40,000. If I were to say that the Jews today are those who have returned to the land, and that they number, say, 150,000, I would be just about as correct. In fact, as everyone knows, there are millions of Jews living in other parts of the world today, and the situation in the days of Ezra was precisely the same. It will be said they were not Jews, but Israelites; but the fact is that in those days, and right down to our own time, the term "Jew" is synonymous with "Israelite," and has been used by writers and speakers of unquestionable authority. To quote a few, it is so used in the books of Esther, Ezra, Nehemiah, Daniel, Kings and Chronicles, by Josephus, the Apostle Paul, and the Lord Jesus himself. And there is much more in the use of the word than mere conformity to popular usage. A "Jew" is a "Judean," one belonging to the Kingdom of Judah, in which was centred all the hopes and aspirations of the faithful in Israel, and it is worthy of note that right from the time when the ten tribes separated themselves, those among them who remained faithful to the God of their fathers joined themselves to the house of Judah. See 2 Chronicles ii, 13-16, and xv, 9.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of November 13, 1884)

Buggy Accident—While J. Baird and another person were driving along Humboldt Street on Sunday night, in the darkness, the buggy struck a rock jutting out from the side of the road, throwing the occupants out and damaging the vehicle slightly. Mr. Baird sustained a fracture of the arm at the wrist, and was attended by Dr. Milne. Just at this intersection, the electric light does not shine, and places the driver in a dangerous position.

Chinese Theatre—Not to be behind the times, a syndicate of Chinese merchants are making arrangements for the building of a large brick theatre immediately in the rear of King Tye Company's building. As soon as plans are prepared, contracts for the building will be signed and the work pushed rapidly to completion. The intention is to have a seating capacity of about 1,000, and to make the appearance of the interior correspond to the general character of the building.

Y.M.C.A. Note.—Messrs. Davis and Walker were very successful in securing subscriptions to the Young Men's Christian Association, yesterday.

Local Improvements.—Carlo Bossi has commenced the construction of a three-story brick building at the corner of Blanshard Street and Pandora Avenue. The building will be utilized as an hotel, while the lower floors will be for stores.

Mrs. R. Armstrong Claimed by Death In Local Hospital

Mrs. Robert Armstrong, formerly Miss Gertrude Carter, aged nineteen years, passed away Sunday, at St. Joseph's Hospital. She was a native daughter of Victoria.

She is survived by her husband and an infant daughter, at 834 Courtney Street; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carter, 473 Superior Street; six sisters, Mrs. John MacDonald (Nanaimo), Mrs. James Chalmers (Vancouver) and Grace, Marguerite, Marion and Dorothy, at home; and a brother, Clifford, at home.

The funeral will take place this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at Sands Mortuary Chapel, and the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

RESTRICTIONS ARE REMOVED

Free Transfer of Currency and Credits Abroad Restored by U.S. Gov't

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Restrictions upon transactions in foreign exchange, imposed when the United States Treasury was initiating its attempt to regulate the value of the dollar abroad, were removed today by Secretary Henry Morgenthau.

The requirement that Treasury permission be obtained for shipments of currency and transfers of credit abroad was eliminated, and in its stead was substituted one that those dealing in sums exceeding $5,000 in any week report to the nearest Federal Reserve Bank, so that a tab might be kept upon movements of capital.

Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, assistant secretary of the treasury, said the new order would permit people "to take their money out of the country" whenever they desire to do so without asking Government permission.

VIEW IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Financial circles here received with general satisfaction, tonight, the news that the Treasury of the United States has lifted the ban on the export of currency and capital.

It was considered that the United States had provided an excellent example, which, if followed by other countries, would do a great deal toward regulation of exchanges, resulting in a freer flow of international trade.

REACHING A SLAM AGAINST PSYCHIC BIDS

Although there is no doubt that the repeated use of psychic bids against strong opposition gains but little, and frequently loses a lot, there are times when psychic and bluff bids make the task of the adversaries very difficult. If the psychic bidder is lucky and either has a strong escape suit of his own or finds one in his partner's hand, he will not get into much trouble and very often will make the opponents stop at game when there is a laydown slam, or stop at a part-score when there is a game. On the hand below, however, West's psychic did not work because of the very fine bidding of his opponents.

West, dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ Q J ♥ K 8 5 ♦ A Q J 6 ♣ K Q 5 3
♠ 10 8 2 ♥ 7 4 ♦ 10 9 5 4 ♣ J 10 9 6	N W E S	♠ A 9 7 6 5 4 3 ♥ 9 6 3 ♦ 8 2 ♣ 7
	♠ K ♥ A Q J 10 2 ♦ K 7 3 ♣ A 8 4 2

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

West	North	East	South
1 ♣ (1)	1 ♦ (2)	Pass (3)	2 ♣ (4)
Pass	2 NT	3 ♠	4 ♥ (5)
Pass	5 ♥ (6)	Pass	6 ♥ (7)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1. Even though there was a possibility that East, who had not as yet had an opportunity to bid, might hold a strong defensive hand, West felt that with his weak holding the situation was desperate, and chose the lowest ranking suit so that a possible out could be found while the bidding was still at the level of one.

2. North, with not much strength in either of the major suits, decided to overcall with one diamond rather than double for a takeout.

3. East did not know as yet that his partner's bid was psychic, and because of the sparsity of honors in his hand did not make a free bid, feeling that he could show his long spade suit on a subsequent round.

4. With a partner strong enough to overcall when vulnerable, South was sure there was at least a game in the hand. He overcalled in the opponents' bid suit to guarantee that the bidding would not die under game and thus to assure himself that he would have sufficient opportunity to ascertain just where the hand should be played.

5. The three-spade bid increased the difficulty of South's task. The bidding was now much too crowded for South's peace of mind, but he had no choice but to show his heart suit at this point.

6. A very fine bid, indeed, by North. He now realized that West's opening club bid must have been a psychic and that South, in order to bid hearts at the level of four-odd when vulnerable, after previously having overcalled in the opponents' bid suit, must have some sort of diamond fit. North was worried about two possible spade losers, and therefore only bid five hearts, inviting the slam if South could take care of the spade situation.

7. South, of course, welcomed the sudden signs of life shown by his partner. North's five-heart bid almost certainly marked him with the heart king, and his two-no trump bid indicated a reasonably good diamond suit and at least one honor, if not more, in clubs. There must be some sound play for the slam after North's invitation. North, of course, could have passed the four-heart bid if he had not held a good hand.

The slam was an absolute laydown against any opening. Actually West opened a spade. East won the trick with the ace and shifted to a club, and South was able to claim the balance of the tricks.

TOMORROW'S HAND

Russian Enigma Is Topic of Inspiring Address by Divine

Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing Gives Informative Lecture on Recent European Tour—Communism Is Challenge to Christian World

"THE theme of Russia is as inexhaustible as any I know. One comes away with the question in his mind, 'Can they succeed without the directing hand of God?'" This was the opening and closing note of a most inspiring address given by Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, of Vancouver, on "Russia, the Great Question Mark of Europe," before an audience of more than 1,000 persons in the Metropolitan United Church last night. Herbert Simpson was the chairman, and Rev. E. F. Church introduced the speaker.

"No one should go to Europe now in search of pleasure. Europe is a great laboratory in which great experiments are being carried out," Dr. Brewing stated, in his opening remarks.

"Everywhere one is confronted with the question, 'Did you see what you wanted to see, or just what they wanted to show you?' Russia is a vast country and no one could see it all, even in three years, not to mention three weeks. Nevertheless, a week in Leningrad, another week in Moscow, and a third week traversing 1,000 miles of rural territory are quite sufficient for an observant person to form some conclusions and bring away with him some thought-provoking material," the speaker continued.

Dr. Brewing told of the numerous bread queues to be found in Russian cities, but hastened to explain the difference between bread queues and bread lines as they are known on this continent.

COMMON POVERTY

"The people are tightening their belts under a common poverty. All are on an equality, although that equality is a low equality at the present time," he asserted, explaining that, owing to the shortage of bread, it was being rationed out on an equal basis.

"We approached Russia by a side door, crossing the Finnish-Russian boundary at a little insignificant village. One was struck with the eternal, ruthless vigilance of the Russian police. Soldiers are posted every two or three yards along the boundary. Two rows of barbed wire fencing, two yards apart, separate the two countries right across the entire frontier. I can't understand the vigilance they exercise in preventing Russians from escaping across the border, yet such is their ruthlessness that few escape," the speaker declared.

"On the Finnish side one finds tidiness, cleanliness, efficiency and prosperity. On the Russian side there is nothing but abject poverty, inefficiency, untidiness, filth, squalor, everything the human mind does not like to see," Dr. Brewing said, drawing attention to the observations of a noted author some fifty years ago, who made the same comparison.

"The only conclusion one can reach is that it is a characteristic of the people rather than of the government, for the same condition prevails now as it did fifty years ago."

CITY OF DREAMS

To Dr. Brewing, Leningrad had always been a city of dreams, ever since the world was shocked with the terrible massacre of 1,500 workers before the palace gates one Sunday afternoon in 1905.

"Those workers had gone to the palace to appeal for better conditions. They were met with a fusillade of bullets. Fifteen hundred workers stained the snow-covered square. By that act the Romanoffs sealed their doom. Had the Czar chosen to compromise with the workers, it is hard to say what would have been the outcome, but certainly the fate of the Royal family was doomed on that day.

"Today, Leningrad is still a city of palaces, but palaces transformed, not into museums, as other countries have done where Royalty has been overthrown, but into social agencies."

The speaker described a palace room in Leningrad where the walls and ceiling were of pure amber. The furniture is of amber, varying from deep orange to the most delicate light straw color. He described yet another room of lapis lazuli, exquisite blue stones of immense value. The floor was of ebony, inlaid with mother of pearl. The walls, ceilings and furnishings glistened with the precious gems.

"These rooms are the children's village now. They have made these palaces places of pleasure for the common people—places of laughter for the children, and when one hears the gay laughter of these children, one wonders whether the transformation has been in vain," Dr. Brewing stated.

A SERIOUS PEOPLE

"My first impression of Moscow was that it was a city of multitudes. There are 4,000,000 persons in Moscow, yet not adequate housing accommodation for 2,000,000. There are few families that can have much more than a room or two. The city could not house them otherwise. There is little motor traffic. What cars one does see are those of Government officials or industrial trucks. The people are poorly clad. They don't loiter. They are going places, with serious faces. There is not much frivolity in their minds. The youths are culture crazy and culture conscious, and always going to and from their studies after working hours.

"Whether you are a capitalist or a Communist you are bound to get surprises in Russia. Some of us were really disappointed. We were surprised to see that such a large measure of the capitalist system had been allowed to enter into their lives. There is a large recognition of individual skill and achievement, yet there is no industrial competition. Competition has been removed," the speaker said.

He explained that wages vary according to the positions a worker holds. The lower paid workers belong to workers' collectives where they can buy their articles and food necessities cheap. The higher paid officials have to buy in the open market at a higher price, while still higher salaried men must buy in a still higher market. The more rubles one gets a month, the higher price he has to pay for the things he wants, the speaker explained.

"Whatever wrongs they have done in Russia, this must be said, that they have no competition. This great indenture stands out above everything else. There is no girl in Russia tonight working her heart out against a machine for the gain of an individual."

MUCH PROPAGANDA

Dr. Brewing then told of the tremendous use of propaganda in Russia. "The billboards have been swept clean of advertising and in their place has been put one ideal, Communism. Propaganda starts from the cradle. The young generation of today, and those who are going through their childhood, are being fed on Communism and its ideals of producing a better social order, and brotherhood. Imagine what Great Britain or the United States could do in ten years if they wiped their billboards clean, and devoted the space to preaching the gospel of the Kingdom of God."

The speaker told of watching a youth parade of 130,000 young men and women. It was something more than a parade, he said. "To me it was a great mass of youth with a new psychology, driven into them since childhood. Theirs were not dreams of individual fortune, but dreams of united social glory, and united prosperity. If the Christian Church is not going to look at a thing like that, then I am sorry for the Christian faith.

He told of his visit to the rural districts, explained the four types of farming: state farms, collectives, communes and independents. In the communes the workers pooled everything. They stayed at a commune for some days. "I would not like to say that I like communes, but I believe in a clean commune in contrast to a dirty village. I believe in an educated commune in contrast to an ignorant settlement. I believe in social happiness rather than the life of a lonely settler, eating his heart out. I believe in a successful commune in contrast to an unsuccessful, disintegrated area. I believe in a commune where it is an improvement over individual initiative."

Dr. Brewing then went on to deal with the religious phase of Russia, which he discussed in his last lecture in this city, and closed his address by asking the question, "I wonder whether they can succeed without the directing hand of God?"

Mrs. Bertram Mayell was the guest artist, singing "Cleansing Fires." Edward Parson played an organ prelude to the meeting, and accompanied Mrs. Mayell.

MRS. A. DANBY CALLED TO REST

Resident of City for Forty-Six Years Dies—Funeral Services Tomorrow

Death came yesterday to Mrs. Adele Danby, widow of William Hartley Danby, aged eighty years, at her home, 1041 Chamberlain Street. Mrs. Danby was born in London, England, and had resided in Victoria for forty-six years. She previously lived in New York and Anaconda, Mon.

She is survived by three sons, William E., Cariboo; Montague J., Seattle, and Arthur V., Victoria; one sister, Mrs. T. Tulski in Australia, and three grandchildren in Seattle.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 o'clock at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. Rev. Canon Nunns will officiate and interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Former Resident Called by Death In Prairie City

Word has been received here of the death, on Sunday, of Mrs. James Porter, former Victorian, at the home of her son, Robert Porter, of Shaunavon, Sask. Mrs. Porter came to Victoria from Moose Jaw in 1919, and resided here at 2634 Graham Street until 1932, when she moved to take up residence with her son.

While residing here, Mrs. Porter was an active member of First Baptist Church. Mrs. Porter was predeceased by her husband, here, in 1921. She was born in Prince Edward Island ninety years ago.

She is survived by eight sons, John, of Dolphin, Man.; William, in Medicine Hat; J. E., of Crawford, Nebraska; A. G., of Victoria; N. J., of Vancouver; R. A., of Shaunavon, Sask.; Dr. H. A. Porter, of Red Deer; and one brother Fred Brown, of Union Bay, V.I.; and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren, including a grandson, W. A. Greene, of Victoria.

The remains will be forwarded to Victoria for burial in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery and the time of the funeral will be announced later.

Fear of Middle Age
Severe Strain on the Nerves
The dread of middle age
Has ruined the health of many a woman.
To some it is a worry that brings a nervous breakdown.
This period in life has its difficulties,
But they are greatly exaggerated by the imagination.
It is the fear and worry that depletes the nervous system.
Rather than the natural change of this time of life.
By keeping the blood rich and red
And thereby supplying nutrition to the nervous system,
You need have no fear of middle age.
By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly,
Throughout this period of change,
You can usually avoid any serious trouble.
With a good supply of nerve force
To ensure the health and vigor of mind and body
You dismiss from your mind any worry
You may have had about middle life.

MADE TRIP TO WORLD'S ROOF

Sir Percy Sykes Tells of Expedition Through Central Asia

Sir Percy Sykes, K.C.I.E., C.B., C.M.G., noted traveler and lecturer, was the guest at a joint luncheon of the Victoria Canadian Club and the Gyro Club, at the Empress Hotel, yesterday noon, and addressed the gathering on "Chinese Turkestan and the Pamirs," with a vivid description of the country, its inhabitants and the various specie of wild life to be found in the heart of Asia. It was there that Sir Percy secured specimens of the rare Ovis Poli. The address was accompanied by the showing of a number of exceptionally interesting colored lantern slides.

The opportunity to visit the country was accorded Sir Percy when, after the war, he was assigned to the position of consul-general for the British Government at Kashgar in Chinese Turkestan.

He described the trip to his post with amusing incidents, including receptions by some of the native races. In one place he was saluted by the soldiers with fire crackers instead of artillery.

Throughout the showing of the pictures, Sir Percy called attention to the blending of the Aryan and the Mongol races which was in evidence in various parts of the country. Many sections are of the most unsuitable character, as far as agriculture is concerned. The people of the country live a trying life, attending to their herds and picking up an existence. Pictures of the yaks, which are used by the inhabitants in the vicinity of the Pamirs, were shown. These animals are very docile with the natives, but with outsiders the yaks assume the offensive and the stranger must exercise care.

TRAVELS OF MARCO POLO

Noted as a hunter and known among the world travelers as one of the best informed men on Central Asia, Sir Percy says he will never visit the Pamirs again, but he takes a great delight in reflecting upon the travels of Marco Polo, who had traveled over the self-same course centuries before, and who committed his impressions to writing.

W. L. Woodhouse, president of the Gyro Club, presided. Brig.-Gen. Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe introduced the speaker. Gen. Sir Percy Lake conveyed the thanks of the gathering to the speaker.

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"

If November 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m.

If you are wise you will avoid indulging in morbid curiosity on this date, for it might lead to an unpleasant consequence. Peculiarities in individualism may be very noticeable, especially in business transactions. You will show good judgment if you disregard and make no comment, regardless of how apparent or disconcerting they seem. Questions of a personal nature should be answered only after they have been carefully considered, as a hasty reply might be misconstrued and complications would terminate a pleasant relationship. You may receive an invitation which perhaps will call for a prompt answer. Indecision on your part might cause a feeling that you do not appreciate your friend's effort to be courteous and resentment possibly will result, so do not delay making a decision. Married and engaged couples, as well as those seriously considering matrimony, should be careful not to cause irritation by being overly demonstrative on this day.

If a woman and November 13 is your birthday, this date should prove a very lucky one for you. Money may be responsible for your having the means of seeing a wish come true. If you will practice being perfectly natural and avoid trying to fashion your manners or speech after someone you greatly admire, you will have greater success and achieve more popularity. Your emotional nature might find the best medium of expression in either the dramatic field or on the lecture platform. Political activities might also enable you to gain recognition. Marriage should be helpful in advancing your ambitions, as well as providing a delightful home.

The child born on November 13 when it reaches its teens, should possess a good personality, which coupled with a readiness of tongue and a display of ambition in a certain direction, might attract helpful attention which may result in a very successful career.

The man born on November 13 should be careful not to let pride retard his progress. Adverse to ask favors, you are, however, nearly always ready to grant them. If you will allow nothing to discourage your ambitions, there is every reason to believe you should be able to see them realized. Dramatic or musical work, as well as writing, might be mediums through which money and reputation might be gained. You should be very happy as a family man.

FORM SOCIETY TO OPPOSE WAR

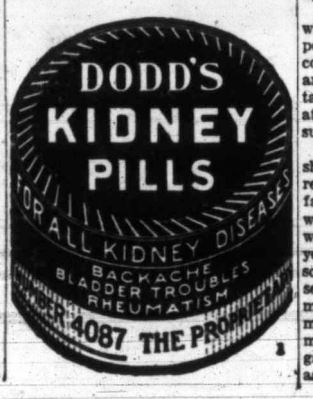

Speakers Urge Working Class to Unite in Effort to Exterminate Capitalism

After hearing four speakers strongly denounce the futility of war, a large meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium, last night, under the sponsorship of several local organizations, voted in favor of organizing a local branch of the Canadian League Against War and Fascism. A committee was appointed to obtain names of those in support of the proposed branch, and it was announced a meeting would soon be called to elect officers.

Besides painting verbal pictures of the horrors of war, the speakers, W. B. White, T. Guy Sheppard, C. Marston and Mrs. Alice Colclough, urged those present to unite in mass opposition to all future warfare and to work for the extermination of the capitalistic system, which they claimed would never cease plunging the world into conflicts to net great fortunes for a chosen few.

Each speaker in turn decried the custom of placing wreaths on the cenotaphs to the accompaniment of bugles, drums and flag waving. They claimed that such ceremonies, as conducted today, were attempts to glorify war.

The organizations sponsoring the meeting were Federated Council of Youth, C.C.F., Canadian Labor Defence League, Social League of Reconstruction and Friends of the Soviet Union.

MORTGAGE DEAL IS WRITTEN OFF

Province Will Sell 322 Acres of Settlement Lands Near Enderby

Ratepayers of the Province will take a loss of $5,963 in liquidation of a loan made by the Land Settlement Board in 1920, it was indicated at the Legislative Buildings, yesterday, when the Government approved of $4,500 as the sale price of 322 acres of land on which $10,463 was outstanding to the board. The difference will be written off.

The land in question is in the vicinity of Enderby. In 1920, the Land Settlement Board advanced $8,000 on the property, taking a mortgage on the land as security. This grew to a debt of $10,463, owed to the board by the mortgagor. Recently the land was advertised for sale by the Province, but no bids were received.

Then came an offer of $4,500, which coincided with a recent valuation made by the officials of the board. This offer is to be accepted, on the basis of one-tenth cash down and the balance in nine equal annual instalments at 6 per cent interest. The new price works out at $14 an acre.

WILL END YEAR IN GOOD SHAPE

Esquimalt Finances in Excellent Position—Within $4,000 of Estimates

At the session of the Esquimalt Council, last night, it was reported that the municipality will finish the fiscal year some $4,000 under the 1934 estimates. However, in striking the budget for the year, the council levied for a $10,000 deficit, and the councillors are asking "when is a deficit not a deficit?"

Officials of Esquimalt are highly satisfied with the financial situation so far. Although the collection of current taxes is $2,403 behind the estimated figure, total tax collections are $857 more than the estimate calls for. This is attributed to a large payment or arrears in the last few weeks.

The estimated expenditure for November and December, as presented at last night's meeting, was $19,205. It was estimated some $14,619 will be paid over the counter at the Municipal Hall. The latter figure includes $4,068 from school grants and $1,500 from taxes.

Taxes outstanding on October 31, according to the statement, were $38,257, including $22,288 in general and $13,752 in arrear accounts. The statement, it was pointed out, did not include relief costs, this being provided for by special loans from the Provincial Government.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD

Funeral service for the late John M. Healy was held yesterday afternoon and conducted by Lieut.-Col. H. J. N. de Salis. The service consisted of the hymn "O, Gentle Presence," and a solo, "Consolation," by Mrs. Bamford. The honorary pallbearers were Constables E. D. Williams and H. E. Robson, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and the active pallbearers were A. Hughes, F. Ramsdale, S. M. Lamb, Mayor David Leeming, F. Lukey and T. Miller. Interment was in Colwood Burial Park.

HAWAIIAN ENVOY ON TOURIST TRAVEL IS VISITING VICTORIA

As special representative of Hawaii, J. Arthur Snowden is a visitor in Victoria for the purpose of arranging, if possible, some measure of interchange of tourists and tourist information. He represents the Blue Book of Hawaii Nei, the social register of the five major islands of the group, and other publications with a tourist appeal.

Travel between the Hawaiian Islands and Vancouver Island has increased considerably during the past few years, and there is reason to believe the traffic will increase materially, Mr. Snowden maintains. He says it should not be difficult to encourage people from the islands to come to Victoria, and Vancouver Island people would find plenty of variety in Hawaii. Mr. Snowden will spend several days in Victoria and visiting points of interest on the Island.

ARRESTED WITH PLAN OF CAROL'S CASTLE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 12 (CP-Havas).—Arrest of a man who was roaming near the royal castle of Brassov, in Transylvania, aroused speculation in capital circles today. The man had in his possession a sketch of the interior of the castle which King Carol occupies occasionally, and also a plan of the nearby fortress and prison.

Fish that croak like frogs, and others which cry like mice, have been found off the coast of England.

Sees Great Future For Newest Mining Field in Far North

Richard Finnie, F.R.G.S., Entertains Large Audience of Women's Canadian Club Members With Story of "Canada's Last Frontier"

A CONFIDENT belief that the great mineral wealth of the North, particularly in the Great Bear Lake district that is at present attracting so much attention, will eventually be responsible for the establishment of a chain of cities across this part of the Dominion, "cities that will form the nucleus of a new empire," was expressed by Richard Finnie, F.R.G.S., of Ottawa, in the concluding part of his fascinating talk on "Canada's Last Frontier," given yesterday afternoon to the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel.

Illustrated by several reels of film taken during a trip, last Summer, down the Mackenzie River and up the Great Bear River to Great Bear Lake, Mr. Finnie took special trouble to demonstrate to his audience what Government and private transportation companies in the North had effectively demonstrated last July and August, viz., that Great Bear Lake is accessible by water. This was important, as it supplied an answer to criticisms by those who were skeptical of the possibilities of mining development on a large scale in this remote area, owing to the alleged terrific difficulties of getting to and from the mines. A fleet of vessels made their way successfully up to Great Bear Lake, carrying supplies of gasoline, food and dynamite, an epoch-making event, in the opinion of Mr. Finnie, who said that had the boats not made their way through before the freeze-up the development of the area might have been postponed for years.

TREMENDOUSLY RICH

Indication of the richness of the Great Bear Lake mines was given in the photographs of some of the mining country and rich veins of silver; also of showings of pitchblende. As for the climate, Mr. Finnie maintained, and his pictures in part verified, the heat of the Summers, at least, enables settlers to cultivate gardens, and some of the ladies were shown in thin muslin frocks. Airplanes ply back and forth constantly over the whole Northern Country, doing service both as passenger and freight carriers.

With much interesting elaboration, Mr. Finnie described the trip from Edmonton, "the most northerly city on the North American continent, the great mining centre for everyone going into the sub-Arctic or Arctic, headquarters of two flying companies," to Fort McMurray, thence, via the Athabaska River to Lake Athabaska, the Slave River to Great Slave Lake, the Mackenzie River to Great Bear River and Great Bear Lake. In the course of this trip he was present at the launching of some of the previously mentioned vessels, including some of the Hudsons' Bay Company fleet, which pioneered the way in organized and regular water transportation to the new mining area.

"It is popularly supposed that pioneering days passed with the covered wagon. But it is going on today just as romantically as ever. The only difference is that the methods have changed; the covered wagon has given way to the airplane, the power-tractor and the powerboat, and the old prospecting methods have been succeeded by the diamond drill," the lecturer said in introducing his audience to the subject of the great North Country, which constitutes one-third of the area of the Dominion.

One of the most interesting of the first reel of pictures was Fort Smith. On the sixtieth parallel of latitude, north, this little settlement is now a fully-equipped shipyard, where seven vessels were completed this Summer for the Great Slave Lake traffic. At Fort Smith, too, was the only tennis court in the whole Northwest Territory.

ENORMOUS LAKES

Some idea of the enormous size of Great Slave and Great Bear Lakes was given when Mr. Finnie stated that from the centre of either, land was not visible. Great Slave Lake is the fifth largest lake on the continent, Great Bear Lake is the third largest.

One of the most historic of the places touched was Fort Norman, established in 1845, at the junction of the Mackenzie and Great Bear Rivers. About latitude 65, north, they had found very nice gardens, both of flowers and vegetables.

Miss Alma Russell moved the vote of thanks.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME

The pleasure of the afternoon was much added to by the musical programme, consisting of three duets sung by Miss Phyllis Deaville, soprano, and Dudley Wickett, tenor; "The Manly Heart" (from Mozart's "Magic Flute"), "Brown Bird Singing" (Hadyn Wood), and, as an encore, "Nearest and Dearest" (Tuscany folksong).

In opening the proceedings, the president, Mrs. A. Carmichael, referred to the recent passing of one of the club's charter members, Mrs. Elizabeth Alliott, to whose memory the members paid tribute by standing for a few moments.

VIOLINIST IS GREAT ARTIST

Kayla Mitzel Amazes Audience With Brilliant Performance at Empress

Victoria, or at least the music-loving part of Victoria present at the concert at the Empress Hotel last evening, was in a state of unexampled enthusiasm following the first concert given here by Kayla Mitzel, the brilliant young Canadian violinist, who has been evoking the admiration of the critics and the public all over Europe and America during the past three or four years. Before she came, those who had not previously heard her were prepared to make the customary allowance for youth in appraising her much-lauded work, but no reservations were necessary. On the contrary, she came with all the hall-marks of the mature and inspired genius who can rank with the world's best, and a readjusted estimate in the light of knowledge classifies her as such, regardless of her age or sex. She held her audience spellbound, and was given a tumultuous reception at the end.

There seemed no limit to what she could do, either in the technical or interpretative. Both were flawless and seemed to spring, ready-made, as if they were pure intuition. Her technique is fluent, flexible, and has the most baffling ease, as has her deportment. Very few violinists strike such a happy medium between complete self-effacement and gymnastic importance. In her deportment she had something of the classical stillness and outline of a figure in an Egyptian frieze, yet come to life, the hand and arm a continuation of her instrument, and it a continuation of the hand and arm. This absolute ease was the more marvelous when, as the concert progressed, one realized the strength and firmness and marvelous chiaroscuro of her tone, and the dazzling resourcefulness of all her mechanical equipment. Everything had the confident and mature touch of the experienced master, yet the charm of the freshness of youth and a most pleasing naturalness and sincerity.

Her programme had splendid variety to show all the phases of this finely-matured art. She opened her recital with the Corelli-Leonard "La Folia," a commandingly fine thing, immediately revealing the luxuriant and silky tone, the splendid rhythmic senses, the fine capacity for shaping her material. Lalo's great "Symphonie Espagnole," in three movements, followed, the first (allegro non troppo) giving some fresh facets of her temperament in vivid and ardent passages, the Andante showing splendid dynamics and absolute perfection of intonation, and the rondo being throughout a most dazzling performance.

After the intermission she played the highlight among the modern-school composition, Chausson's "Poeme," throbbingly expressive, most eloquently phrased; the Paganini-Kreisler "Caprice No. 20," a fine test-piece of virtuosity, partly all fireworks, partly pure harmonized melody in lovely legato; the muted and dizzy-tempoed "Flight of the Bumble Bee" (Rimsky-Korsakoff-Hartmann); Bloch's beautiful "Nigun"; and the fiery "Danse Espagnole" of De-Falla Kreisler. These she followed with two beautiful encore numbers, Hasse's "Tambourin" and Debussy's muted "Maiden With the Flaxen Hair."

Throughout she had the finest possible support from her accompanist, Jaye Rubanoff, a sensitive musician, who seemed to anticipate every mood and nuance.

Among the many fine points in Miss Mitzel's amazing technique one was especially struck by the dazzling fluency of her fingering, the flexibility and apparent ease of her bowing, the fine exactness with which her hand glided from position to position, the suppleness and rhythmical uniformity of her vibrato, the artistic use of harmonics, and the delicacy and accuracy of her double-stopping.

More than 1,300,000 bales of wool are to be auctioned in Australia.

"He is very accomplished and resourceful."

"How is that?"

"He can say 'Money or your life' in all languages."

City and District

Visiting City—Captain E. T. Fitzsimmons, of Barkerville, is enjoying a visit in Victoria. He is registered at the Empress Hotel.

Herring Plant Licence — The Province issued a herring dry saltery plant licence yesterday to Vince & Company, Limited, for operations at Sarita Bay, Barkley Sound.

Meeting Tonight—The local council of the Amalgamated Civil Service of Canada will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, in the clubrooms on Bastion Street.

City School Board—The City School Board will hold its monthly meeting at 8 o'clock on Wednesday night. Considerable business is on the files for discussion.

Veterans to Meet—The monthly general meeting of the Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, will be held tonight, at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

Recital Postponed—Due to bereavement, the recital of Master Dean Miller and Mrs. J. Wesley Miller, of Vancouver, scheduled for tonight at the Oak Bay United Church, has been postponed.

Meeting Today—Directors of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 5:15 p.m., to discuss future radio programmes in connection with the "Know Victoria" campaign.

Groceries Stolen—From his automobile, which stood parked in the 900 block, Yates Street, yesterday afternoon, a quantity of groceries was stolen, E. Bainsdale, 1206 Duke Street, reported to police.

Request More Relief—An application from Esquimalt unemployed for double relief in December was last night referred by the Esquimalt Council to the relief and finance committees for report. Last year the council granted the request.

Building Permit—D. K. Kennedy, city building inspector, yesterday issued a permit for the construction of a five-roomed stucco house at 1777 Hollywood Crescent. The owner and contractor is T. Stubbs, of 1765 Hollywood Crescent. Cost of the home is estimated at $2,500.

Coroner's Assistant—Dr. H. R. Christie, of Rossland, was appointed a deputy coroner yesterday by Provincial order. Dr. E. E. Topliff is the coroner in the area. Charles Nichols, of Princeton, was made official administrator for part of Yale County.

Municipal Park—The Saxe Point district was, last night, finally set aside by Esquimalt Council as a municipal park. The council authorized the borrowing of $1,000 for relief purposes. This amount is estimated as the cost of relief until December 31.

Appoint Revision Court — Reeve Alexander Lockley and Councillors P. S. Going and David A. Henry were, last night, appointed a court of revision on the Esquimalt voters' lists by the municipal council. The court will sit at 7:30 o'clock on December 10.

Plan Conference—The twenty-sixth annual conference of Pacific Northwest forest protection agencies, will be held at Portland, commencing on December 4. Private and Provincial forestry officials in this province have been invited to attend for a round-table discussion on conservation and other subjects.

Tax Penalty—A third penalty on delinquent tax accounts will go into effect on Friday, it was announced at the City Hall yesterday. The penalty is 1 per cent. Two previous penalties of a similar amount will bring the total impost to 3 per cent, while on December 4 the last penalty of 5 per cent will be added, making the total 8 per cent.

Third Revisional Court—Electors in polling divisions 34 to 49, 70 to 84, and 93 to 97, desiring correction or change in the Federal voters' list, may speak to such adjustments in person today, when a court of revision opens in the third revisal district, with headquarters at 1011 Hillside Avenue. Revision will continue for three days.

Special Constables—Upwards of forty caretakers and other employees of private game associations, mostly in respect to leased land outside Vancouver, have now been sworn in as Provincial constables without salary for this season. The appointments last only for the hunting season, but point to the rapid growth of private game preserves.

Queer Potato—There is a queer-shaped potato in the window of The Colonist offices. It was grown by F. Souice, of the Courtenay Hotel, Courtenay. Various descriptions of what the potato represents were given, including dogs, "Mutt" of Mutt and Jeff, mountain goats and a boxer. The potato has a perfect face formation and two large "ears" and a "neck." It is on display, and Victorians are invited to give their interpretation of the vegetable.

Appoint Delegates—Councillors Neil Fraser, Thomas Hadfield and George Wise were last night named delegates of the Esquimalt Council to attend a meeting shortly to arrange a celebration for May 24, 1935. A communication from Victoria City Council, pointing out that existing contracts calling for the city fire department to attend Esquimalt fires will end on February 16, 1935, was received and filed without comment.

Week-End Robberies — Thieves over the week-end broke into two local stores and gained entry to the Pro Patria Branch premises, 625 Courtney Street. W. H. Duckworth, 1678 Dallas Road, told police his grocery store was entered, and produce valued at $30 stolen. Robbers broke into Clark's Pharmacy, 1064 Pandora Avenue, and left with shaving cream, cigarettes, playing cards, screwdriver, razor and $2.10, it was reported. Those who entered the Pro Patria Branch made a haul of $8.80 and a quantity of cigarettes.

Addresses Canadian Club—Richard Finnie, F.R.G.S., of Ottawa, was the guest of the Men's Canadian Club at dinner at the Empress Hotel last evening. Following the dinner, Mr. Finnie addressed the members on "Canada's Last Frontier," the Canadian Arctic, where he spent several weeks last Summer. The address was illustrated with an interesting collection of motion pictures of various parts of the Northland, particularly Great Bear Lake. He was introduced by P. B. Fowler, who acted as chairman, and a vote of thanks was tendered by John Cochrane.

To Interpret Story—That the Great War occasionally drew out the best from a man is strikingly seen in the story of Philip Morton as told by Mary Shipman Andrews in "The Three Things." From a shallow snob he passes through suffering into a man of deep human sympathy with a desire to serve. How this transformation took place will be portrayed by Miss Cole, dramatic reader, who will interpret this story at Centennial United Church, tonight, at 8:15 o'clock. Miss Cole will be assisted by Miss Kathleen Moore, pianist; Jack Tregalas, reader, and Mario Luca, tenor soloist. A collection will be taken.

Juvenile in Trouble—A girl of juvenile age, being thirteen, was before the judge of the juvenile court, George Jay, yesterday, charged with having stolen two rings, a wrist watch and a gold chain. She was allowed out on suspended sentence and given over to the custody of her father. The juvenile had run away from her home in Vancouver and came to Victoria. The court remarked upon the importance of the new by-law which the city is putting into effect, which would prevent the sale of jewelry until after the purchases were reported to the police. A chain was believed to have been disposed of after being sold as second-hand jewelry.

FISH SHOOTING SEASON LOOMS

French Scientist Invents Equipment for Hunting on Ocean Floor

PARIS. — Equipment which will enable a person to walk along the bottom of the ocean and shoot fish has just been invented by a French scientist.

Working in his laboratory, Colonel Le Prieur has constructed a twelve-pound diving apparatus, which consists only of a light helmet, with two big goggle eyes, and a cylinder of compressed air. The cylinder is worn around the waist and is connected with the headgear by a rubber tube that fits along the spinal column.

DRY GUNPOWDER

To eliminate the problem of keeping gunpowder dry, the Colonel has perfected a compressed-air carbine which shoots steel arrows with the rapidity of a small machine gun. They are so thin that they slip through the water like elongated bullets.

It is reported that once a fisherman-hunter gets accustomed to submarine shooting his aim soon becomes as good as on terra firma.

LIGHT EQUIPMENT

The lightness of the equipment does not interfere with the movement of the wearer, who can thus quickly bring his carbine into position to take aim at a passing fish.

A gauge on the cylinder indicates the amount of air remaining. One filling is enough to allow a man to stay under water for approximately twenty-five minutes. Owing to the fact that pressure has not been taken into consideration, the diver cannot descend to any very great depth.

Wedding Is Solemnized In Fairfield

A pretty wedding was solemnized, on Saturday evening, at Fairfield United Church, when Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry united in marriage Mary Josephine, daughter of Mrs. C. E. Owens, Cedar Avenue, Mount Tolmie, to Mr. Ernest Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hawkins, Brook Street, Fairfield.

Mr. Warren presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register, Miss C. Barrow sang "Love's Demand."

ATTRACTIVE BRIDE

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. George Watkins, a close family friend, looked charming in a gown of white silk lace with frilled cape, sleeves and short jacket to match. Her veil was of white silk tulle, with a small train, and was made in cap effect with a wreath of orange blossoms. She wore long white lace mittens and her bouquet was of bridal roses, white carnations and fern.

Miss May Watkins, in a frock of pale blue silk, with white accessories, attended the bride. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and fern. The flower girl was Peggy Webster, in a dress of white organdie and carrying a colonial bouquet. The groom was attended by Mr. J. Pannell as best man.

RECEPTION HELD

A largely-attended reception was held at the home of Mrs. A. Robinson, 397 Arnold Avenue. The guests were received by Mrs. Hawkins, mother of the groom, assisted by Mrs. Robinson. The bride's table was centred with a beautifully-decorated three-tier wedding cake and the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Greenslade.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins left later for a honeymoon Up-Island, the bride traveling in a dark brown ensemble. On their return, they will reside at Mount Tolmie.

Among the many beautiful gifts received were an automatic toaster, from the Victoria Radio Club, of which the groom is a member, and an electric fixture from Murphy Bros., also a table lamp from Mr. and Mrs. Lumley, of Hillside Community Store, where the bride was formerly employed.

Dainty Wares to Be Offered at Bazaar

A pastel picture of the Ss. Empress of Russia outward bound into the sunset, on October 6, bearing the first band of Sisters of St. Ann to their Japanese mission, is a beautiful exponent of the work of Sister M. Osithe of St. Ann's Academy, and as such will attract much interest and admiration, when displayed at St. Joseph's Hospital bazaar, which opens tomorrow morning, at 10 o'clock, and continues throughout the day.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital, and the general convenership of the president, Mrs. Frank Sehl, each stall has been staffed by four of the Sisters, as well as by a special convener and assistants as follows: Refreshments, Mrs. A. McDermott, assisted by Mrs. F. M. Bryant; Mrs. H. F. Crowe, Mrs. David Spencer; tea table, Mrs. Angus Campbell and Mrs. James Adam, with the tea room being open from 3 o'clock. The doll stand is in charge of Mrs. Fred Cameron, and among the foremost attractions of the bazaar is the beautifully dressed doll wearing a white fur coat and cap, and having beside her a full wardrobe in a little trunk. This artistic production is the handiwork of Mrs. A. McDermott and has been much admired.

The principal stall containing fancy work, novelties, babywear and dolls is in charge of Mrs. F. W. Gill and Mrs. W. W. Baines, conveners, assisted by Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. Sabin, Mrs. E. Vernon Thomson, Mrs. Jones, Miss K. McKay and Miss Alice Baines. Mrs. E. McQuade, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. McManus will have charge of the candy stall, and the home cooking will be convened by Mrs. Walter Fraser, assisted by Mrs. H. S. Henderson and Mrs. P. Criddle. The fish pond, wonder well and "grab bag" will be convened by Sister Mary Drucilla, assisted by Miss Kathleen Fraser. The three-tier Christmas cake has been donated as in former years by Mrs. W. S. Fraser.

Is on Tea Committee

MRS. G. M. WEIR

Wife of the Minister of Education, is a member of the committee which is making plans for an exhibition of antiques at a party to be held by the Y.W.C.A. at the Association Building, on Wednesday afternoon, November 28.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

The Shawnigan Lake Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hawking, kindly loaned for the occasion. The president, Mrs. F. M. Gannon, occupied the chair. The minutes were read and adopted, and a financial report presented. It was decided to donate mincemeat for the hamper to be made up by institutes for the Duncan Hospital bazaar. Mrs. Weber offered to make the mincemeat. A letter will be sent regretting that the local institute will be unable to take a stall at the bazaar. A cheque for $25 will be sent to the Cowichan Health Centre. A good report of the recent conference was given by the delegates, Mrs. Kinlock and Mrs. Macdonald. Tea was served by the hostess.

VICTORIA

The monthly meeting of the Victoria Women's Institute will be held on Friday, at 635 Fort Street, at 2:30 p.m. sharp. Mrs. C. C. Spofford will address the meeting on the "Nationalization of Women." As this is a subject of special importance to women, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. Interested women are cordially invited.

Thieves who stole a large hamper labeled "champagne" from an automobile at Windsor, England, had a surprise when they found it contained only a bottle of tea and glasses.

Golf Club Plans Bridge Parties

A series of bridge and mah jong parties, to be held by the Uplands Golf Club in the clubrooms during the Winter months, have been arranged by the club committee. The first affair will be held on Monday afternoon, when auction and contract bridge will be arranged.

Reservations may be made at the clubhouse or with Mrs. Fred Spencer, the convener, G 2769; Mrs. McCabe, E 3867, or Mrs. Harry Webb, E 4490. Prizes will be given and refreshments served. The proceeds will be used for the purchasing of extra furnishings for the clubhouse.

ST. MICHAEL'S

St. Michael's A.Y.P.A. held a business meeting recently in the Parish Hall, Royal Oak. The president, H. Oldfield, occupied the chair. Plans are rapidly going forward for the bazaar, "Carnival of Clowns," which will be held on December 4. It was decided to allocate money to buy Christmas presents for children ministered to by the Columbia Coast Mission. The executive has arranged a special programme for the next meeting on November 22.

SALTSPRING

The fortnightly meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held at the vicarage, the president, Miss Margaret Purdy, in the chair and twenty-two members being present.

Following the opening hymn, "Abide With Me," a short business discussion took place and preliminary arrangements made for the annual banquet, to take place at Harbor House, Ganges, on Saturday, November 17, when Mr. Hawkins and Mr. J. Aylwin will address the members. A letter from W. George was read and his resignation as secretary regretfully accepted, Sam Beddis being elected in his place.

A report of the recent rally in Duncan, by eight Saltspring Island members was read. Miss Purdy, C. Rudge and D. Fyvie spoke on the general good fellowship experienced throughout the conference and the formation of the new mid-Island district council, to which Misses M. Purdy and Nancy Stevens were elected members of the committee. The remainder of the evening was spent at the Central Settlement Hall, where, under the management of D. Fyvie, a programme of games and dancing was carried out until 11:30 p.m. Refreshments, provided by Miss Nancy Stevens and C. Rudge, were served, and as the evening came to an end, three cheers were called for and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," in honor of the resigning secretary, W. George, who was leaving the Island for Victoria.

INFANTS' COLDS Relieved!

Young children easily catch cold. So Mrs. Russel Ward, of Hilton Beach, Ont., wisely says: "If I notice that there is any sign of a cold I give Baby's Own Tablets and find they are a great help." Thousands of mothers do the same not only for colds but for fretfulness, indigestion, constipation, teething troubles, colic, upset stomach and so on. Baby's Own Tablets are safe and sure in relieving childhood's common ailments. Price 25c.

Rockland Park W.C.T.U.

The recent meeting of Rockland Park W.C.T.U., held at the home of Mrs. Pettigrew, Pandora Avenue, was well attended, a number of visitors also being present. All joined in giving Miss Sproul, who has been visiting in the East, a hearty welcome home again. In connection with the Scientific Temperance Study it was reported that three awards had been made by the combined unions, in the presence of relatives and friends and in the Sunday schools concerned, to the three scholars ranking highest in the competition of last year. The winners were: Evelyn Wright, of Victoria West United Sunday School; Jean Scott, of Garden City Sunday School, and Gordon Ralston, of Centennial Sunday School. It was noted, with regret, by the meeting, that a petition for the establishment of a beer-licenced veterans' club was being circulated in Saanich, Wards Two and Seven. Those present promised their earnest support to a counter petition now being signed by many of the voters.

Weddings

LYALL—BARON

A quiet wedding took place at the First United Church, on Friday, at 7:30 p.m., when Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson united in marriage, Lillian Jane, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Baron, to Mr. Robert Douglas Irving Lyall, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Lyall, Hollywood Crescent. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Ella Baron, and the best man was Mr. Russell Lyall, brother of the groom. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Empress Avenue, the rooms being tastefully decorated with a profusion of Autumn flowers. The bride and groom stood beneath a pretty floral bell. Mr. H. Paver, an old friend of the family, proposed a toast to the young copule. Among the gifts received were an electric waffle iron and clock from the staff of Jameson's Motors, with whom the groom is employed, and a tea set and vases from the staff of the Capitol Theatre, where the bride has been employed for a number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Lyall will make their home in Victoria.

BILTON—JACQUES

NANAIMO, Nov. 12.—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Comox Road, when Marian, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jacques, became the bride of Mr. James Bilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bilton, of this city. Miss Jessie Jacques and Mr. Stanley Salmon were attendants. Rev. T. H. Wright officiated. The couple will reside in Nanaimo.

"THE CHILD"

By REGINALD H. WIGGINS, M.D., C.M., L.M.C.C.

THE NEWER DISCIPLINE

The goal of all training of the child is self-control, and this is acquired by discipline. By the newer discipline, we imply that which is a means of helping the child to a full use of his faculties; of giving him an opportunity to play cheerfully; to work strenuously for the benefit of his fellow man; to be happy, and to pass happiness on to others.

If we should instill discipline through our authority only, without due consideration for the child, we are liable to do that which we should like to avoid, i.e., crush the child's spirit, when he will become mamby-pamby, colorless and evasive. We have enough "yes children" now and should wish to avoid an increase of their numbers.

A few rules for parents to observe in the matter of discipline:

1. Study your child and his nature and needs. Realize that you and you alone are responsible for what the child shall become.
2. Avoid a too domineering or autocratic manner.
3. In giving directions, first gain his attention, speak simply and clearly, and when possible explain your request.
4. Be positive with your "do's," not negative with your "don't." Tell the child what he may do.
5. Keep faith with the child, if you expect him to keep faith with you.
6. Be consistent and praise him.
7. Try to understand why he did a certain thing.
8. Expect obedience and do not think of him disobeying.

Augmented Orchestra In "Messiah"

An augmented Cathedral Orchestra of about sixty players will accompany the combined choirs in the performance of the "Messiah," in Christ Church Cathedral, on December 19, under the baton of Stanley Bulley. These are gathered from the ranks of professional and amateur musicians of the city, and will form one of the finest local ensembles ever brought before the public of Victoria. Smyth Humphreys has undertaken the position of concert master.

Both choir and orchestra are working very hard in order to give the best possible presentation of this great Handelian masterpiece. Extra rehearsals for choir and orchestra will commence on November 18, in the Cathedral, at 2:30 p.m., and will continue each Sunday until further notice. The public cannot be admitted to any rehearsals. Members are urged to be present at both the regular and extra practices.

Admission to the performance in December is by programme, and as these are selling very rapidly, early application is advised.

Bazaar Planned For Next Week

On Wednesday, November 21, the combined branches of the Christ Church Cathedral Woman's Auxiliary will hold its annual sale of work in the gymnasium of the Memorial Hall, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The usual attractive stalls will be in evidence, and luncheon and afternoon teas will be served.

Solarium Is Remembered By Chapter

A donation of $25 to the Esquimalt Friendly Help, to be used for clothing, was made by the Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter, I.O.D.E., at its meeting, held yesterday, with the regent, Mrs. W. H. Booth, presiding. The sum of $5 was voted to the X-ray fund of the Solarium, and also a donation to the Mary Croft Memorial cot at the Solarium. Toys and fruit were sent to the chapter's two adopted children at the Solarium, for Hallowe'en. A shower of toys will be held, at the December meeting, for the children of the Solarium, for Christmas.

Mrs. Quinn, the soldiers' graves convener, decorated thirty-seven graves in the Naval and Military Cemetery, on Remembrance Day, and also the Cenotaph and the church, at Esquimalt. The bridge luncheon, held recently, under the convenership of Mrs. G. P. Clarke, was successful. Mrs. F. R. Wright, the chapter's delegate to the semi-annual I.O.D.E. meeting at Chilliwack, gave an interesting report. Sympathy was expressed to Major J. A. P. Crompton in the loss of his wife, who was a member of the chapter.

AT BELMONT CABARET

The popularity of the Belmont Cabaret's Saturday night dances was proved by the gay and enthusiastic crowd which enjoyed the fine entertainment. Arthur Groves, in his own individual style, rendered "The Tattooed Lady" and received much applause. Alan King was forced to sing a third number, in addition to "Two Cigarettes in the Dark" and the "Wing Song," which were greeted with much enthusiasm.

Among those who reserved tables were: Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Farrow with twelve, Dr. MacDonald with ten, Miss Ena Henderson with six, Mr. Griffiths with two, Mr. Allen with four, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barraclough with eight, Mr. Ronnie Cruikshank with four, Mr. Sparks with four, and Mr. Lorne Bradshaw with four.

The dancers included Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Sandy, Mr. and Mrs. Montague Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. Clearihue, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barlow, Major and Mrs. Cuthbert Holmes, Miss Dulce Hamlet, Mr. James Nesbitt, Miss Eleanor Renwick, Mr. Charles Swannell, Mr. Maurice Humber, Miss Daryce Horne, Miss Margaret Ross, Mr. Arnold Wilkinson, Major MacDonald, Mr. Alan Butchart, Mr. Roy Shadbolt, Miss Audrey Hadow, Miss Eva Allen, Mr. Tom Brown, Miss Smith, Miss Hills, Mr. Hughie Stubbs, Mr. Henry Worthington, Mr. Brian Burdon-Murphy and many others.

JUVENILE ARTS

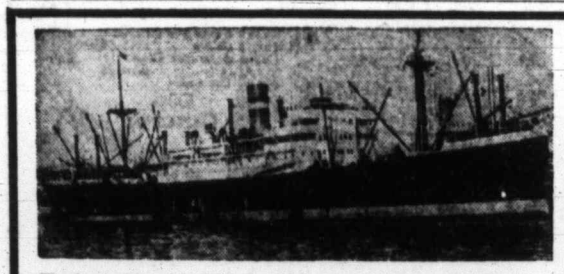

The juvenile branch of the Musical Arts Society met in the New Thought Hall recently. The president, Gwen Gibbs, welcomed new members. Shirley Taylor was appointed convener of the refreshment committee. After a short business session, the president announced that the next meeting would be held on December 8 in the form of a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. French, 182 Gorge Road, West. A programme, convened by Hilda Hyle, was enjoyed when the following artists took part: Muriel Patterson, Julia Kent Jones, Olive French, Myrtle Shaw and Rita Nevard.

Social and Personal Notes

Paid Visit Here

The Soroptimist Club held an informal party on Saturday in the rooms of the Business and Professional Women's Club, 605 Courtney Street, in honor of Mrs. Mercy Ellen Crehan, past president of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs. The evening was spent in games and community singing followed by supper during which the president, Mrs. Dorothy Spurr, made a presentation to Mrs. Crehan, on behalf of the Victoria Club, of a mastodon ivory pen stand and pen as a token of appreciation of her services as federation president during which time twelve new clubs were added to the federation. On Friday evening the regular business meeting was held in the clubrooms and plans were discussed for Christmas welfare work. A further discussion took place re a minimum wage for domestic help, and the club was still of the opinion that before this would be warranted in a general way, it would be necessary that some course of training be instituted as in other occupations—this would not only protect the employer, but also strengthen the position of the employee. Plans are under way to hold a sale of work and tea on the afternoon of Saturday, December 8, further details to be announced later.

Kitchen and Pantry Shower

Mrs. G. M. Baker and Miss Doris Erith were joint hostesses on Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Baker, Island Road, at a delightful kitchen and pantry shower given in honor of Miss Ina Easton, a November bride-to-be. On her arrival, Miss Easton was presented with a graceful bouquet of Autumn flowers, and she also received many lovely and useful gifts, which were presented in a decorated basket. Flowers, streamers and an attractive archway formed the decorations in the sitting-room. Games were played during the evening and at midnight supper was served, the table being centred with a lovely two-tier ice cream wedding cake, which the guest of honor cut. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. H. Erith, Mr. and Mrs. William Easton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. M. Thomas, Mrs. R. Martin, Mrs. J. Noble, Mrs. M. Party Has Surprises

Miss Louise Patterson entertained, last evening, at the home of her parents, Rev. J. S. and Mrs. Patterson, 878 Esquimalt Road, in honor of the Misses Winnie and Lillian Tait, who have recently arrived, with their parents, to make their home here. The evening was one of celebration, as the birthdays of Miss Winnie Tait and Mr. Harvey Patterson coincided. The rooms were artistically arranged with chrysanthemums. The supper table was centred with a wax waterlily, with tall red tapers in silver sconces on either side. A large birthday cake added to the festivities with its decorated candles. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. Harry Tait and Mrs. Patterson. Games were enjoyed, followed by music. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tait, Miss Lyla McCall, Miss Evelyn Lytton, Miss Muriel Richards, Miss Kathleen McIntyre, Miss Alice Kershaw, Messrs. Frank White, Leslie Fritsch, Harold McCall, Maurice J. Davis, Gilbert Fraser and Jack Patterson.

Jolly O.E.S. Social Held Last Night

A jolly reunion dance was held by the Past Matrons' and Patrons' Association of the Order of the Eastern Star, last night, in the Shrine Auditorium, when members of the five O.E.S. chapters and their friends filled the hall to capacity. The proceeds from the affair will be divided between the chapters for their Christmas cheer work.

The grand march, led by the past matrons and patrons, opened the dance at 9 o'clock, the music being supplied by a five-piece orchestra. Dancing continued until 1 a.m. For those not wishing to dance, cards were played, there being twenty tables in progress.

Supper was served buffet style, in the banquet hall. Several surprise novelty numbers were given during the evening, which added to the enjoyment of the programme. Mrs. George Miles was the convener of the affair, which was most successful.

Daily Bridge Question No. 24

You are West and open the four of spades against South's 3 NT contract. East plays the ten and South the two. East returns the knave, South plays the five and West the three. On the third round South takes East's queen with the ace, West playing the seven. On the two tricks North discards two diamonds. South then leads the heart four.

What card should West play, and why?

Answers to these questions must be delivered, mailed or telephoned the same day as question is published, and addressed to Macan & Mitchell Bridge Studios, 221-2 Pemberton Building.

Answer to Question No. 23

A small heart.

It is not likely that the ace and queen of hearts are both in the same hand. They must both be in the West hand for your contract to be in danger.

To use a club honor to enter South, in order to lead the heart knave through West, makes the club suit immediately vulnerable to attack.

In any event, three tricks must be won in the heart suit to fulfill the contract.

CONCERT AT EMPRESS

There was a large audience in the lounge of the Empress hotel on Sunday evening, when the hotel concert orchestra, under the direction of Mr. William Tickle, played a special "In Remembrance" musical programme. The following numbers which comprised the programme were much enjoyed by the listeners: Adagia Pathetique (Godard); "Roses of Picardy" (Wood); potpourri, "Cavalcade" (Coward), introducing the tunes made famous by the troops in France; "Dear Little Boy of Mine" (Ball); "Bing Boys Are Heroes" (D'Ayer); "Songs of England" (Middleton); "Hands Across the Sea" (Roberts).

Venezuela has ruled that legal provisions concerning literary and artistic property are applicable to radiotelephonic transmissions.

Salvation Army Will Make Appeal to Provide Christmas Cheer for Needy

Arrangements for the Christmas activities of the Salvation Army are now being made, according to a statement made, yesterday, by Adjutant Sharp, district organizer.

As in past years, the approach of the festive season brings a special claim upon the workers of the Army, and plans are now being made to again meet the situation. It is contrary to Army principles and methods to administer help indiscriminately, and arrangements are made for every case to be thoroughly investigated, the Army co-operating with all other agencies to avoid duplication. Then the Army is in an especially favored position to know those whose needs are great, the regular visits paid to the homes giving first-hand knowledge of these cases, many of whom would never ask for aid.

Last year over 300 Christmas hampers were supplied, each one being of the standard size for the family concerned. The contact thus made enables the Army workers to follow up many cases, and engenders confidences that open up the way for permanent moral and spiritual uplift.

CHAIN OF INSTITUTIONS

Stretching across Canada, from Halifax in the East to Victoria in the West, there is a chain of institutions owned and operated by the Salvation Army, which are proving themselves havens of hope and mercy. The officers and welfare workers are experienced in dealing with the needs of the people. A Salvation Army service department is an indispensable unit in all the principal cities of the Dominion.

Locally, the Army, through its stores and hostel, is a Good Samaritan to many in these times or difficulty. The hostel is a shelter to many a homeless man during the cold days of Winter. The record of this institution is one to which the Army may point with satisfaction, so far as relief work is concerned. But it cannot say that a profitable business is being done. Indeed, the outgo on account of the hostel is considerably more than the income.

The Army officers engaged in that line of work have undoubtedly been responsible for the lifting back on the road to self-respect of hundreds, yes thousands, of men in the history of the Army, and everyone so rescued is a testimony to the service it has been to the world. Food to the hungry, shelter to the homeless, and a word of encouragement dropped at the right time will do wonders to the regeneration of the man who is down and may think he is out.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

B.C. FISHERIES OFFICERS LEAVE

Important but Informal Discussion of Salmon Catch to Open at Olympia

Hon. George S. Pearson, British Columbia fisheries commissioner, and George J. Alexander, his deputy, left for Olympia on the afternoon boat, yesterday, for initiation of informal salmon discussions with Governor Clarence D. Martin, of Washington State. The meeting, to take place at Olympia, will be informal because only Federal authorities can deal effectively with treaty matters.

The occasion, however, was being treated as important, as the medium of a friendly approach to a question vital to both countries.

SAY TALK HELPFUL

While reserved as to the actual text of the matters under discussion now, British Columbia fishery officers expressed confidence that a good deal of headway could be made through general and informal discussion of fishery problems mutual to both areas in the Pacific Northwest.

Mr. Alexander pointed to the unquestionable success of international halibut control, wherein conservation of a vast natural fishery has been effectively demonstrated as possible, without prejudice to the rights and interests of those engaged in the trade.

DESIRE AGREEMENT

If a similar agreement were found possible between both countries in respect to the conservation of salmon stocks, there was no reason why it should not meet with an equal success in actual operation, Mr. Alexander stated.

Knowledge that the salmon fisheries of any waters may be built up, or even transferred entirely to another basin, coming in recent years from research and study into the habits of the fish, has brought a medium of control that did not exist before.

If to that knowledge is added friendly co-operation by areas mutually affected, much, it is believed, can be done to perpetuate the richest returns of the entire fishery trade of the Northwest, those from salmon.

Mrs. W. Lothian Taken by Death At Home in City

Mrs. Isabella Annie Lothian, aged eighty-three years, passed away, on Sunday, at her home, 20 Bushby Street. Born in Scotland, Mrs. Lothian came to Pipestone, Man., in 1893, and resided there until 1913, when the family moved to Victoria.

She is survived by her husband, William Lothian, and one daughter, Catherine, at home, and two sons, Geoffrey, of Pipestone, and Norman, of Vancouver. Her youngest son, Robert, was killed in action, at Ypres, in 1916.

Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson will officiate at funeral services to be held today, at 2 o'clock, at the Thomson Funeral Home. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

DELAYS DECISION ON WINE-SELLING CHARGE

Magistrate Jay, after concluding the taking of evidence in the case against Arthur Beauchesme, of Port Renfrew, charged with having kept liquor for sale, reserved his judgment, in the Provincial Police Court, yesterday, until next Monday. The evidence of Sergeant Richard Harvey, of the Provincial Police, to the effect that the accused admitted to police he kept wine for sale, was met by Frank Higgins, K.C., counsel for the defence, who contended that the accused had not attempted to conceal the presence of the wine he had made and which he kept in his house for home use.

Mrs. Beauchesme testified to this fact, saying that while her husband had attempted to sell blackberry wine to the Liquor Control Board, the other wine and cider was kept for home use.

Evidence as to the character of the accused was given, setting out that he had always borne a good name.

Mr. Higgins contended that there was nothing under the statutes which said anything with regard to the amount of wine that might be made by a person from his own fruit.

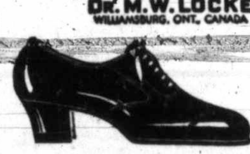

The enlargement that appears along the great toe joint, usually called a bunion, is in most cases the result of wearing improper types of shoes.

This abnormal condition of the foot often causes pains in the leg, and general discomfort.

SKIPPER OF CRAFT HERO

Trawler and Crew Reported Lost Arrive at Home Port

HULL, England, Nov. 11 (AP).—A stirring story of one man's relentless and successful fight against a violent North Atlantic storm was brought to this port today by the crew of the trawler Earl Kitchener, of Hull, which came home after having been reported lost.

The hero of the little craft's turbulent voyage was Walter Harrison, skipper, whose sailors called him "the bravest man living." All said they owed their lives to Harrison.

A violent gale struck the trawler north of Iceland. The wheelhouse was washed away, but Harrison, constantly deluged by ice water, clung to the wheel.

CLUNG TO THE WHEEL

For twenty-six hours he stood the frigid watch. His feet were frozen and finally he fell in a heap on the deck. But, lying down, he clung to the wheel.

Then a wave tore away the wheel and washed it overboard. So Harrison operated the steering gear with his hands.

Another wave swept away the vessel's compass, and the dauntless skipper held to his course by occasional glimpses of the stars through flying clouds.

DISOBEYED ORDERS

After he had stood for twenty-eight hours, the crew finally disobeyed his orders. Sailors tore him from his post, carried him below and revived him with hot drinks. After a short rest, Harrison returned to his station and finally brought the trawler safely to the little port of Akureyri, Iceland. Wreckage identified as part of the trawler had been found on the coast, and its discovery led to reports that the ship had foundered.

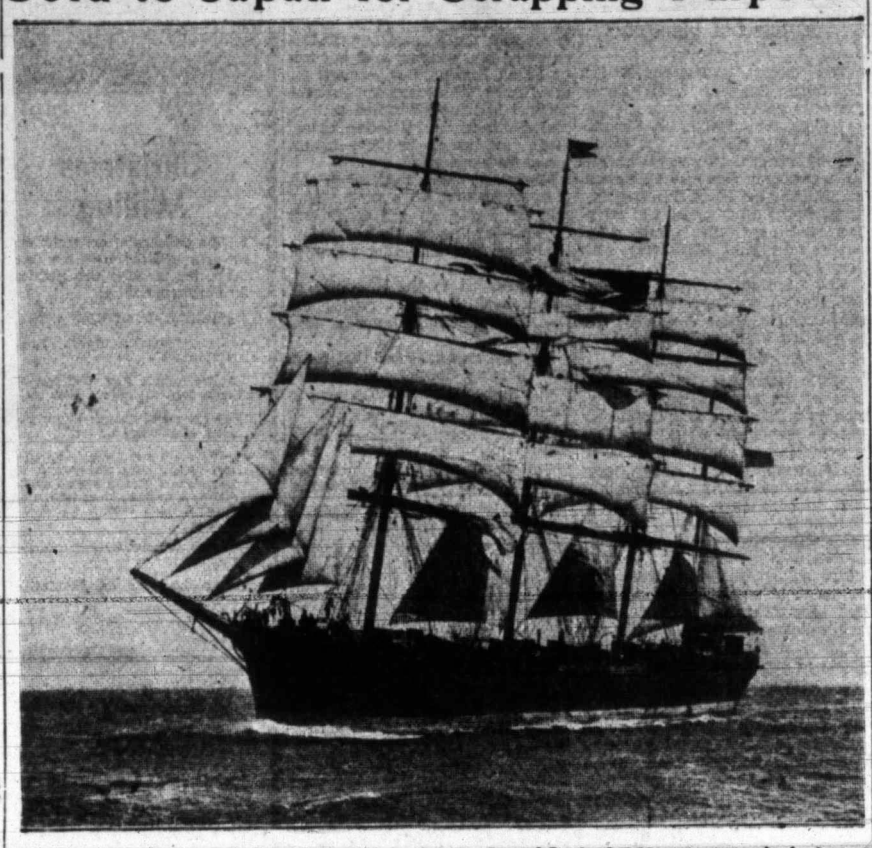

Even ashore Harrison, refusing medical aid, superintended repairing the trawler, and he brought it home today.

Flyer Will Make Tests for Hop at Eastern Airport

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (CP).—Charles T. P. Ulm, famous Australian airman, en route to Canada for a flight from Montreal to Australia, will make all his "overload" tests for the trans-Pacific flight at St. Hubert Airport, H. B. Ayres, Ulm's representative, stated here today.

Ulm sailed from Southampton on Saturday, aboard the liner Ascania.

Sold to Japan for Scrapping Purposes

The Alaska Packers' Association four-masted steel bark, Star of Lapland, 3,381 gross tons, is the largest iron or steel square-rigged vessel ever built in the United States. This bark and her two steel sister ships, also property of the association—the Star of Shetland, 3,345 gross tons, and the Star of Zealand, 3,292 gross tons—were built by A. Sewall & Company, Bath, Maine. The three-masted steel bark Star of Holland, 2,301 gross tons, was built by Harland & Wolff, at Belfast, Ireland. These four vessels have been sold to the Trans-Pacific Commercial Company, a Japanese corporation, and are to be sent to Japan and there scrapped. Of all the mighty square-rigged sailing fleet formerly owned by the Alaska Packers' Association, consisting of thirty-two vessels, wood, iron and steel, only the small three-masted steel bark Star of Finland, 1,699 gross tons, remains in possession of the company.

INSPIRED BY NEWSPAPERS

Japanese Reporters Responsible for Stories of British Industries Mission

"The mission of the Federation of British Industries recently exchanged unreserved views with responsible statesman and financiers in Tokio," says The Hokkai Times. "Its members were greatly impressed by the enthusiastic reception given them by the nation and by the remarkable progress of Japan. In this frame of mind, they left for Manchukuo. On the way, Lord Barnby, spokesman for the mission, is reported to have told newspapermen that if Japan so desires, it should not be difficult to restore the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

"He also voiced surprise at the development of this country and declared that Great Britain, instead of regarding Japan as a reckless competitor, should co-operate with it.

"Since its departure from London, the mission has repeatedly stated that its object is purely economic and has no political significance. If Lord Barnby has been correctly quoted by the press, however, there seems some reason for believing that the mission is here under informal instructions from the British Government. He would otherwise have been in no position to say anything about so important a political matter as resuscitation of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

"Be that as it may, the British attitude toward Japan and Manchukuo has undergone a marked change for the better," continues the journal. "The Times, Daily Mail and other leading London papers are inclined toward recognition of Manchukuo, indicating a great shift from the attitude of a year and a half ago. The British have changed because of their instinctive keenness where their interests are involved. As Lord Barnby has pointed out, Great Britain has come to appreciate the rising influence of Japan and to realize that it would be foolish to view it as a rival. Even though the alliance is not restored, there is bound to be an improvement in the relations between the two countries that will contribute greatly toward consolidation of peace in the Far East.

"The prospective transfer to Manchukuo of the Chinese Eastern Railway will improve Japanese-Soviet relations. There is nothing of a serious nature between Japan and the United States. Thus an improvement in Anglo-Japanese relations is bound to have a favorable effect on the China situation. Promotion of better relations between Japan and Great Britain is to be welcomed."

Sir Charles D. Seligman, member of the British Industries Mission to Japan and Manchukuo, passed through Victoria on his way to England, last week. When here, while he would not discuss matters pertaining to the objective of the party, Sir Charles made a statement to the effect that at one time, while in the Orient, the members of the mission had suggested to newspapermen that an alliance would be favored. The mission members made it clear that it was on industrial business only, and could not possibly discuss politics. The reports were given such prominence by the Japanese press, however, that the British Government was obliged to deny them.

Salvage King Is Back Again From West Coast Trip

Returning from Ahousat, West Coast of Vancouver Island, where her crew were successful in raising the fish-packer Chuckwalla, the Ss. Salvage King reached her berth in the Inner Harbor, early yesterday morning. The Chuckwalla was raised from where she was lying in forty feet of water, in an exposed position, towed into quiet water, patched up and left at Tofino, from which point she will be towed to Vancouver by the Island Tug & Barge Company's tugboat Island Planet, which left for Tofino, Sunday afternoon.

The Chuckwalla ran on a reef on the evening of October 31, and her skipper and cook have been missing since. The salvage ship left here on November 1, but has been held up by bad weather. Captain Leighton Evans is captain of the Salvage King, and W. G. Jordan, salvage superintendent of the company, had charge of the salvage operations.

CABIN CRUISER PARTY RESCUED

Coast Guard Boat Removes Six Persons From Stranded Launch

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 12 (AP).—Six person suffering from exposure were rescued by the coastguard cutter Corwin, today, from their cabin cruiser The Sylvia, aground off Turtle Island, about five miles from here, in Lake Erie.

The Sylvia had been missing since yesterday, and fears had been expressed for the safety of those aboard.

All of the six were taken off the cruiser into a small surf boat in a choppy sea, and were placed aboard the Corwin, which immediately started for Toledo.

Those aboard The Sylvia were Mr. and Mrs. Orville Aufdenkampe; their daughter, Jeanette, seventeen; their son, Glenn, twelve; Ralph Hepner, nineteen, and two brothers, Edwin, twenty-two, all of Toledo.

Coastguard officers, in addition to sending out the patrol boat Corwin to look for the missing ship, ordered another patrol boat from Trenton, Mich., to aid.

The cabin cruiser left the wharf of William Reider, at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, with the six persons aboard planning a fishing trip in Maumee Bay. When they did not return last night as scheduled, fears were felt for their safety, and the coastguard was notified today.

WILL FIGHT FOR RIBAND

North German Lloyd Will Endeavor to Hold Atlantic Record

Germany is preparing to fight with the Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary for the blue riband of the ocean, of which she is the present holder.

"Even if the new English ship should gain the honor," says The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, "the last word would not have been spoken by the Europa and the Bremen."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung alludes to the possibility of replacing the engines of those speedy North German-Lloyd giants by new ones of much higher efficiency.

The Bremen and the Europa have at present 120,000 horsepower engines to move the 50,000 tons bulk through the sea at an average speed of twenty knots. The paper assumes that the Queen Mary, of about 85,000 tons of displacement, will develop thirty-two to thirty-four knots.

It suggests that new engines have since been prepared by the Schichau Works, at Elbing, East Prussia, which develop 180,000 horsepower, and are even smaller and lighter than the originals, and should give the ships a tremendous speed.

It would be easy, therefore, to equip the ships with new machinery that would give them greater speed. It is also pointed out that the two German liners have never developed top speed, as the company found it enough to let them travel at a rate sufficient to maintain the record against competitors.

Tanker Cordelia Goes Aground on Nova Scotia Reef

MULGRAVE, N.S., Nov. 12 (CP).—Held fast on a submerged sandbar, the 8,190-ton tanker Cordelia, remained aground today, while the Salvage Tug Foundation, Franklin, [illegible] her assistance.

The weather, threatening the ship which grounded early yesterday, had moderated today and the Cordelia was in no danger. Her crew was standing by, pumping oil astern in the hope she might be refloated before the tug's arrival.

CARGOES ARE HEAVIER NOW

Demand for Ship Space Is Growing—Pacific Reliance In Tomorrow

To load lumber for Australia, the British freighter Anglo-Australian, Captain A. Murray, arrived alongside Ogden Point Piers yesterday morning. She will probably complete here today, and will then shift to Mainland ports.

Captain Murray, who came out from England with his ship via Panama and will continue westerly until he makes a circuit of the world, stated yesterday that some improvement was apparent in the British shipping industry. There is more cargo offering, he stated, which means that space will very likely command a better price before long.

The gradual betterment of conditions generally in the Old Country would also have its effect on the shipping industry in the near future, Captain Murray expected. One thing helps along another, and the ships will get the benefit of returning prosperity in due course.

BELJEANNE AWAY

Completing loading her complement of lumber for the United Kingdom, the freighter Beljeanne left the lumber assembly plant last night for sea. The Appledore, is expected to shift to Port Alberni this evening. She is loading here for the United Kingdom.

Under command of Captain E. Bramford, the Swedish motorship Murjek, of the Transatlantic Steamship Company's fleet, is expected here first thing Thursday morning by King Brothers, who are the local agents for the ship. She will load at Ogden Point Piers for Australia.

The Furness Line freight and passenger ship, Pacific Reliance, is expected at Ogden Point Piers early tomorrow morning, King Brothers stated yesterday. The Reliance will load lumber for the United Kingdom.

From California ports by way of Port Alberni, the Kingsley Navigation Company's freighter Ss. Kingsley was expected to dock at Ogden Point Piers at an early hour this morning. The Kingsley will discharge and load cargo here.

According to a report from Seattle, serious consideration is being given by the railroads to the request of Pacific Northwest lumbermen for a special all-rail rate on lumber to the East. H. E. Pierpont, vice-president in charge of traffic for the Milwaukee Road, made the announcement.

"The railroads are all considering this together, and we have it actively before us now," Mr. Pierpont said.

"We cannot tell yet whether anything will come of the proposal, but the Western lines seem to be in favor of cutting the rates, and if the Eastern roads can be brought to the same point of view, the reduction may be made."

HISTORIC COMEDY NOW AT DOMINION

"Madame Du Barry" Stars Dolores Del Rio—Lighter Side of Period Stressed

"Madame Du Barry," the Warner Bros. production depicting the intimate life and loves of the famous beauty who ruled the court of King Louis XV, comes to the Dominion Theatre, today, with Dolores Del Rio in the leading role.

Although the intrigues of the court, as in any story of Du Barry, will be apparent, Edward Chodorov, the author of the current screen play, is said to have concerned himself with the lighter side of the king's favorite.

The picture, while billed as a comedy drama, with the emphasis on the comedy, also is a mammoth spectacle with its gorgeous reproductions of the court, the palace at Versailles, the famous Colonnade Gardens, where the grand ladies and resplendent courtiers disported themselves in gaiety and luxury, while the people starved.

The picture has an unusually large cast of talented players in the principal roles and hundreds of others in minor parts. Dolores Del Rio has the part of Du Barry with Reginald Owen playing opposite her as King Louis XV.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol — Ruby Keeler, in "Dames."

Columbia—Shirley Temple, in "Little Miss Marker."

Dominion — "Madame Du Barry," starring Dolores Del Rio.

Playhouse — Clark Gable, in "Manhattan Melodrama."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE The district attorney's wife was in love with New York's most notorious gambler! That unusual situation is developed to form the background for "Manhattan Melodrama," starring Clark Gable, William Powell and Myrna Loy, now at the Playhouse Theatre. Described as one of the year's outstanding screen presentations, the picture has been highly lauded where it has been shown.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Damon Runyan's "Little Miss Marker," which is now at the Columbia Theatre, marks the second directorial accomplishment of Alexander Hall, Paramount director, whose first solo assignment was the recent "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen." "Little Miss Marker" was produced by B. P. Schulberg and features Adolphe Menjou, Dorothy Dell, Charles Bickford and Shirley Temple.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel Is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day of your life.

Without that bile, trouble starts promptly. Your food just won't digest the way it should and your bowels are sluggish. Food decays inside you and your entire system is undermined by this poisonous waste matter. You have Indigestion—the discomfort of gas, bloating, heartburn and sourness. You are prey to headaches. Have a tongue like cotton-wool, a nasty taste in your mouth, bad breath and ugly skin. You haven't anything like the pep a healthy person should have. In fact you are generally wretched.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this completely by taking mere bowel-movers like salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They can't wake up your liver bile!

Avoid calomel (mercury). Buy yourself a box of old reliable Carter's Little Liver Pills. All vegetable, sure, gentle, safe. They'll wake up your liver without upsetting you. Bring back the glad-to-be-alive feeling, once more.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name and get them. Look for the name, "Carter's, on the red label. 25c and 50c everywhere. M-10

LARGE CHORUS WILL BE SEEN IN COUNTRY GIRL

The drilling of a large chorus to take part in a music comedy is quite a task, but such has been successfully done once again by Christopher Wade, musical director of the Victoria Operatic Society, which will present Lionel Monckton's "A Country Girl" at the Empire Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week.

Since early in September Mr. Wade has been drilling and rehearsing his chorus. When rehearsals first started the members of the chorus divided themselves into groups, composed of sopranos, contraltos, tenors and basses. They learned their parts thoroughly, going through each part many times. Each part learned its music separately and then the various parts were put together.

COMEDY, ROMANCE IN COMING CAPITOL FILM

Here is one motion picture that will find favor in every eye, no matter how critical. The picture is "Hide-Out," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which will open at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. It brings Robert Montgomery back in one of his most entertaining characterizations—"Lucky" Wilson, the prankish post-repeal racketeer who finds reformation through contact with a farmer's family in a typical rural setting.

Maureen O'Sullivan, always dependable for an excellent performance, again repeats with her portrayal of Pauline, the farmer's daughter. Whitford Kane, for thirty years a leading character actor of the London and New York stage, makes his screen debut as Miller, the farmer.

QUARTETTE TO PLAY HERE NOVEMBER 19

The Hart House Quartette will play a return engagement in San Francisco this season as one of a series of chamber music recitals in that city. They are to play sixty concerts in Canada and thirty in the United States during the season of 1934 and 1935. The members of the quartette spent the Summer in various ways. Geza de Kresz, first violin, after officiating as head of the violin department at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, had a short holiday on his estate near Budapest. Harry Adaskin, second violin, passed the Summer on the estate of the quartette's founder. Milton Blackstone, viola, fished and sailed off Nova Scotia. Boris Hambourg, 'cellist, spent his time in Italy and England.

This celebrated quartette will give a recital at the Empress Hotel on November 19 and will be assisted by John Hopper, pianist.

SWEDEN BUYING BOMBING PLANES

Dozen Big Machines Ordered From British Firm—Evidence of Stronger Defences

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 12 (AP).—The newspaper Aftonbladen said, today, Sweden's air force will soon be reinforced with the purchase of twelve English Handley-Page bombing planes, with a cruising speed of 185 miles an hour, fully loaded, and costing $100,000 each.

Swedish military authorities neither denied nor affirmed the report, pointing out merely negotiations with an English firm were sanctioned by the Government last Spring.

The fact the Socialist Government in Sweden is traditionally opposed to negotiating in armaments, caused the reported purchase to be regarded as undeniable evidence of increasing emphasis upon military defence, even among the peaceful Scandinavian countries.

MISSIONARIES' SON IS SHOT TO DEATH

who was said to have owned one of the pistols. Griffin, police reported, said he took the gun from Smith earlier in the evening.

Police discounted all of Griffin's story, except the central fact of the shooting.

KIDNAPPING SUSPECTED

Officers announced that Dennis Wells, another Negro, and an eyewitness to the killing from his room above the sidewalk, had identified Smith and Griffin as being the two men he saw fighting with Lyons, presumably after he had been kidnapped while driving his automobile alone and forced to drive to the district.

Lyons, a graduate of Yale and Columbia, was the son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Willard Lyons of New York prominent missionaries. Recently he started his studies at the University of Southern California Medical School.

WALLET IS FOUND

Seeking evidence, police went to the room assertedly occupied by Smith and Griffin, and there found, they reported, Lyons' wallet, and clothing similar to that in which Wells had reported the two suspects were attired at the time of the crime.

Shortly after the killing of Lyons, two police closed in on a Negro suspect, who escaped after an exchange of bullets. At one point the suspect aimed point blank at Officer C. E. Drew, but the gun missed fired, and he fled.

Hundreds of Japanese Fishermen Still Lost

TOKIO, Nov. 12 (CP-Havas).—Rescuers today accounted for the safety of only thirty fishermen of the nearly 1,400 missing in last week's storm off Kanyo, Nando Province, Korea. Since the neighboring coast has no possible harbors where the remainder of the missing could have taken refuge, they have been given up as lost.

Campbellton Baby May Be Drowned

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., Nov. 12 (CP). — Ardis Haycock, eighteen months old, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Haycock of Campbellton, is believed drowned here, but search of the river bank and dragging operations in the Campbell River have proved unavailing. She wandered away from her home on Sunday afternoon.

Italian Heroes Reburied

In the presence of Premier Mussolini, the bodies of the heroes of the Fascist revolution were disinterred and reburied with the highest honors at Florence, Italy, on the anniversary of Il Duce's successful revolt. Services were held in the Santa Croce Cathedral, from which the caskets are seen leaving as Black Shirts give the Fascist salute.

Irish Horseman Scores Victory

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (CP).—The Irish Free State Army team tonight broke the United States monopoly on the international military jumping competition at the National Horse Show when Captain Dan Corry rode Limerick Lace to victory in the individual championship.

Not content with merely stopping the United States, which carried off the honors in the high score competition, the Bowman Challenge Cup and the $1,000 sweepstakes, the officers from the Emerald Isle also won second place with Captain Frederick Ahern riding Gallowglass. Gallowglass won the trophy last year.

The Canadian entrants were disqualified.

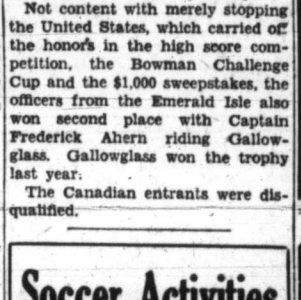

Soccer Activities

A special meeting of the Victoria City second division football team will take place this evening at the Veterans of France at 7:30. All players are asked to attend.

Signs Cunningham

PORT ERIE, Ont., Nov. 12 (CP).—Manager Mickey Roach, of the Bisons of the International Hockey League, announced, today, he had signed Lester Cunningham, of Calgary, centre and left winger, who had been a prospect at one time of Toronto Maple Leafs in the National League.

Cunningham played last season in Western Canada.

Saanich Thistles to Meet Victoria City In Football Feature

Important Soccer Match Billed at Royal Athletic Park Saturday—Wests to Oppose Esquimalt at Heywood Avenue—Kick-Offs at 2:30

With the Saanich Thistles, present league leaders, opposing a strengthened Victoria City eleven in the feature game, league fixtures will hold sway in local soccer circles, Saturday. Three matches are billed, two in the first division and one in the second division, while on Sunday afternoon, Victoria City's second eleven will journey to James Island to meet the Islanders in a regular league fixture.

Saturday's card is as follows:

First Division

Saanich Thistles vs. Victoria City, Royal Athletic Park; referee, Dave Swan.

Esquimalt vs. Victoria West, Heywood Avenue; referee, Ralph Alcock.

Second Division

Victoria West vs. Esquimalt, Beacon Hill upper ground; referee, Dave McMillan.

All matches will start at 2:30 o'clock.

ROWE JOINS CITY

Strengthened by the recent acquisition of Wally Rowe, former Saanich goalie, Victoria City should give the league-leading Thistles plenty of trouble in the fixture at the enclosure. Showing gradual improvement since their somewhat wobbly start, Victoria City today rests in third place, two points behind the second berth, Victoria West aggregation, and four points behind the bustling Saanich representatives.

While no definite announcement was forthcoming last night from Manager Jack Ewing as to who would be Rowe's successor, the names of George Legget and Wes Harper are being mooted as possible replacements for the former goalie. Harper has played the position before, and, if selected, to fill the vacancy, will not be working in foreign quarters.

WESTS MEET DOCKERS

Victoria West will battle the cellar-occupant Esquimalt eleven at Heywood Avenue, and while being slight favorites to win, will be expected to have their hands full. Roy Barnes and Ernie Betteridge, clever greenshirt players, who have been out for weeks with injuries, are not expected to return to the game this week.

Esquimalt, with one win and a draw to their credit so far this season, will be out to grab off a pair of points at the expense of the greenshirts. The Dockers went down to a 1-0 defeat on their home grounds last week at the hands of the leaders, but with prospects of a strong eleven for Saturday, followers of the Dockyard village team feel confident their favorites will humble the greenshirts.

SECOND DIVISION

In the only second division match carded, Victoria West will battle Esquimalt at Beacon Hill upper ground.

Sunday afternoon, Victoria City second division squad will journey to James Island to meet the powdermen on their home grounds. The kick-off for this match will be announced later.

WAGERS RISE TO HIGH MARK IN NEW YORK

Close to $800,000 Bet at Final Day of Racing at Narragansett Park

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP).—All attendance and pari-mutuel records for thoroughbred racing in New England were broken, today, when more than 56,000 persons wagered close to $800,000 at the final day of racing at Narragansett Park.

A total of $496,949 passed through the machines on the first five races, [illegible] fouth and fifth events reached more than $100,000 each.

The featured Legionnaire purse of a mile and seventy yards saw R. Robertson's Lynx Eye continue his consistent performances. The three-year-old gleding ran the distance in 1:47 2-5 over a heavy track to whip such good horses as J. U. Grattan's Chrysmute and the Arden Farm's Quel Jeu.

Raymond Pollard's chance line raced to a new track record for six furlongs in winning the $2,500 Fort Worth Handicap at Arlington Downs. Coming from off the race, the son of Chance Shot stepped the distance in 1:10 2-5, as compared to the old mark of 1:10 3-5.

J. Mathews and E. Colgate lifted the Roger Trophy at the Gorge Vale Golf Club, Sunday, by defeating J. J. Bartlett and R. Cox in the eighteen holes final by a narrow margin.

Seventeen Records Recommended at Athletic Gathering

Six Senior, Seven Intermediate and Four Junior Marks Applied for at Annual Meeting of Women's Organization

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (CP).—Seventeen records were applied for during the past year, it was revealed today at the eighth annual convention of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation, in the report of Mrs. H. C. Brennan, chairman of the records committee. The report was read by Miss Ruth Marshall.

Six senior, seven intermediate and four junior records were submitted. Fourteen were recommended for acceptance as 1934 records and three were noted in the record book as having been made during the year, but bettered at a later date.

The report said senior field records were still on the downward trend with the exception of the baseball throw, while track records were improving.

The Ontario branch submitted eight records; Quebec four; Manitoba three, and British Columbia two.

RECORDS RECOMMENDED

Records recommended and accepted are:

Senior—Fifty-metre hurdles, Betty Taylor, Ontario, 7.8 seconds (indoors); eighty-metre hurdles, Betty Taylor, Ontario, 11.9 seconds (outdoors), jointly with Roxy Smith Atkins, Ontario; 220 yards, Aileen Meagher, Ontario and Maritimes, 25.6 seconds (outdoors); 440-yard relay, Silverwood Athletic Club, Ontario, 49.6 seconds (outdoors); baseball throw, Robina Higgins, Manitoba, 218 ft 11 ins (outdoors).

Intermediate (All Outdoors)—One hundred yards, Irene Grinke, Manitoba, 11.4 secs; high jump, Isabella Miller, Ontario, 5 ft 1 5-8 ins; high jump, Margaret Bell, British Columbia, 5 ft 1 7-8 ins; baseball throw, Edith McBurney, Quebec, 202 ft 7 ins; baseball throw, Lily P. Woolley, Manitoba, 187 ft 9 ins; baseball throw, Sadie Weir, British Columbia, 107 ft 9 ins; javelin, Gwen Pherrill, Quebec, 104 ft 10 1-2 ins.

Junior (All Outdoors)—Sixty yards, Doris Haylock, Quebec, 7.2 secs; sixty yards, Edna Johnson, Ontario, 7.4 seconds; high jump, Poppy Nevins, Ontario, 4 ft 10 ins; 440-yard relay, Pats Olympic Club, Quebec, 54.4 secs. The junior high jump mark was accepted on condition that the record was made at a sanctioned meet and that all competitors in this event held cards.

Two Touchdowns Are Registered After Whistle

FINDLAY, O., Nov. 12 (CP).—Here's one for the book of football freaks. Findlay and Holbrook each scored a touchdown after the final whistle of their games Saturday. On the list play O'Connor, of Holbrook, intercepted a pass and dashed eighty yards, crossing the line after the whistle had blown.

But Holbrook was offside so the play was called back and run over again and this time Findlay scored. It was a sad blow for Holbrook, which lost the game.

SIXTEEN TEAMS ARE UNBEATEN

Number of Undefeated U.S. Grid Squads Dwindle as a result of Saturday's Games

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP).—The rapidly diminishing list of undefeated and untied football elevens in the United States had reached a new low of sixteen, today, an Associated Press compilation showed.

The undefeated and untied list follows: Alabama, Trinity (Connecticut), Depauw (Indiana), Navy, Cape Girardeau (Missouri) Teachers, Birmingham-Southern, Augustana (Illinois), Princeton, Minnesota, Kirksville (Missouri) Teachers, Syracuse, Upper Iowa, Illinois, Tufts (Massachusetts), Bluefield (West Virginia) College, St. Vincent (Pennsylvania).

Pirrone Given Decision Over Mickey Walker

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP).—Paul Pirrone, Cleveland middleweight fighter, tonight outpointed the former champion, Mickey Walker, of Rumson, N.J., in ten rounds before 8,500 fans at the arena. Walker weighed 164, Pirrone, 161.

Pirrone, a rugged boulder rooted squarely in Walker's comeback road, blasted the Rumson bulldog with a slugging two-fisted attack. The Cleveland belter came through with the unanimous decision of both judges and Referee Tommy Reilly.

From the opening bell, Pirrone kept up his battering, reaching a high point in the eighth, when he dropped the barrel-chested Mickey with a smashing right to the side of the chin.

St. Mary's Defeated

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Bruins of the University of California at Los Angeles, staved off two last-quarter goal-line thrusts by St. Mary's to win a holiday football struggle by 6-0 here today.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Germany's Darkest Hour—On Friday, November 8, 1918, at about 10 a.m., the German delegation, headed by Ersberger and General Winterfeldt, faced Foch in his railroad car in the Compiegne Forest. The crushing armistice conditions were read and translated to the Germans. When the Germans asked for a continuation of the negotiations, Foch replied that there was nothing to argue about. "You may accept or refuse," he said. "There is no third alternative." Then, pulling out his watch, the Marshal said, "It is now 11 a.m., November 8. I'll give you exactly seventy-two hours, or until November 11 at 11 a.m., to make up your mind." Two days later the Germans yielded, and that is why the Armistice began on November 11 at 11 a.m., although it was signed at 5:12 in the morning.

Royals Unable to Make Guarantee; Soccer Fixture Postponed

VICTORIA United soccer eleven, undefeated so far this season in inter-city football, will not travel across the gulf waters this week to meet New Westminster Royals in a regular inter-city league fixture, as contemplated, according to an announcement made yesterday evening by J. R. Jones, secretary of the Victoria committee of the British Columbia Football Commission. Failure of the Royals' management to guarantee the local club the $125 expenses allowed by the commission was given as the reason for the cancellation of the scheduled league fixture. Attendances at inter-city matches in Vancouver are not up to the mark and it was deemed advisable not to ask Victoria United to make the trip.

EFFORTS UNDER WAY TO BRING ATLANTA STAR TO VICTORIA

Phil Taylor Trying To Complete Arrangements to Have Greatest Golfer of All Time Perform at Oak Bay Links Next Tuesday—Is Playing in Seattle Sunday and Vancouver on Monday

The greatest golfing machine the world has ever known, Robert Tyre Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., better known wherever the royal and ancient game is played as Bobby, will display his great knowledge of shot making at the Victoria Golf Club next Tuesday afternoon, in an exhibition match, if the plans already under way materialize. All day, yesterday, Phil Taylor, professional at the Oak Bay course, was communicating with officials in charge of Jones' tour in an effort to bring the former king of the fairways to Victoria. He wired San Francisco and telephoned Vancouver to A. G. Spalding, Limited, under whose firm Jones is connected, trying to complete arrangements for his appearance here early next week.

BOBBY JONES

Yesterday, in Seattle, final plans were completed for Jones' first showing in the Pacific Northwest. He will play an eighteen-hole exhibition match at the Seattle Golf Club, next Sunday, and then go on to Vancouver, and Portland, before traveling to San Francisco and Los Angeles. He will arrive from the East on Saturday. In the Sound City, the ranking golfer of all time will be teamed up with Seattle's "Big Three" [illegible] "Scotty" Campbell, twenty-year-old holder of the Canadian amateur crown; Johnny Shields, Washington state titlist, and Harry Givan, a ranking Northwest Simon-pure star. Looking on at this match will be Horton Smith, famous professional, and Johnny Dawson, one of the country's leading amateurs, who will be in the city on a business trip. Both hail from Chicago.

PLAYS IN VANCOUVER

On the Mainland, Jones will appear in a foursome with Don Sutherland, British Columbia open titleholder, Dave Black, veteran professional of the Shaughnessy Heights Club, and his son, Ken, one of Canada's best amateur stars. If Jones comes to Victoria, which Oak Bay officials strongly believe he will, Phil Taylor and two others will be selected to play against him. All of Bobby's matches on this tour are for charity. He is representing Spalding, Limited, of which he is one of the directors.

All the great golfers of the past decade have shown their prowess before Victorians, with the exception of Jones, and therefore his appearance would attract one of the largest galleries in local history. Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Abe Espinosa, Aubrey Boomer, Archie Compston, Jim Barnes, Jock Hutchinson, Joe Kirkwood, Chick Evans and George Von Elm have all trekked the local fairways one time or another, but what the public has been clamoring for is a look at the great Jones in action, and its wishes will be fulfilled if the efforts of Phil Taylor are realized.

Anyone who knows any little thing about golf has heard of Jones' exploits on the courses of Canada, United States and the Old Country. Everybody was following Jones through the newspapers when he was making that "grand slam" in 1930, the greatest feat ever performed in golfdom. He started off by winning the British Open crown, and then moved to another course to mow his way through a representative field to take possession of the British amateur title, the first he ever won. Returning to America, Jones proceeded to win the United States open, and then climaxed his "slam" by breezing through the National amateur. After this performance, which was a great strain on Jones, both physically and mentally, the Atlanta club swinger retired from competitive golf.

When Jones dropped from the battle grounds, it was probably a great move to help golf, as he was so far ahead of the rest of the amateurs that it wasn't worth their while entering any tournament in which Jones was teeing off. When the master golfer started trimming his opponents anywhere from eight to ten up in major final, and winning open crowns by comfortable margins, he decided, for the good of the game, to drop from the competitions and give somebody else a chance to scribble their names on the respective trophies.

Besides the countless [illegible] he possessed, Jones captured the United States amateur four times and was runner-up once; the United States open a like number of times; the British open on three occasions, and the British amateur once, a record which will stand for many years to come.

NEW PRESIDENT TO BE ELECTED

Women's Amateur Athletic Federation to Install New Head—To Form Track Committee

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (CP).—Promise of an exciting fight for president of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation for 1934-35 was apparently averted, today, with the withdrawal of Mrs. R. J. Foster, of Edmonton, the present president. In her report to the eighth annual meeting, Mrs. Foster expressed the hope that her successor would derive as much pleasure from her work as she had. This was taken as an indication that Mrs. Foster would not seek the office again.

A hard fight was expected for the secretarial post now held by Miss Ann Clark, of Vancouver. Reports from the various branches were heard at today's session.

A motion favoring formation of a national track and field committee to draw up a standard set of rules governing track and field competition was put to the rules committee for discussion.

A motion to establish a new office of honorary president for retiring presidents was passed to the constitution committee. The Alberta report recommended that a uniform cost for cards be set for the Dominion.

A motion by the British Columbia branch that walking races for women be encouraged and included on the track and field championship programme was defeated.

Miss Clark said walking events were popular in British Columbia now, after a poor start. Myrtle Cook-McGowan, of Montreal, suggested that each branch sponsor a walking event at their championship meet and give a report on how the event was received by the public. The distance was set at one mile, and the motion was carried.

The Alberta branch tabled a motion that the W.A.A.F. appoint women officials in connection with Canadian international track and field teams. Some delegates asserted that as women could not look after themselves financially in connection with these teams, they should leave appointment of officials to the committee in charge. Others felt the federation should have the right to name the officials as they should govern their affairs.

Coach Lines in Upset Victory

Vancouver Island Coach Lines No. 2 squad sprung an upset last week, when they defeated Beach Hotel, league leaders, by the slight margin of two games, in a Victoria Table Tennis League fixture, the score being, 9-7. The outcome gave the Aces indisputable occupation of the premier berth in the league standing.

REGINA CAPTURES WESTERN CANADA GRID HONORS

Roughriders Beat Meralomas 7-2 to Take Series, 29-4

Prairie Football Squad Wins Sixteenth Championship by Defeating Coast Representatives Without Much Trouble—Takes Things Easy in Final Tussle—Lead All Through

By EVERETT GRAEME
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ATHLETIC PARK, VANCOUVER, Nov. 12 (CP).—Regina Roughriders smashed through the last opposition to their sixteenth Western Canada football title, defeating Vancouver Meralomas, tonight, 7-2. Regina took the two-game total-point series 29-4, having won the first game 22-2, on Saturday.

Refusing to take any chances with a greasy ball, Regina stuck to kicking and an occasional line smash. They ended the first half with a 4-0 lead, as the result of a rouge in the the first quarter, when George Niblo was downed by Al Miller, behind the Coast line, and a field goal by Kirk, in the second quarter.

INCREASE LEAD

Working into possession again in the third quarter, Kirk booted another placement for the last Prairie score. Late in the quarter Meralomas rallied to push their way deep into Regina territory. The husky Prairie line held, however, and Bill Burraston, the Coast's star drop-kicker, was called into the game for the orange and black. He missed the three points, but scored 'Lomas' first point when the ball bounded to the deadline.

Another drive carried Meralomas towards the Regina goalline again in the fourth quarter. Once more big Oke Olson drove his men into defence and Meralomas had to be content with Bob Ellis' kick to the deadline.

Playing on a gridiron almost ankle deep in mud and in a steady downpour, conditions which they are used to, Meralomas were a much different team than that which dropped a 22-2 decision last Saturday to the same Prairie squad.

While the weather conditions held the Reginans to safe football, the orange and black threw everything they had into the game, in an effort to score the first Coast victory over a Prairie crew in a Western final.

REGINA HOLDS LINE

The sweeping end runs which have helped Meralomas to three consecutive British Columbia titles, put them into scoring positions on a half-dozen occasions. Each time, however, the rugged Regina line held to smother the Coast threat or recover fumbles.

Only the great kicking of the towering Olson, who booted his team out of danger from his own five-yard line in the last three quarters, and the sensational running of Pierce and Kirk saved the Reginans from possible defeat.

Both Pierce and Kirk dodged through tacklers when returning kick, to give the visitors a decided advantage in the punting department.

Lanky Joe Ross, Meralomas' schoolboy punter, held his own with Olson in distance, but his kicks were low and the Meraloma ends did not have sufficient time to stop the kick receiver before he got started on his return.

Taken all around, Meralomas were far from outclassed in straight football ability, but they lacked the necessary polish that the Reginans showed.

LINE-UPS

Line-ups follow:

Regina—Campbell, Busch, Partridge, Adkins, Walker, Miller, Hegan, Gariuk, Tomecko, Chega, Wood, Sprague, Achtzener, Pierce, Sandstrom, Renwick, Olsen, Lydiard and Kirk.

Meralomas — Workman, Kobus, Bassett, Fairhall, Garvin, Oakenfull, Barker, Lawrence, R. Lowe, A. Lowe, Ferris, Hunt, Kindred, Stewart, Niblo, Cameron, Wilson, Ross, Whitcroft and Hammond.

Umpire—Angie Micthell, Regina. Referee—Del Finlay, Vancouver.

SUMMARY

First Quarter — Regina, Niblo rouged by Miller; one point.

Second Quarter — Regina, Kirk (field goal); three points.

Third Quarter — Regina, Kirk (field goal); three points. Meralomas—Burraston (kick to deadline); one point.

FRANK ORMONT WINS FEATURE

Sets Record Time in Racing to Victory in Main Event at Bay Meadows

BAYMEADOWS TRACK, SAN MATEO, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP).—Before the largest crowd of the meeting thus far, Frank Ormont, of the W. F. Axton stable, won today's feature race at Baymeadows Track in close to record time for the mile and seventy yards.

The four-year-old gelding, with Robert Jones up, turned the distance in 1:41, two-fifths of a second slower than the American record set by Mike Hall on Latonia Track, Kentucky, a few years ago.

Frank Ormont trailed the field until the stretch run, when Jockey Jones brought him to the front with a rush to win by one and one-half lengths.

Sea Cliff went to the front immediately and outlasted all but the winner to take second. Onrush, the favorite, and Chief Almgren, held close to the pace until the stretch, where the former tired. Chief Almgren stuck it out for third.

The crowd of 20,000 exceeded that of the opening day, November 3, while the day's total handle was around $130,000, the biggest so far.

Frank Ormont paid $13.20, $6.00 and $4.20. Sea Cliff returned $5.60 and $4.00 and Chief Almgren brought backers $4.60.

Two long-shots enlivened the programme, Sweet Chariot paying $62.60 to win in the third and Fair Orb returning $51.60 to win in the fourth.

Gorge Vale and Oak Bay Teams Battle to Tie

Gorge Vale and Victoria Golf Clubs broke even in the Victoria and District League match played Sunday at the Gorge Vale course. Walter Newcombe took the measure of Jimmy Todd, Oak Bay's star southpaw, in the singles, while Goldwyn Terry won from H. H. Allen. A. S. G. Musgrave took the point from the veteran Frank Thomas and R. J. Humberstone evened the count with a win against W. P. Bowden. In the foursomes, Todd and Terry trimmed Newcombe and Allen, while Thomas and Humberstone brought Gorge Vale victory over Musgrave and Bowden.

SYRACUSE OR COLGATE WILL MAKE JOURNEY

Winner of Important Game Saturday Will Travel for Rose Bowl Tussle

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP).—If an Eastern United States team should get the call to the Rose Bowl intersectional football classic on New Year's Day, it most likely will be the winner of the up-state New York battle this Saturday between unbeaten, untied Syracuse, and Colgate's Maroon Magicians, whose lateral passing attack is one of the season's sensations.

Princeton probably can't go West, even if last year's invitation is repeated—which is unlikely—and Navy, the East's third major unbeaten, untied aggregation, figures to be upset this week by Pittsburgh's powerhouse.

Syracuse hasn't beaten Colgate since 1924, although the orange has managed to salvage two ties from the last nine counters. The Maroons have had the "Indian sign" on most of the best Syracuse teams and will be the favorites this Saturday, even though the orange is not lacking in support.

STRONG ATTACK

To win, Syracuse must discover some means of checking the trickiest "Warner" offence in the East. Colgate has a team of ball-tossers although Gene Kern, the combination kicker-passer, and Joe Bogdanski is among the East's standout ends. Colgate's only defeat was at the hands of Ohio State, 10-7.

Football sharps are saying that Navy's luck can't hold out much longer and that the sailors are due for a licking from Pittsburgh as well as another defeat at Army's hands December 1.

Master Minds of Chicago

These two men hold the directing reins of Chicago Black Hawks, as the Stanley Cup champions seek to repeat this season. Left is Major Frederick McLauchlin, owner of the Hawks, and right, Clem Loughlin, former defence player, whom he brought to take over the managing job after two successful seasons handling London Tecumsehs, of the International League. Loughlin is a westerner, and was rated a smart player in his day.

Danny McDonald To Appear Here Saturday Night

DANNY McDonald, clever Toronto wrestler, will return to the Tillicum gymnasium, Saturday evening, to appear in the main event of another grappling programme being lined up by Promoter Fred Richardson. McDonald showed here for the first time two weeks ago and was given the call over Steve Nenoff, Bulgarian, when the latter persisted in using rough tactics despite many warnings by Referee Johnnie Pears. Fast and clever, McDonald should give a good account of himself against any of the leading middleweights now invading the Pacific Northwest.

GOALIE ORDERED TO TRAVEL WEST

Emmett Venne, of Quebec Beavers, Recalled by Seattle Hockey Team

SEATTLE, Nov. 12 (AP).—Hugh Caldwell, president and owner of the Seattle Sea Hawks of the Northwestern Hockey League, said tonight that Emmett Venne, who has played two games this season for the Quebec Beavers, but who is owned by the Seattle club, has been ordered to report here to play this Winter for the Sea Hawks.

He has been furnished transportation and was supposed to leave Quebec for the West tonight, Caldwell said.

FANS PERTURBED

QUEBEC, Nov. 12 (CP).—Hockey fans were perturbed here over a report today that Emmett Venne, star goalie for the Quebec Beavers of the Canadian-American Hockey League, who is the property of the Seattle club, may be called to the Pacific Coast.

Venne guarded the nets for the Beavers in their two starts against Boston clubs here, and won the admiration of the fans with his spectacular stopping. The report had it that the Seattle club, now in course of organization, has hinted it will need Venne to complete the team. Quebec's substitute goalie is "Sonny Boy" Baxter.

Nearly 4,500 persons at Dunfermline, Scotland, are taking a course in elocution to correct defective speech.

T. Morrison Is Winner of Meet At Uplands Club

Registering a net card of 64, T. Morrison captured the annual Remembrance Day tournament, staged Sunday at the Uplands Golf Club. He takes possession of the handsome Angus-Dillabough Shield for the next twelve months by his victory. Dr. H. H. Livsey took second position with a card of 65. The winner also took the special prize donated by Major Gus Lyons. Following the tourney, the sixty-eight competitors sat down to a buffet supper in the clubhouse.

Letters to the Editor

BACKS UP REFEREE

Sports Editor:

Sir,—On behalf of the Sunday School Basketball League, I wish to correct the false impression created in your Sunday issue in connection with the basketball games at the Y.M.C.A.

Your news item states that the Oak Bay team refused to return to the court after the half-time interval on account of the unfair decisions of A. F. Barton, the referee, which is incorrect.

Mr. L. Hall, manager of the Oak Bay team, informed me that he refused to let his boys take the floor again on account of the loose way in which the game was handled by the official in question.

A. F. Barton, who was appointed by league officials to handle the game, is a competent referee.

Yours truly, F. HARDING.
Secretary Sunday School Basketball League.

Ardmore Squad Scores Victory

Capturing the first four matches, the visiting Ardmore Golf Club captured the women's inter-club match from Gorge Vale, Sunday, at the local course by a 4 to 3 score. Miss D. Fraser took the feature match from Peggy Allen, Gorge Vale star.

Results, with the Ardmore players first mentioned, follow:

Miss D. Fraser 1, Miss P. Allen 0.
Mrs. J. McIlwraith 1, Mrs. H. H. Allen 0.
Mrs. W. T. Sisson 1, Mrs. H. P. Hodges 0.
Miss C. W. Gamble 1, Miss M. Banfield 0.
Mrs. C. Macdowall 1, Mrs. L. Silburn 0.
Miss M. Macdowall 0, Mrs. D. W. Morry 1.
Miss C. Cochrane 0, Miss J. Torrance 1.

New Wind Brakes To Be Installed On the Bluebird

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—A new and revolutionary system of wind brakes is being installed on Sir Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird in preparation for an assault of his automobile speed record at Daytona Beach, Fla., in January.

His car is being fitted with a number of "fins" on each side of the body at the rear. When the great projectile flashes across the finish line, perhaps at 300 miles an hour, Sir Malcolm will pull a lever raising the fins.

"We hope the wind pressure will gradually reduce the speed to a point where the regular brakes may more safely be applied," he explained today.

TORCHY IS LAP AHEAD

Local Rider, Along With Audy and LePage, Setting Fast Pace

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12 (AP).—Torchy Peden, Jules Audy and Henri Lepage took the lead by one lap as the seven three-man teams in Cleveland's six-day bike grind approached the one hundredth hour late tonight.

Three teams were tied for second place behind the Canadians. Jimmy Walthour was slightly injured when a tire burst in a jam, but returned to the race in time to capture a one-mile sprint from Audy.

GEORGE MANTHA OUT OF HOCKEY

Canadiens' Left-Winger Fractures Three Ribs in Training—Is in Hospital

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (CP).—George Mantha, left winger of the Montreal Canadiens, today fractured three ribs in a practice here, and will be lost to the club for two or three weeks. The fast, young player was taken to hospital, where an X-ray examination showed the fractures.

It is the third season in a row he has broken bones. In 1933 he cracked a heel bone, missing the play-offs, and last Spring he broke a bone in his ankle and again missed the Stanley Cup eliminations.

George was tripped by his elder brother, Sylvio Mantha, and went flying into a goal-post, hitting his left side.

BASKETBALLER IS GIVEN STIFF SUSPENSION

Chuck Sharpe Ruled Out of Game for Season by League Executive

Making a definite stand against rough play, officials of the Victoria and District Basketball League, yesterday evening, suspended "Chuck" Sharpe, forward of the Regents intermediate "A" boys' hoop squad, for the balance of the 1934-35 season, because of his actions in a game at the Victoria High School gymnasium on November 7, when his club was playing Kingham-Gillespie in a regular league fixture.

Sharpe was ruled off the floor at the Victoria High School gymnasium by Referee Alan Le Marquand for fighting. C. Phillips, a member of the Kingham-Gillespie quintette, was ordered from the game at the time by the official arbiter, but after hearing the case at a special meeting in The Colonist board room, the executive immediately reinstated Phillips in good standing.

In suspending Sharpe for the remainder of the season, the executive made it known in no uncertain terms that they will not, under any consideration, tolerate rough play in any Victoria and District Basketball League fixtures.

The season's suspension meted out to Sharpe by local cage moguls is the longest involuntary rest that a basketball player has drawn here for some time. The drastic action by league officials came about as the result of two previous flare-ups at the Victoria High School gymnasium, both of which were drawn to their attention, and the players censured.

In addition to being placed beyond the pale as a player, Sharpe will be unable to referee Sunday School League fixtures, an official of this loop intimated yesterday evening.

Specialty Stocks Move Upward at Eastern Markets

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (CP).—Strength in paper stocks and selected specialties held the spotlight during today's session of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

St. Lawrence Paper, preferred, closed at 15, a gain of 2 1-2 points. St. Lawrence Corporation, common, advanced 35c at 1.80, while the preferred stock was up 3-8 at 7 3-8.

Consolidated Smelters rose 3 points at 139.

Niagara Wire Weaving, common, was 5 1-4 points higher at 14, and the preferred 5 points at 40. Canadian Cement, preferred, gained 1-2 at 52 1-2.

Dominion Bridge and Canadian Industrial Alcohol advanced fractions. B.C. Power "B" dipped 1-2 at 4 1-2.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (CP).—The industrial section of the Toronto Exchange was able to hold its recent gains in today's session of the Toronto Exchange. Pivotal issues advanced moderately.

Oil and reconstruction shares were the cheif traders. British American advanced 1-4 to 15 1-4; slightly higher prices ruled for C.P.R., Brazilian and Ford "A," with the turnover heavy in the rail issue.

Distillers-Seagrams gained 3-8 to 15 3-8. The brewery group was firm. Dominion Tar, preferred, advanced nearly 3 points to 27 7-8. The steel issues were rather slow and mainly steady.

Gains of a point or more came out for the Goodyear stocks, Canada Permanent, Consumers Gas, Beatty Bros. and Bell Telephone.

Reports of U.S. Gov't Buying Send Futures Higher at Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (CP).—Spurred by reports by the United States Government, silver futures soared in active trading on the Canadian Commodity Exchange today.

London spot and forward silver recording a gain of 1 1-4 pence, sent futures 220 to 247 points higher at the opening. Later a recession was experienced, but at the close the tone was firm, with advances ranging from 200 to 232 points. A total of sixty-four contracts changed hands during the five hours of trading.

December, with twenty-eight contracts changing hands, opened at 55.80 and closed at 55.60, as compared with Satuday's final bid of 53.40. April, with nineteen lots being transacted, opened at 57.10, but receded, as the session progressed, to 56.82.

Srength near the close sent it up to 56.95, where it finished the day with an increase of 220 points, against the final bid Saturday of 54.75. Seventeen bids of March sold at 56.80 at the opening and recorded a low of 56.55 in the afternoon, but the final sale of 56.75 was up 232 points from Saturday's closing bid of 54.43.

AT LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—The price of silver advanced 1 1-4 pence to a new high quotation of 25 1-4 pence an ounce, today, on heavy speculative buying in a market in which clearings were small.

AMERICAN MARKETS OBSERVE HOLIDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (CP).—All financial and commodity exchanges in the United States were closed today, in commemoration of Armistice Day, except the various livestock markets.

Canadian and European markets were open as usual.

WHEAT PRICES DIP FRACTIONS

Moderate Export Sales Fail to Stem Decline at Winnipeg Market

WINNIPEG, Nov. 12 (CP).—Wheat futures prices dipped closer to the minimum-price levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, today, slowly easing throughout a dull session to close 7-8 to 3-4 cent lower.

Effects of moderate export sales of Canadian wheat failed to stem the decline as December closed at 77 1-2 cents, only 2 1-2 cents above the "pegged" price. May ended at 82 1-2 to 1-4, 2 1-4 cents above the minimum, and July at 83, 1 3-4 above the peg.

The decline was due to lower prices at Liverpool, where heavy liquidation in the December future was reported. Values there closed 1 1-8d to 5-8d lower.

World wheat shipments increased sharply last week, with 12,368,000 bushels being cleared from all sources. North America's share was 4,232,000 bushels, considerable improvement over the previous week's figures.

Cash grains were slower, coarse grains eased in sympathy with wheat.

TORONTO MINE STOCKS FIRMER

Leading Silvers in Demand —Other Issues Make Small Gains

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (CP).—Interest in silver shares on the mining board of the Toronto exchange was stirred up today by a jump in the price of bar metal on Montreal and London markets, where the United States Government was reported to be a buyer. The leading silver stocks closed higher on heavy volume.

Castle-Trethewey at 76 showed a gain of 3 1-2. Bear Exploration gains a fraction at 23. Nipissing added 5, and White Eagle, 3-4.

Prospectors Airways at 96 improved 7 cents. Little Long Lac firmed to 5.65, and advances of a few cents came out for Gunnar, Sylvanite and Conalrum. Penny issues closing slightly higher included Ashley, Big Missouri, Bobjo and Wayside.

SILVER ISSUES CLOSE HIGHER

Sally Mines Soars 13 Cents as Other White Metal Stocks Gain

VANCOUVER, Nov. 12 (CP).—Silver issues were strong in active trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange, today, due to the higher price for the metal on the London market. The trend was mixed in the rest of the list.

Sally Mines featured with a gain of 13 at 43. Porter Idaho was up 2 1-2 at 10 3-4, Noble Five gained 1 3-4 at 8 3-4 and Beaver Silver finished at 7 3-4, up 3-4.

Bralorne advanced 15 to 13.15, Premier Gold was up 2 and Wayside firmed 3-4 cent. Cariboo Gold, Gold Belt and Minto were all off a cent. United Empire was a little stronger at 12 1-2 with no sales transacted.

B.C. Nickel, an active trader, and Big Missouri each lost a point at 46 and 13, respectively, and Golconda gained 4 at 34.

Royalite gained 10 at 15.10, and Calgary & Edmonton eased a cent.

CANADIAN DOLLAR AND POUND RATES

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (CP).—Trading was light on Montreal foreign exchanges, today, owing to the holiday in New York.

The pound gained 1-4 of a cent at $4.87 15-32, while the United States dollar was off 3-32 of 1 per cent at 2 17-32 per cent discount. The French franc eased .01 of a cent at 6.42 cents.

BAR GOLD AT LONDON

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (CP).—Bar gold in London down one cent to 33.96 an ounce in Canadian funds; 139s 6d in British funds. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to 34.13 in Canadian funds.

Toronto Produce

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (CP).—Wholesale produce prices: Eggs, grade A1 large, dozen, 50c. Churning cream, No. 1, pound, 19c. Butter, No. 1 solids, pound, 19 1-2c.

ESTREATED BAIL

In the police court, yesterday, Jackie Simms failed to appear when her name was called on a charge of conducting a disorderly house at 548 Johnson Street. Three women, Helen Joyce, Reta Lane and Eddie Mack, were charged with being inmates of the place. They also failed to appear. Bail to the amount of $100 in respect to the keeper and $50 for each of the inmates charged was estreated. The suggestion was made by C. L. Harrison that perhaps the accused had thought that yesterday was a holiday and that there would be no court. They might, he said, appear this morning.

Bonds—Canadian 4 per cent Loan, 1953-58, £112; British 2 1-2 per cent Consols, £89; British 3 1-2 per cent War Loan, £106 1-2; British Funding 4's, 1960-90, £116.

CALGARY LIVESTOCK

CALGARY, Nov. 12 (CP).—Cattle market was active at firmer prices, buyers grading easier. No hogs sales up to noon, last prices Saturday: Selects, $6.65; bacons, $6.15, and butchers, $5.65 off trucks, 20 cents lower than Friday's quotations.

Cattle: Medium to good butcher steers, $2.25 to $3; common steers, $1.50 to $2. Medium to good butcher heifers, $2 to $2.75; common heifers, $1.75. Medium to good butcher cows, $1.25 to $1.50; common cows, $1. Medium veal calves, $2. Common to medium butcher steers, $1.50 to $1.75.

Passenger and freight receipts of Government railways in Japan are much greater than a year ago.

REMARKABLE SITUATIONS EXIST:

Situations where INCOME CAN BE RESTORED to that formerly enjoyed and, at the same time, PLACE MORE SECURITY behind the new investment than exists behind the old.

DEPICTING TWO: 1. Many Victorians are holding bonds of a Canadian company that has been short in its interest requirements during the past four years by Two Million Dollars. The Assets behind each $1,000 is approximately $1,200 after making a fair allowance for depreciation. The bond pays $60 per annum.

If the holder so desires, he can change to another debenture payable in Victoria, where the SECURITY IS MUCH GREATER AND THE COMPANY HAS EARNED ITS INTEREST REQUIREMENTS BY A LARGE MARGIN OVER THE SAME PERIOD. With the money left over, and an additional $210.00, he can secure two $500 debentures in two companies, THE TOTAL ASSETS OF WHICH ARE NEARLY DOUBLE THE ASSETS OF THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY. These companies have also earned their interest requirements by a large margin after heavy depreciation allowances. THE CLIENT INCREASES HIS INCOME BY $50.00 per annum, and the Assets behind his investment by approximately $8,700.

2. A PREFERRED STOCK, also largely held in Victoria, NOT PAYING DIVIDENDS, can be changed to a preferred stock of a very much larger company PAYING DIVIDENDS, with little or no additional cost. (The first company's stock has earned nothing in four years, the last company has earned the dividends required an average of over twice). RESTORING YOUR INCOME, SECURING MORE EQUITY AND WITH BETTER POSSIBILITIES OF APPRECIATION.

WE WILL WORK OVER ANY SITUATION THAT YOU MAY LAY BEFORE US. OUR AIM IS TO OBTAIN MORE SECURITY FIRST, AND THEN INCOME.

IS THE RISK WORTH WHILE

Business conditions have made the management and conservation of estates increasingly difficult. Is it wise then to entrust this work to any but the most experienced?

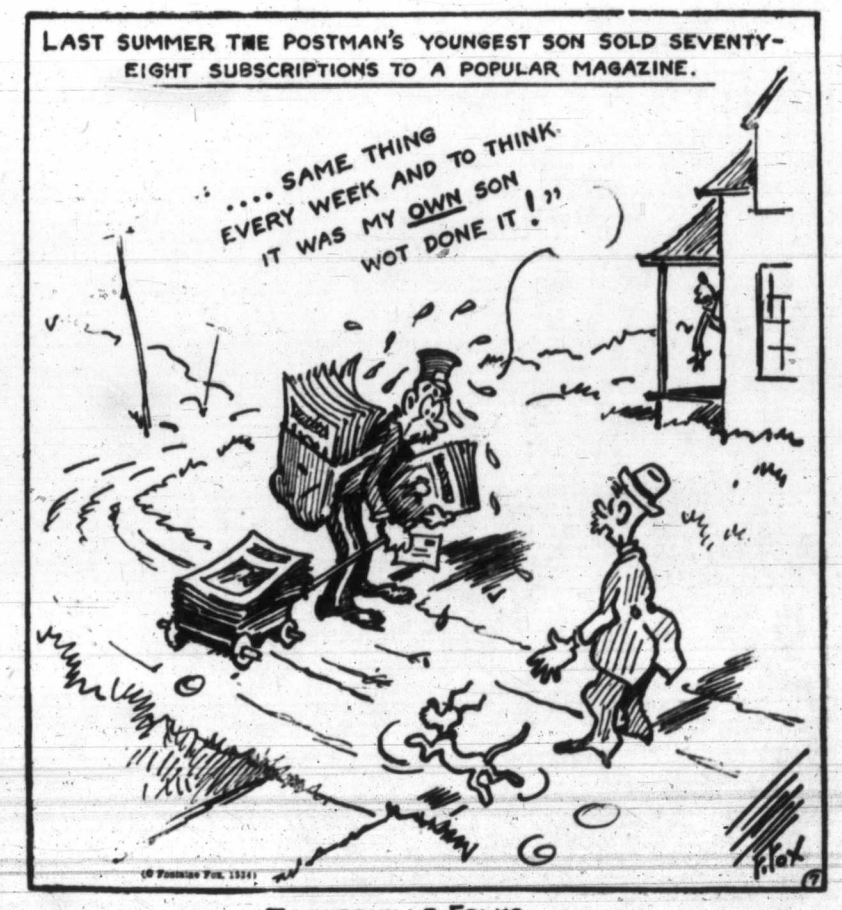

Results have proved—especially during recent years—that estates handled by corporate trustees have fared considerably better than those handled by individuals. This is not strange, as it is obvious that management by an over-burdened individual would be less effective than that of a body of men whose sole business is the care and management of funds and property.

The officers of this institution are always glad to discuss with clients and prospective clients plans for the conservation of their estates.

We invite you to make use of our services.

Virginia Vane Says:

LET FRIEND FIND OUT TRUTH ABOUT WIFE HIMSELF

Dear Virginia Vane: A very dear friend of mine has been married to a girl for the past year. My friend's business takes him out of town several nights a week, and while he is away his wife has other dates. I have seen married men coming out of her apartment at 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, and in a highly intoxicated condition.

I feel that her husband (a friend of mine since childhood) is unaware of his wife's actions, as he always treats her as if she were the goddess of purity.

I think that I am being less than a real friend in remaining silent while I know my friend's happiness is being undermined. Do you think I would be justified in calling his wife's behaviour to his attention? I have his confidence and I know he would believe whatever I told him.—Mary Lou.

There is plenty of justification for your calling your friend's attention to his wife's flightiness, but you must not do it. You must adopt a hands-off policy, no matter how much it seems at variance with every principle of friendship you have.

It is very possible that you have let your imagination run riot, and that though appearances are against the wife, no harm may have been done, and you would only jeopardize your friendship with both of them by acting as informer.

Many husbands and wives have such a complete understanding that while either is away the other has dates, and though they may be unconventional, they do no real harm to the marriage. Perhaps your friend has such a perfect understanding with his gay young wife. You can see that the insult directed at this confidence, implied in your warning him, would very likely result in his marking you down as a trouble maker. And even though your suspicions are founded on fact, it would take an awful lot of persuasion to convince him of his wife's infidelity, and the rumpus the accusation is bound to create might give the wife a chance to cover her footsteps. She would have been warned, and in the future be more careful in her rendezvous. Nothing would have been accomplished to remedy the situation permanently, and in all probability the deception would continue more secure from discovery through your very warning.

By being silent about the matter, you will be in a better position to really help this friend when the time comes. You must do nothing that will cause him to lose confidence in you, for if what you think is true, your friend is going to be in great need of someone like yourself before very long.

WIFE DESERVES SOME CONSIDERATION

My Dear Miss Vane: I have been married for five years, and though I have not been completely happy nor in love with my wife all of that time, I thought that my marriage was probably as much of a success as most.

Recently my wife had to go away for a rest and to restore her health (impaired by an auto accident which has made it impossible for her to have children). During her absence I met a former girl friend to whom I had been at one time engaged. As soon as we saw each other again we realized that we were still in love and that there never could be anyone else for either of us. This discovery has made my marriage almost unbearable. My former fiancee and I love each other so desperately that we are both ready and willing to go to any lengths to be together and to disregard completely any unfavorable comment we may arouse.

Don't you believe we are justified in "stealing" our love in this way? How can we help the situation?—Bob X.

Don't you really think you are attaching too much importance to this newly found old love? How is it that this love you find you can't do without didn't culminate in marriage when it had the chance to? There must have been a very real weakness then, and certainly the mere fact that you got yourself married cannot have been sufficient to remove it. I think that if you will be completely honest with yourself, you will find that it still exists, even though insignificant beside the glamour of the present relationship. The "grand passion" may very well derive its principal strength from the old law of forbidden fruit, and once you find yourselves entirely free of the present obstacles your love will not appear as enchanting.

You have had one or two changes of heart so far, and it is very likely that your present desperation is caused by this same instability in your character. Hasn't it occurred to you that this girl is showing up pretty badly in the business? She seems not to have thought of your wife in the matter at all, and is perfectly contented to wreck your wife's happiness to recover what she lost on a fair and square basis years ago. Her willingness to go along on your unconventional proposal should have brought you up pretty sharp also. If you do happen to marry this girl, what sort of a married life will you be able to have if you jeopardize your reputation now by "stealing" your love? The disgrace attached to your name by such a course would very likely follow you all through your married life. All these considerations must be carefully thought over before you take any irrevocable step in the matter.

You owe it to your wife, of course, to talk the whole business over with her. And the loyalty and devotion she has shown you during your years together deserve more from you than the sordid affair you now contemplate.

You are a man, and with this title goes the responsibility of meeting a crisis with strength, courage and sane thinking. Your intelligence must show you that it would be extremely unwise to make any decision while everyone is in such an emotional ferment. If after three months you feel that your love for this girl warrants causing your wife a very real pain, it is better that you take advantage of the divorce laws and make a clean break, rather than compromise with the issue by cheating your wife and your home.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"ALL HOPE ABANDON—"

It has been suggested repeatedly by various legislators that this line be prominently placed on the portals of Wall Street

Whether this or any other admonition will act as a deterrent to human ignorance, cupidity and greed is a question. It is at any rate interesting to observe the necessity to go back six or seven centuries to one of the greatest classics of literature to find a forceful phrase fitting to warn modern unwary man of imminent financial peril.

The line under consideration is from Canto III, line 9, of Dante's "Hell," the complete quotation being:

"All hope abandon, ye who enter here."

Forty-two denominations in Canada and the United States are co-operating during the present educational year to give fresh emphasis to "Christ in the life of the home." Articles are appearing in church magazines and in pamphlet form, a number of which are available through the office of the Religious Education Council, 410 Dominion Bank Building, Vancouver.

1 BIRTHS

GILLAM—At St. Joseph's Hospital, to Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Gillam, 471 Gorge Road, on November 10, a daughter.

2 DEATHS

DANBY—At her home, 1041 Chamberlain Street, on November 12, Adele Danby, widow of William Hartley Danby, aged eighty years; born in London, England, and had been residing in this city for forty-six years. She is survived by three sons, William E., Cariboo; Montague J., Seattle, and Arthur V., Victoria; one sister in Australia and three grandchildren in Seattle.
The remains are resting at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, where the funeral will be held on Wednesday, November 14, at 2 p.m. Interment in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

ARMSTRONG—On Sunday morning, November 11, at St. Joseph's Hospital, there passed away Mrs. Robert Armstrong (nee Gertrude Carter), in her twentieth year, and a native daughter. She is survived by her sorrowing husband, an infant daughter, residing at 834 Courtney Street; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carter, of 473 Superior Street; six sisters, Mrs. John McDonald, Nanaimo; Mrs. James Chalmers, Vancouver; Grace, Marguerite, Marion and Dorothy; also a brother, Clifford, at the family residence.
The funeral will take place this afternoon (November 13), at 3 o'clock, at the chapel of the Sands Mortuary, Ltd., and the remains will be laid at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

WINTERFIELD—On Monday afternoon, November 12, at St. Joseph's Hospital, there passed away Mrs. Mary Ann Winterfield, aged sixty-two years, beloved wife of Charles Winterfield, of 3067 Millgrove Street, Saanich, a resident of this city for the past twenty-three years, formerly of Toronto, Ont. She is survived by, besides her sorrowing husband, two daughters, Mrs. B. H. Woolston, of 2821 Heath Drive, and Mrs. F. R. Massingham, of 543 Joffre Street, also four grandchildren.
The funeral will take place on Thursday, November 15, at 2 o'clock, from the chapel of the Sands Mortuary, Ltd. Rev. H. J. Armitage will officiate, and the remains will be laid at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park. (Toronto papers please copy.)

LOTHIAN—Passed away on November 11 at the home, 20 Bushby Street, Victoria, Isabella Annie Lothian, aged eighty-three, wife of William Lothian. Mrs. Lothian was born in Scotland and came to Pipestone, Man., in 1883. The family moved to Victoria in 1913, where they have since resided. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and daughter, Catherine, at home, and two sons, Geoffrey, of Pipestone, Man., and Norman, of Vancouver. Her youngest son, Robert, was killed in action at Ypres in 1916.
Funeral service will take place this afternoon (Tuesday, November 13), at 2 o'clock, from the Thomson Funeral Home. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., will officiate. Interment will be in the Royal Oak Burial Park.
(Vancouver and Winnipeg papers please copy.)

STILLWELL—There passed away Saturday afternoon, November 10, after a short illness, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Rebecca Delahey Stillwell, aged seventy-nine years. The late Mrs. Stillwell was born in Pembroke, Ont., and was the widow of the late Rev. Dr. J. R. Stillwell, who predeceased her ten years ago. Mrs. Stillwell spent the early part of her life in Ontario, and after her marriage accompanied her husband to India, where he served as a Baptist missionary for over forty-five years. Moving from Cocanada, India, the late Mrs. Stillwell spent a short time in Ottawa, and four years ago took up her residence in this city with her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Enoch, 2708 Dufferin Street, Oak Bay. She leaves in sorrow two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Enoch, Victoria, and Mrs. J. B. McLaurin, Brandon, Man.; also two brothers, George Delahey, of Morris Town, New York State, and James Delahey, Ottawa.
Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning, November 14, at 11 o'clock, from the parlors of the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. Dr. A. S. Imrie will officiate and the remains will be forwarded on the afternoon boat en route to Pembroke, Ontario, where interment will be made in the family plot.

TAYLOR—At the Royal Jubilee Hospital there passed away, November 9, Peter Taylor, aged eighty-two years, and a resident of this city and district for the past twenty-two years. The late Mr. Taylor was born in England, and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Emma Carter, of Northowram, Halifax, Yorkshire, England.
Funeral services will be held this afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock, from the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. J. H. A. Warr will officiate, and the remains will be laid at rest in the Colwood Burial Park.

PATRICK—There passed away in Bremerton, Wash., Saturday, November 10, Feather Robert (Ted) Patrick, aged forty-five years; born in Simpson Township, near Montreal, Que.; a resident of Victoria for a number of years, but for the past fifteen years he resided in Seattle and Bremerton. The late Mr. Patrick is survived by his widow and one daughter, at Bremerton; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patrick, of 950 Joan Crescent; three sisters, Mrs. W. M. Scott, of 425 Michigan Street; Mrs. J. W. Miller and Mrs. Gordon Strickland, Vancouver; four brothers, Frank, of Vancouver and Boston; Lester, of Victoria and New York, and Guy and Stanley, in Vancouver; also nephews and nieces.
The funeral will take place this afternoon (Tuesday, November 13), at 2 o'clock. Dr. Gerald B. Switzer and Rev. C. G. MacKenzie will officiate at the chapel of the Sands Mortuary, Ltd., and the remains will be laid at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park. (Kindly omit flowers.)

4 CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. R. S. May and family, Victoria, wish to thank their many friends for the kindness and sympathy shown to them, and for the many beautiful flowers sent during their recent sad bereavement.

Armistice Services Well Attended on the Island

NANAIMO, Nov. 12.—Hundreds of citizens, under the direction of Nanaimo branch of the Canadian Legion, attended the annual Armistice services at the Cenotaph, Front Street, on Sunday morning.

The 2nd Battalion of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, commanded by Capt. Campbell Dow; Great War veterans, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, patriotic and fraternal organizations were present. A guard of honor from "B" Company, Nanaimo militia, flanked both sides of the bronze tablet. Mayor J. Barsby was master of ceremonies.

Prayers were said by Rev. B. Eyton Spurling, of Ladysmith. The Silver Cornet Band led the singing of hymns and "Land of Hope and Glory." "Lament of the Forest" was played on the bagpipes by Piper McLean, of Duncan. Bugler B. Drysdale, of Victoria, sounded "The Last Post," which marked the close of the two-minute period. Wreaths were deposited by the presidents of organizations as follows: Canadian Legion, Mrs. W. Mortlock; Canadian Red Cross, F. Reynolds; Bastion Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. C. H. Barker; Malaspina Chapter, I.O.D.E., Miss Gladys Hindmarch; Native Daughters, Mrs. H. McMillan; Black Diamond Lodge, I.O.O.F., H. Crellin; Eagles' Lodge, W. Fulton; Kiwanis Club, J. Stockwell; Girl Guides, Kathleen Bentham; Mooseheart Legion, Mrs. D. Kirkbride; Rotary Club, W. Mitchell.

AT LADYSMITH

LADYSMITH, Nov. 12.—National Remembrance Day was commemorated on Sunday morning here. A few hundreds citizens and visitors attended the service. There was a guard of honor detailed from the Canadian Scottish, in charge of Sgt. E. Peerless, and a detachment of the local troop of Boy Scouts, with Scoutmaster E. Heyes in attendance.

Rev. C. McDiarmid read the Scripture lesson and Col. Cy Peck gave a very interesting talk on "Peace." C. H. Dickie, Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. H. Savage were also on the platform.

The Ladysmith-South Wellington Band rendered selections at intervals, under the able baton of J. Tonkin.

AT COBBLE HILL

COBBLE HILL, Nov. 12.—The annual Remembrance Day service was held on Sunday morning at the War Memorial at Cobble Hill. There was an excellent attendance from the surrounding districts with representatives from the Malahat branch of the Canadian Legion, ex-service men, Women's Auxiliary to the Legion, I.O.D.E., Girl Guides, Brownies, Cobble Hill and Shawnigan Women's Institutes, Court Shawnigan A.O.F., and all public schools of the vicinity.

The short devotional service, conducted by Rev. W. E. Cockshott, included the observance of the two minutes' silence in memory of the fallen. The address, a gripping plea for peace, was given by J. Thomas, principal of the Cobble Hill High School. The "Last Post" and "Retreat" were sounded by Comrade Ward.

At the conclusion of the service, many beautiful poppy wreaths were placed on the Cenotaph. The arrangements for the service were in the hands of a combined committee from the I.O.D.E., Women's Institutes, Canadian Legion, Legion W.A., and Court Shawnigan A.O.F. Comrade C. Page acted as flag attendant. The congregation of St. John's Church kindly co-operated with the committee by postponing their regular service for half an hour.

AT GANGES

The impressive Remembrance Day service, held at the Cenotaph, Ganges Harbor, on Sunday, was attended by a large number of Island residents.

Assembling in the Agricultural Show Grounds and marching to the strains of the bagpipes, played by Captain Wilson, late of the Sixteenth Scottish, the Saltspring Island Platoon, "D" Company, Sixteenth Canadian Scottish, in charge of Lieutenant Desmond Crofton, reached the Cenotaph at 10:45 a.m. They were followed by many veterans of the Great War, and in turn Girl Guides, Brownies, Wolf Cubs, I.O.D.E. and other women's organizations completed the procession.

The service was taken by the vicar of the parish, Rev. C. H. Popham, and the lesson read by Rev. George Aitkens.

Prior to the bugle sounding Last Post and the two minutes' silence, Captain Wilson played "The Flowers of the Forest." Following Reveille, wreaths were placed on the Cenotaph by veterans, Girl Guides, Brownies, Wolf Cubs, Ganges Chapter I.O.D.E., Woman's Auxiliary, A.Y.P.A. and by many island residents.

Canadian Legion Veterans Attend Reunion Dinner

SALTSPRING ISLAND, Nov. 12.—The Saltspring Island branch of the Canadian Legion held its annual Armistice dinner on Saturday evening, at Harbor House, Ganges, about fifty veterans being present. The tables had been artistically decorated by Mrs. Frank Scott, in a color scheme of red, white and blue. Two large bowls of red carnations, blue daisies, white chrysanthemums and gypsophila were placed in the centre of the speakers' table, while among streamers of ivy, vases of the same flowers were arranged at intervals down the long tables. Candles of the same three shades, in red candlesticks, were interspersed with the flowers and [illegible], blue and red lights shone from the ceiling, helping towards the general tri-colored effect. Mr. Gavin C. Mouat was in the chair, and among the guests of honor were Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., and Captain H. Despard Twigg.

The proceedings commenced with the toast to "Fallen Comrades." The toast to "The King" was followed by "The Navy," proposed by V. Case Morris and replied to by Captain Maude; "The Army," proposed by Major F. C. Turner, D.S.O., and replied to by Col. Peck, who, in his short and interesting address, dealt with the work in connection with the pension tribunals. The toast to "The Flying Corps," proposed by Mr. Eric Springford, was replied to by Mr. W. T. A. Burkett. "The Guests," by Major Turner, was replied to by Captain Despard Twigg, who also gave a short speech on the forging ahead of the British Empire, conditions in Canada and the spirit of the times.

Logging Accident Has Fatal Result

NANAIMO, Nov. 12.—James Craig Carson, aged twenty-seven, born in Scotland and well-known member of the younger set of this city, died on the Gabriola Island ferry, en route to Nanaimo Hospital, on Sunday morning, soon after he sustained head injuries, while at work in the Beban Logging Camp, on Gabriola Island. He was loading logs, when a chain broke and struck him on the head, inflicting terrible injuries.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Carson, Wentworth Street, Nanaimo; five brothers, William, of Extension; James, Hugh, Benjamin and George, of Nanaimo; two sisters, Mrs. R. Buzzard, Duncan, and Mrs. W. Canguss, San Francisco.

Remains were brought to Jenkins Undertaking Chapel, Nanaimo, where it is expected Coroner Hickling will conduct an inquest, on Wednesday.

DIED AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO, Nov. 12. — William Wood, a resident of Nanaimo for the past forty years, died in the Vancouver General Hospital early on Saturday. He was seventy-one years of age. Besides his widow, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. E. O. Robathan, Chemainus, and one stepson, Fernie Willcox, of Vancouver.

Cougar Shot Near Road at Shirley

SHIRLEY, Nov. 12. — A young cougar was shot by E. H. Clark and his brother, Leslie, this week, between Muir Creek and Coal Creek, near the highway. There have been a few seen around lately, Ivan French having shot one also a few weeks ago.

Hubby and his wife on a motor tour, came to a quaint old-world village.

"Oh, John, dear!" she exclaimed, "do let us stop here for a while! I love villages like this, and the simple country folk."

John grimaced. "No fear," he said, firmly. "The last time I stopped here some youngsters stole my rear lamp, then the village policeman took my name and address for not having one. Eventually I was fined seven-and-six and they worked a dud half-a-crown on me in my change. Simple, you say? I don't think. I'm not taking any more chances. I've learnt my lesson."

CONTROL OF COLDS

For FEWER Colds

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

At the first warning sneeze, sniffle, or nasal irritation, quick! . . . apply Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. When used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages.

For SHORTER Colds

VICKS VAPORUB

If a cold has already developed, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest at bedtime. Mothers of two generations have learned to depend on its poultice-vapor action to help shorten a cold—and without the risks of "dosing."

Build RESISTANCE to Colds—by following the simple health rules that are also a part of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. It has been clinically tested by physicians—and proved in everyday home use by millions.

INJECTION OF VARICOSE VEINS

Notwithstanding all that has been published about the injection treatment of varicose veins there are still many individuals who are unwilling to undergo this simple treatment.

Formerly, when operation was the only known method, it meant going into hospital, undergoing the usual anaesthetic and a stay of three weeks in hospital. This consumed time and money, aside from the natural fear of operation. There was therefore some excuse for not having the varicose veins removed.

Today, however, there is really no reason why the great majority of people with varicose veins should be annoyed or disabled by them. The injection method is painless, means no loss of time from work, and the cost is not much more than the usual amounts paid for visits to the physician's office. A half dozen visits is usually sufficient to get rid of any varicose veins whether they are on the legs, or in the rectum where they are known as piles or hemorrhoids.

All that the injection method does is to put some substance into the veins, which irritates and inflames the lining—sodium salicylate, quinine and urethane and others. The injections are made two or more at a time, about twice a week. The inner lining of the vein first becomes inflamed from the caustic or irritating liquid that is injected, which causes congestion, the slowing up of any blood passing through it as some of the fibrin of the blood becoming deposited on the walls of the vein, and finally the vessel instead of being a tube becomes solid like a piece of cord or string.

The natural question to ask is what happens to the blood which should pass through these veins when these veins are destroyed and are just hard, solid, fibrous cords. Nature is so good to us that here as in so many other places in the body, the blood passes through other little vessels in the region, and the circulation of the part is thus maintained.

There are some cases where the injection treatment is not advisable—old persons in poor health; in cases where there is extensive swelling of the lower limbs; those who have recently suffered with inflammation of the veins—phlebitis.

SILVER SLIPPERS by Temple Bailey

CHAPTER XXXII

Adelaide Delafield was dying in in her old house in Baltimore. She had been born in that house, and it was, perhaps, fitting that she should come to it for the end.

It was a huge brown stone structure built in the days when Baltimore entertained in state and elegance for months at a time, without those flittings to Florida and California and Southern France which now made its hospitality intermittent. Since the Great War there had been less formality and fewer servants, not because Adelaide could not afford them, but because she didn't need them. Yet there had been enough left to make this business of dying a well-attended affair; besides the regular staff there were two trained nurses.

Nurses and servants had no power, however, to protect Adelaide from the wave of awful loneliness which swept over her when the doctor told her that the end was near. He had to tell her; there were business matters, the lawyers said, which must be settled, and Adelaide had not settled them.

"Is there anyone you wish to send for?" the doctor asked.

"No," the old woman said with bitterness, "I'll die alone."

Yet when she was really alone with Farley and the day nurse, she found herself wanting more than that. Was there anyone in the world who really loved her? She lay there thinking of the life she had lived in the old house. She saw herself a lonely little girl with a gay and widowed mother, who came in rustling black silk and shining jet, with creamy shoulders and a coronet of braids, and who leaned over the bed and kissed her, then went away to dinners and things, and at last to a wedding with a man who didn't like Adelaide, and whom Adelaide hated. So she was sent away to school, and came back to be married off so that she might be away from her stepfather and that she might not make her mother seem old by comparison with a tall young daughter.

After that Adelaide had worn rustling silks and earrings and had showed her own creamy shoulders, and had gone to dinners and cotillions, and after she had been married five years, her husband ran away with another woman and broke her heart.

"Since then I've been a hateful beast," said old Adelaide, lying in her bed. And she didn't know whether it was her own fault, or the fault of her mother, or the fault of the man she had married.

But late in the afternoon, as darkness came over the room, she whispered to herself, "If I had loved more . . . I might have been loved . . ."

"I'll Die Alone"

It was, perhaps, as near to repentance as Adelaide ever came. Yet the good Lord knew what was in her unhappy old heart.

It was then that she sent for Joan. "You know where she is, Farley. And say that she must come at once."

When Joan arrived Adelaide lay in the great French bed with silken hangings. The hangings were rose-color and so was the silken spread, and Adelaide wore a lace cap with a rose in it and a little jacket which matched the rose. All the things about her belonged to youth, yet there she was with her old, old face and her old, old heart and her longing for love.

She put up her arms to Joan. "Do you love me?"

"You know I do."

"Then . . . stay with me."

Joan knelt beside the bed and Adelaide closed her eyes, and after a while she said, "I am leaving you all my money. I made my will this morning."

"I am going to make you a rich woman, Joan. I'm not sure whether you will be any happier for having money. Perhaps if I had been poor . . . I might have been different," the tears ran down her old cheeks.

Joan drew the thin old body into her arms. "My dear," she crooned, "my dear . . ."

That night Adelaide died. There were many matters she had intended to talk over with Joan. She had wanted to talk about Drew Hallam. To say that he'd make as good a husband as any of them, and that Joan might as well marry him. But she didn't say it, she simply died with all the rose-colored lamps in her room lighted and with Joan's hand in hers.

And now Farley looked after Joan as she had looked after her mistress. She installed her in a suite of two rooms all done up in French gilt and ivory, with garlands on the walls and with satin draperies of faint pink and blue. The suite reflected Adelaide's taste twenty-five years ago after a year's residence in Paris.

Farley laid out Joan's things for the night, and drew the water for her bath, and while she brushed her hair, she talked about the plans for the funeral. "You'd better let me have some black dresses sent up early. You'll have to see Mrs. Delafield's lawyer, and Mr. Hallam and his sister will arrive on the afternoon train."

"Mr. Hallam . . .?"

"Yes. Mrs. Delafield had invited them for the week-end, before she knew how bad things were with her. Perhaps you won't want them?" The question seemed an innocent one, but Farley was watching Joan's face in the mirror.

It was a quiet face, with no sign upon it of self-consciousness. "I think you'd better get them long distance, Farley, and tell them what has happened. And ask them not to come until the day of the funeral."

"Yes, Miss Joan."

"And Farley . . . I am expecting Mrs. Sears tomorrow. I talked with her over the telephone, and she's taking the midnight train. She will stay with me for a time. You remember her, don't you?"

Farley remembered. She thought it rather foolish of Miss Joan to clutter up her new life with people like that. Farley knew that Joan was to have Adelaide's money. All the servants knew it, and the nurses. Farley had been the only person in the room at the time of the drawing of the will. She heard what Adelaide said to the lawyer, and after Adelaide's death there had seemed no reason why she should keep to herself what she had heard.

It was Friday night when Adelaide died. The funeral was to be on Monday. There were relatives to come on from the West. Adelaide had left implicit instructions as to what was to be done. The lawyers carried out the instructions, but Joan had enough on her mind. All day Saturday dressmakers and milliners came with the things Farley had ordered. The black clothes they brought hung like glorified scarecrows on hangers, and the black hats were perched everywhere like birds of evil omen.

When Penelope arrived, Joan lay exhausted on the chaise lounge, with Farley hovering over her.

"She is very tired," Farley said to Penelope. "I am hoping she can get some sleep."

"I don't want to sleep," Joan protested, and held out her arms to her good friend. "Oh, Penelope, how good to see you."

Farley left them with reluctance. She went to the next room and began to unpack Penelope's bag. Penelope followed her. "I'll do that," she said, and when Farley had gone. Penelope took off her traveling dress and put on her red blanket wrapper and went back to Joan. And Joan said: "Penelope, darling, how wonderful to see you look like that."

She did not try to explain why it was wonderful. She could hardly have told herself what she meant. It was only that in the big house she moved in a dream, and that all the people were dream people. And now Penelope had come and was real . . .!

Safe in Penelope's arms she cried and cried. "I don't know what makes me," she apologized. "I don't think I am crying for Aunt Adelaide. I—I think maybe she's happier. But I'm afraid. She left me all her money—this big house is mine and everything in it and all the servants. And the thought of it frightens me, even though I like it in a way. I wouldn't be human if I didn't. But it changes—everything. And you've got to stay with me, Penelope. I must have you. You will stay, won't you?"

Penelope promised. Yet in her heart she was saying, "She won't want me always. There'll be somebody else . . . Hallam, perhaps. Everybody will be after her. I can only pray the good Lord . . ."

She voiced some of her doubts, however. She spoke of the children. "They all sent love, and Priscilla said you had promised to come back for Christmas."

"Oh, I will. And we will carry presents to all of them." Joan sat up and began to plan for it. "I won't have to stop to think about what it will cost."

The two of them dressed presently for dinner and went down. The drawing-room was a frosty place with glittering prisms like icicles hanging from the chandeliers and with long mirrors like frozen lakes. The Moquet carpet had a pearly glimmer, and the furniture was in pale brocades. The pictures were etchings and pastels. The whole thing had a spectral aspect. Penelope thought of her golden-lighted living-room, her bright and beautiful kitchen. "Money couldn't make me live here long," she said.

Little Bedtime Stories

Wisdom Overcomes Anger

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When Reddy Fox discovered what had become of Jerry Muskrat, Reddy straightway lost his temper. Of all foolish things in this world, nothing is quite so foolish as losing one's temper. It is sometimes hard work not to, however. Then the only thing to do is to get over it as quickly as possible.

When Reddy found that hole at the end of the drainage ditch and knew that it was in this way that Jerry Muskrat had so fooled him, he flew into such a rage that he ground his teeth and made ugly sounding little snarls down in his throat. Without stopping to really think, he sprang forward with the idea of digging Jerry out. He was so angry that he felt that he must do something.

Just in time common sense whispered to him: "You know well enough that you can't dig him out, so what is the use of trying?"

Reddy paused and tried to swallow his anger. "That is perfectly true," muttered Reddy. "There is no knowing how far that tunnel goes. Besides it is very wet here and I would get myself all muddy for nothing. The thing for me to do is not to let Jerry Muskrat know that I know about this hole of his. Then all I will have to do will be to watch it and sooner or later I will catch him. A little patience, a little watchful waiting, is all that is necessary. I think, Mr. Jerry Muskrat, that this is the time I have got you."

Reddy jumped up on the bank and chose a comfortable place where he could lie down and still keep his eyes fixed on the entrance to Jerry Muskrat's tunnel. He was quite sure that Jerry could not possibly see him, even if he were suspicious and looked all around before coming out. The longer he lay there the more glad he felt that he had not let his temper get the best of him and so give him away. Wisdom had overcome temper and Reddy was glad of it. He knew right down in his heart that his chances of success were much greater than they would have been had he foolishly tried to dig Jerry out.

Reddy Straightway Lost His Temper

All the time Jerry Muskrat was snug and safe in the little chamber way up in the bank where he had begun to store away the carrots which he had stolen from Farmer Brown's garden. He didn't know he had stolen them, so he shouldn't be blamed for that. You see the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest think they have a right to whatever they may find that somebody else has not already taken. So when they take things from gardens and orchards they do not know that they are stealing. Please remember this if they ever bother you in this way.
